

Why Farmers are Turning to

In 1922 Chevrolet jumped from seventh to second place in sales of all cars, and to first place in sales of fully equipped modern cars.

Purchases by farmers were the chief factor in this remarkable development.

Farmers want automobiles not only of low first price, but also of low later cost for operation and maintenance.

They want room, comfort, and the ability to stand up under hard conditions.

They find that Chevrolet, fully equipped as sold, is the best value per dollar in the low-priced field, and neighbors tell them it costs less per mile to operate.

CALLS FOR NEW DICTIONARY

New York Newspaper Condemns the Present Ones as Cumbersome and Disconcerting.

Like many books called classics, which we speak of reverently and never look at, the dictionary of our language seems to be falling into disuse; we seldom consult it. If a strange word "swims into our ken" we regard it as an impertinence or we use it as a kind of game; we argue about it, discuss it, and perhaps write to the newspapers for a definition, but we don't consult the dictionary.

Perhaps the reason for our neglect is that the unabridged dictionary is too cumbersome and it gives too many meanings, though thin papers cut the ordinary bulk. Simple words therein are found to be both noun and verb (spelled alike), and sometimes they have more than a dozen distinct meanings. This is disconcerting. There may be room for a dictionary with the obsolete and archaic words left out, a true Twentieth-century dictionary that shall be fool-proof.—New York Herald.

Would Do Her Best.

Charles M. Schwab says that his neighbors are forever trying to sell him things. Not long ago one man tried to sell him a cow. When Mr. Schwab inquired about the breed and age of the animal he did not receive very satisfactory answers. Finally he asked, "How much milk does she give?"

"Mr. Schwab, I don't know," was the reply, "but she's a darn good-natured cow and she'll give all she can."—Boston Transcript.

Talkative.

"Your friend seems quite talkative." "Yes. There's many a dull minute when he's about."

Too Deep.

"Dearest, what recipe are you studying?" "Deep dish apple pie." "With what progress?" "It's too deep for me."—Judge.

CONCERNING THE NEW TOOTH

Seemed to Mary Louise a Possibility That it Might Not Be White in Color.

With the possible exception of her debut in the world of elocution, when she "spoke a piece" from the teacher's desk at "last-day exercises," the greatest single event in Mary Louise's life was the loss of her first tooth. She was seated at the side of her Aunt Evelyn, pensively exploring, with an inquisitive little pink tongue, the gap left by the missing incisor. Suddenly she broke the silence:

"Aunt Ebbie, I wonder what color my new tooth will be when it comes in?"

"Why, white, I suppose," replied her aunt, puzzled at the question, "Why?"

"Well, you know," answered Mary Louise with a sophisticated raising of her eyebrows, "you know grandma has a gold one!"

It is usually the girl who never had a proposal who boasts of having jilted a number of men.

NEVER KNEW FEAR AT AGE 71, FINDS HOUSEWORK EASY

"Dad" Ross Typical Gun Fighter of the Old West.

First Acquired Fame as Coach Guard in 1867, and Added to It Later by Routing Train Robbers.

Aaron Y. Ross, "Dad" Ross, "Hold-the-Fort" Aaron he was variously called, and he was familiarly known throughout a large part of the West, although he was born at Old Town, Me., this old guard of stage-coach days, who recently died in Ogden City, Utah, in the home of his daughter, and surrounded by all of his children.

Born in 1829, he fought Indians and repulsed the attacks of robbers on his bullion car, in true 1922 movie manner, only, in his case, it was the real thing, as the old man who passed away quietly at ninety-three lived and moved and had his being in some of the roughest spots of a rough West.

An issue of the Wells-Fargo publication contains a brief sketch of the career of this old guard of the early stage-coach and pioneer railroad days. In 1856 he went in a sailing vessel to California. Later in the same year he was looking for gold in Sutter creek, and he followed mining as an occupation in California, Oregon and Idaho until 1867, when he became stage driver and guard for the Wells-Fargo organization.

