Another Blow.
Marjorie and Eddie, twins, had both been told that they must write letters of thanks for their holiday presents they had just received. Marjorie sat down and quickly wrote:
"Thank you so much for the fountain pen. It's what I've always needed."
Meanwhile Eddie was chewing the end of his penholder for an inspiration. As his sister laid aside her first letter, he surreptitiously glanced at it. Then he wrote:
"Thank you so much for the handkerchiefs. They're what I've always needed."

Forgot All About It.
In Indianapolis is a certain "old boy" who delights to see a boxing match. A friend gave him a ticket to the matches in Tomlinson hall Thanksgiving afternoon. The boxing fan, joyous over the prospect, went to see a doctor, did a few errands, absorbed in a matter of little consequence and—as he put it—"bedogged if I didn't go home and forget all about the fights until after they were all over!"—Indianapolis News.

An Understanding of Holly.
A mother and her two sons, age five and three, were shopping. Entering a downtown store the children became very quiet, and Dick took hold of his brother's hand, admonishing him not to make any noise "in here as some one must be dead." They had noticed the holly wreaths tied with ribbons that were a part of the Christmas decoration in the store.

Important to All Women Readers of This Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and maybe despondent; it makes any one so. But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions. Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by parcel post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

Lenin's Remorse.

"Mr. Bolus was a druggist. He made a mistake in a prescription one day and killed a man. When the terrible tidings were brought to him he cried out in great agony:
"Oh, wretch that I am—and my best customer, too!"

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BILLIE BROWNIE'S CALLS

"I must make some calls today," said Billie Brownie as he brushed off his best brown suit, which he saved for calling, and his finest brown stocking cap. So Billie Brownie started off to visit the zoo. He talked to the animals and heard of those who would have gone to sleep for the winter if they had not been in the zoo. The snakes and the bears told him they would have gone to sleep for the winter if they had not been in the zoo, but that in the zoo they were fed regularly. They told him that when they were free they ate a great deal in the fall and so could go without eating for a while. And the zoo was warm, too, which made a difference, for then they did not have to look for a warm place as they did when they were free. And the warmest thing to do in the wintertime when free was to sleep. That was what a good many of the animals had said. The prairie dogs told him that they slept in the wintertime whether they were in the zoo or not and that they dug holes and went down to sleep in them as soon as the cold weather came along. Then, after Billie Brownie had visited the zoo animals he went to call on many of the fur-coated animals. He talked to those who did not mind the winter, such as the rabbits and the muskrats and the squirrels. They told of so many things they did and they seemed surprised he hadn't noticed all their little tricks before, for they weren't trying to hide them, they told him. Then Billie Brownie met some of the little birds who were on their way to visit Miss Springtime. "We're going further North," they told him. He had a word with the quiet Rusty Grackle bird family and with the Robins he had a long talk. The Song Sparrows were on their way to prepare for the springtime and so were the Blackbirds and the Bluebirds and the Meadow Larks. "We birds," said Mrs. Robin, "flutter our wings when we're receiving food from the Mr. Robins just as the babies do."

"So many birds wave and flutter their wings just as people would jump up and down for joy or because of excitement. "Mr. Rooster flaps his wings before he begins to crow as though he wanted to let everybody know that he was going to do something quite important. "Oh, yes, we birds have our ways and our signs and our wings show expression just as people's faces, too, will show expression. "But Billie Brownie," said Mrs. Robin, "you're calling almost between seasons, aren't you?" "It's not winter and yet it's not spring."

"Yes," said Billie Brownie, "for I like to watch Old Man Winter give over the next season to Miss Springtime. "I like to watch them do it. Sometimes they take a long time about it and they do act so amusingly. "Old Man Winter will say to Miss Springtime: "Oh, do take this season. I'm quite through. I really must be going. "And Miss Springtime will say: "Oh, no, Old Man Winter. I'm sure I'm in no hurry at all. Do take your time. Don't let me hurry you. "That is the way they often act. Sometimes they are really in a hurry but this is usually the way they do," ended Billie Brownie as he smiled. And Mrs. Robin looked at Billie Brownie out of her eye and then gave him a knowing wink. "I understand, Billie Brownie. You and I understand."

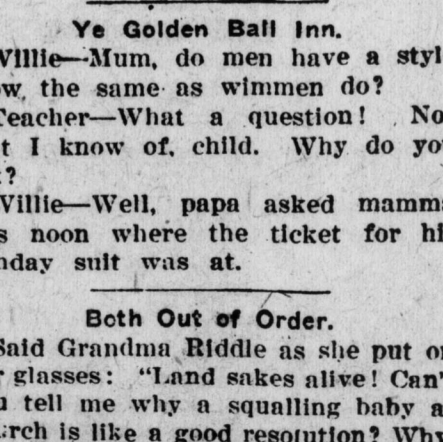

Ye Golden Ball Inn.
Willie—Mum, do men have a style show the same as women do?
Teacher—What a question! Not that I know of, child. Why do you ask?
Willie—Well, papa asked mamma this noon where the ticket for his Sunday suit was at.

