ABOUT ABANDONED BABY.

Some Facts About The Case and a Little Comment, Too.

On Friday, December 29th, a young girl boarded the train at Fayetteville, trial of civil and criminal docket, will *00*00*00*00*00*00* carrying a number of bundles, the ticket she gave the conductor giving 15th. Siler City as the place of her desti-nation. When the train stopped there at three o'clock on the same date, she alighted and hastened away, secured a car and drove rapidly to her e a three weeks-old baby girl, peacefully sleeping. Every attention was shown the little miss until the train of course the hand of the law entered into the fateful drama, and by the time communication from the city of Greensboro reached Siler City, the officers were on the trail of the apparently heartless mother. However, she had given them the slip by going to Ore Hill the next day, where she boarded the train and returned to Fayetteville. The officials in that city had been notified to watch for her with the result that she was arrested on Monday night of last week.

Deputy C. H. Crutchfield of this county went to Fayetteville and brought her back on Thursday after-

The young girl gave her name to the officials in Fayetteville as Mrs Leon Wellons, this being the name of a young man in that city who had befriended her following her arrival there from Raleigh, early in December, just a few days before the little baby was born.

During an interview, since the girl mother returned, she has confessed that she was not married and gave a clear and detailed story of her downfall, and named the father of he

After having heard the story, one is compelled to pity rather than censor, the young mother, she being bareseventen years old, and with whom nature and circumstances have not dealt with lavishly. Answering as she did a number of direct questions, makes it difficult, indeed, to conclude that the girl is wilfully bad, but rather that she yielded to a temptation for the material reward it would bring With her eyes overflowing with tears the young mother declared her loe for the baby and expressed desire to have it back. "Then why did you abandon it after starting here with it?" she was asked. "Because I just couldn't face the people ere who knew me and the folks

It was necessary, of course, that the girl should be locked up or put in the care of someone until she was brought before the court. She was rather inclined to be confined in the iail or elsewhere rather than give a bond, but a more satisfactory arrangement was finally made, whereby she was taken in charge by Mr. and Mrs. John W. Johnson at the new county home, where she will remain until court next week.

An appeal will be made to have the girl sent to Samarcand, the state institution for unfortunate girls, and thus help her to make amends, rub out and retrieve, and forget her mis-

In the hour of her extremity this girl undertook the old method to cover her sins. She is to be pitied beyond expression, in view of the fact that her downfall was effected purely through a monetary consideration. The editor of this paper has softened up considerably since he learned the full circumstances of the downfall of Miss Walters. The heartless, cruel, sinful scoundrel that we would be glad to harpoon is the civiv engineer who caused her to leave the paths of rectitude by the glaring sheckels that he possessed, and of which she was in sore need, and that he passed to her as a reward for character, her virtue, her very Folks, this young woman was recognized in her wayward way some ten months. What was done at that time strengthen her impulses for the right? You, who knew her, did you give her a parental talk and advise her that the culmination of her conduct was hell itself?

She confesses that she needed a friend at the time of her undoing, and that she was hungry for some good, matron to rescue her, but all she got was evasion. At that time she neded the strength and support of older heads, the moral support of virtuous people, but she received condemnation and scorn, "She asked for bread and received a stone.

"Too late," did you say. Well, not to our mind. We recall that Jesus Christ said, "Let him without guilt, cast the first stone.'

We want to say as an appendix to this tragedy, that following this girlmother and pointing the finger of derision at her, or spiteful allusion on those who have loaned her a heart love and tenderness, does not reflect credit or good manners on the part of anyone. Our Bible says, "one of the least of these."

HEARD ON THE STREETS.

(The Printer's Devil.)

"Did you ever notice the difference in people of a country town and those in a city," asked a gentleman who notices things. "Take, for instance, people living here and hereabouts. Watch them as they walk the streets of the town and see what a slow motion they carry themselves. They walk as if they had plenty of time and nothing to bother them when they got to the corner or where they were going."

"Now, go over to Raleigh, or Durham, or Greensboro. See the difference in the walk of these people-always in a hurry. Bound to get where they are going at a specified time. If they walked the same gait that our people do, half or many of them would

"I see the "devil" wrote something about sidewalks in your alst issue," remarked one of our older citizens yesterday. "Well, they are bad," he continued, "but did you notice that the streets are in a worse condition. Take east Salisbury street, leading from Hillsboro to the depot. Thousands of dollars have been spent on that street alone. My idea, to have a good street, is to make it good at a feet of Pares that street with a sacrificial devotion. They suffered together.