He was on his route between Fort Benton and Sun river in 1867 when 25 Indians swooped down upon his coach. Ross defended the treasure and lives under his care with shotgun and pistol. After a running battle of several miles, the Indians withdrew less five of their number, who were dead.

At another time an outlaw named Baker, with his gang, rode up to the coach at Silver Star, along the Stinking Water River route, and commanded Ross to throw up his hands. Ross answered with cold lead and the outlaw and his companions retired, severely wounded. Aaron Ross also had another encounter with a bandit, this time accounting for Jack Davis. In killing this well known highwayman, Ross saved the driver of his coach. This was on an overland stage route through Nevada.

In 1883 "Hold-the-Fort" Aaron left San Francisco as guard of an express car containing $80,000 in gold bullion. At 7 o'clock in the morning at Montello, Nev., the train was attacked by a band of robbers who uncoupled the other cars and ordered the engineer to pull the express car up the track.

Ross busied himself fortifying the doors of his car with boxes, trunks and packages. Finally commanded by Hayes, the leader of the gang, to surrender, under threat of being burned out of the car if he didn't, he said he'd see the gang in "a hotter place" than they would make by burning the car before he'd surrender. At the end of a five-hour battle the old guard was still in possession of the car and the treasure, although the former was almost reduced to kindling wood by the rain of bullets. One robber was dead and three were wounded. The gang retired, the train was connected up and continued to Ogden. The four remaining robbers were captured south of Great Salt Lake and were returned to Nevada and given sentences ranging from 20 to 40 years.

One thousand dollars in gold was given to Ross, who also received a $650 watch, specially made, and engraved with his name and a brief record of his deed, the award in recognition of his bravery being accompanied by a letter of praise from the general superintendent of the Wells-Fargo organization.

Heartless Family.

There had been a severe thunderstorm in the night, and old Mrs. Cocker had, for a wonder, slept through it. Usually she rose, lighted her room, dressed herself and sat down in a chair, whose legs were set in glass tumblers.

Instead of being grateful that she had not been aware of the storm, the old lady was filled with wrath when she heard of it the next morning.

"I declare, I should think I was boarding instead of living amongst my own folks!" she said. "Wasn't there one of my children or grandchildren that thought enough of me to wake me? There I might have been struck by lightning in my sleep and never known what killed me!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

An Eye to Business Early.

Millionaires will never be lacking if there are more children with the business sense displayed after a recent rainstorm by a boy at the entrance to Crotona park in the Bronx.

Directly off the steps is a sewer that became clogged. As a result the torrents remained to form a lake one block long and nearly a foot deep.

No sooner had the downpour ceased when a youngster was seen dragging through the water an old tin bathtub used for washing babies. Charging one cent a ride down the block in his non-sinkable "boat," he soon accumulated enough to pass himself and his brother into a nearby movie house.—New York Sun.

Discouraged Insects.

"How are the mosquitoes out your way?"

"We haven't any," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "So many summer boarders have been experimentin' with bootleg products that the skeeters would rather starve than come near 'em."

Mrs. Jennings Says Tanlac Restored Strength After "Flu" Attack and Ended Stomach Trouble.

"I was almost an invalid and Tanlac built me up to a strong, well woman. I consider it my best friend," is the grateful and characteristic statement of Mrs. Emma Jennings, residing at Clearwater, Cal.

"An attack of the grippe left me completely broken down. My stomach felt sick, my legs and arms so tired and weak I could hardly use them, and I scarcely had energy and strength to dress myself. I just kept getting weaker in spite of all I could do and, as I am seventy-one, I had begun to think my age was against me ever getting well.

"Almost from the day I began taking Tanlac I commenced to feel stronger. So I kept picking up with every bottle until now I am easily doing all my housework, for I am feeling fine. I wouldn't be without Tanlac in the house. It is just grand."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—Advertisement.