Both Out of Order.
Said Grandma Riddle as she put on her glasses: "Land sakes alive! Can't you tell me why a squalling baby at church is like a good resolution? Why, both should be carried out, of course."

Off to school on a winter morning
—fresh and rosy—or pinched and chilly? That's a matter for Mother to decide. Children, as well as grown-ups, need a hot mealtime beverage that is wholesome, invigorating, and free from harmful after-effects. Coffee is known to be harmful—especially to children. That is why so many thoughtful mothers give their children delicious Postum. This pure cereal beverage gives needed warmth and comfort, has delightful flavor and aroma, and is free from anything that can injure the health of children or adults. Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared; made by boiling fully 20 minutes.

ALL HE WANTED TO KNOW

Merchant Evidently Believed in the Saying, "It Isn't What You Used to Be."
Some time ago a young man went to a great store in Chicago to apply for a position and was fortunate enough to be shown into the office of the merchant prince himself, to whom he stated the object of his call. The merchant was favorably impressed with his appearance and address, and after asking him a few questions, relative to his business experience, promised him a place in his employ. But the caller, who evidently had expected to be more rigorously catechized, thought it best to volunteer additional information. "If you wish," he began, "to know something of my antecedents—" "I don't care to know anything about your antecedents, young man," interrupted the merchant with a smile. "If your subsequents are all right, you'll do. You may report to Mr. Splith next Monday."—From Everybody's Magazine.

Social Ambitions.

The cook told the woman that the caretaker was not behaving as he should. "He's after a woman," she explained. "Just crazy to think himself loved by several women to make 'em jealous and all." He has always been such a quiet, innocuous looking individual. "But why this change in him?" the woman asked. "Oh, it's because of them newspaper stories," the cook replied. "He thinks if he leads a gay life he is gettin' up in the world—gettin' more in the society world. That's what is eatin' him. He ain't satisfied to be a plain man no more."—Chicago Journal.

Defensive Tactics.

The accused—There's the lawyer we stuck up. It's all up wit' us. He's goin' to testify against us. His Accomplie—Not this time, he won't. I've hired him to defend us.

WAR TAUGHT PEOPLE THRIFT

One Good Effect, at Least, Came as Result of the Gigantic World Conflict. While Christmas savings clubs originated about 15 years ago, the World War is credited with the tremendous growth recently in the number of depositors, and, of course, the totals of savings. The weekly payment system for Liberty bonds, regular purchases of Thrift and War Savings stamps and more or less regular frequent contributions to the war funds got the average American into the habit of putting aside something out of the pay envelope. Employers adopted the system of taking the payments out of the salary, and as the amounts were only a dollar or two a week, it wasn't missed so much," explained a Hyde Park banker to the Woman. "When it was all over employees generally realized how easy it was to save. They just got the habit, and the Christmas club idea was almost doubled in a year's time, 1920 to 1921, in membership." This year there were 5,000,000 depositors and deposits of $190,000,000.

Better Not.

Stephen Fuller, a familiar figure about the courthouse, tells a story about his niece, six years old, relates the Indianapolis Star. The niece was busily engaged memorizing a Christmas poem, aided by her proud relatives. One line of the poem went something like this: "Old Santa comes speeding o'er the snow—" "He'll get arrested if he don't watch out, for speeding," interrupted the little girl. After the laughter of her admirers had quieted she suddenly spoke up. "But Lew Shank better not arrest Santa Claus if he knows what's good for him."

It Did Then.

"Doesn't her singing move you?" "It did once when I lived in the adjoining flat."

KNOWN WHAT HE WAS DOING

Obvious Advantages in This Gentleman's Manner of Wearing His Diamond Ring. The gentleman, obviously of Hebrew extraction, had assembled his friends round the festive board. After having discussed satisfactorily the various delicacies provided for their delectation they were called upon to admire and appraise all his new and numerous possessions. But of all the latter the one of which he was most proud was a truly magnificent ring, which, however, was so turned as to display the diamond on the inside of his hand. His brethren noticed this peculiarity and one of them remonstrated: "Vy, Isaac," he said, "it is a good ring—I never saw a better. But it is on the wrong way round." Isaac gave him a look of eloquent pitying contempt. "Oh, what nonsense you do talk me," he replied. "I ask you, Cohen. Does one talk like this (holding out his hands, palm downwards), or like this? (palm upwards)."—Buffalo Express.

Quite Likely.

"Anne married a self-made man," said Boris. "Yes, but she has compelled him to make extensive alterations," replied Queente.—Stray Stories.
