W.L. London & Son

We are as busy this week as a one-eyed boy at a two ring circus. Our business has outgrown our present location and we had to have a larger store and we are moving to the location recently occupied by Little & Farrell, in the Blair Hotel building. Here we will be better enabled to serve our growing patronage.

Next week we expect to give you a message of interest in this paper and we trust that you will read it. Come around and see us in the new location.

In the meantime don't disappoint yourself by buying inferior goods at low prices. Quality demands its price and we have the values in our store.

If She Trusts You, We Will

We are willing to trust you with the furniture if the young lady is willing to trust her destiny in your care. We make it a point to be liberal and show every consideration to newly married people. We will get your bill of goods up and for a small consideration as a cash payment we will carry the balance over to your satisfaction. When you consider that we are selling furniture on a very close margin of profit, it is a big consideration for us to give you these terms, and we want to do business in a business way and we realize that service is the forward word these busy times.

When you are ready to make a purchase whether small or large, just drop around and let us quote you prices and show you the goods.
