HER SENTIMENT IS TOUCHED.
 Gray Head Feels The Same Influence As Carr in Article Last Week.
 Editor Chatham Record:—In your paper last week there was an article, headed "Later Love."
 There is so much human nature in the piece, I feel as though I would like to shake the hand of the author, C. S. Carr, and tell him the world is full of just such men.
 And it is nearer no love at all. Yes, I am of the faith that true love never dies, and were it not for the laws of the state there would be lots of old women replaced by younger ones.
 This writer could bring a whoop! and there would be some to hear me that never get a word of sympathy or love for anything they do and they are doing all their house work, washing, cleaning, just as they did when they were young and physically able. Now they are worn with hard work, and gray—raised a large family of children, and the older and more feeble they get, the more they have to do.
 Some men seem to think that an old woman needs nothing but wood and water, and that is all that some are getting. I heard one say she had to do so many things and turn so often that she had a swimming in her head most of the time. She never gets to visit, not even near neighbors, trying to keep up with her work, get the meals on time and keep her husband from complaining. She never hears him say "do you want to go to church, or to see some of the neighbors or friends." She never gets from home for a few minutes. He always says there is too much to be done, you haven't the time to waste. He can go most anytime—nothing to bother, and when someone asks him why his wife did not come, he will tell them she was poorly or some lying excuse to keep the public from knowing the kind of a slave she is. The poor, dejected creature will not tell anyone either. She is ashamed for them to know what she lives in and the hardships she endures. Nothing pretty in the house—same old furniture they started with years before. He makes money on many things, but it takes it all to keep him and the stock up; none to get anything for home or the frail old woman who has enslaved herself all these years. No new dresses or anything to cheer the old, gray and worn woman of the home.

 The woman must keep up everything for the house herself, pay her preacher and thousands of other little things with a bunch of hens to lay eggs to bear the expense. When the hens don't lay her revenue stops until they lay again.
 No, don't guess the man I am talking about lives over in Africa. He lives right here in Chatham county, in Center township, North Carolina. GRAY HEAD.

SUCCESS.
 'Tis the coward who quits to misfortune,
 'Tis the knave who changes each day,
 'Tis the fool who wins half the battle,
 Then throws all his chances away.
 There is little in life but labor,
 And tomorrow may find that a dream
 Success is the bride of Endeavor,
 And luck—but a meteor's gleam.
 The time to succeed is when others,
 Discouraged, show traces of tire,
 The battle is fought in the home-stretch—
 And won—twixt the flag and the wire!
 —John Trotwood Moore.

CERTIFICATE OF DISSOLUTION.
 State of North Carolina, Department of State.
 To All to whom these presents may come—Greeting:
 Whereas, it appears to my satisfaction, by duly authenticated record of the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution thereof by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders, deposited in my office that the Little & Farrell Company, a corporation of this State, whose principal office is situated in the town of Pittsboro, county of Chatham, State of North Carolina (E. A. Farrell, Secretary being the agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served,) has complied with the requirements of Chapter 22, Consolidated Statutes entitled "Corporations," preliminary to the issuing of this certificate of dissolution:
 Now, therefore, I, W. N. Everett, Secretary of State of the State of North Carolina, do hereby certify that the said corporation did, on the 12th day of July, 1923, file in my office a duly executed and attested consent in writing to the dissolution of said corporation, executed by all the stockholders thereof, which said consent and the record of the proceedings aforesaid are now on file in my said office as provided by law.
 In testimony whereof, I have here to set my hand and affixed by official seal at Raleigh, this 12th day of July, A. D. 1923.
