

BRICKHAVEN NEWS.

Correspondent Disapproves of Devastation of Old Fort Raleigh by Road Builders.

(Crowded out last week)
Brickhaven October 6.—Miss Mary Bland spent the week-end at Laurinburg.

Miss Annie Utley is in Southern Pines this week.
Mr. J. C. Seawell was the week-end guest of relatives in Moore county.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Kennedy and Mrs. T. J. Harrington motored to Siler City today. They comprised the committee for arranging the exhibits from lower Cape Fear at the county fair.

Miss Fannie Johnson, who has been visiting friends and relatives here, returned to her home in Morrisville today.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Utley and their children of Durham were here as visitors last Sunday.
Brickhaven had several representatives at the Raleigh Circus last Thursday.

days. The number bales ginned exceeds the output of the other gins in the surrounding territory so far.

The majority of our Sunday School members attended the Evangelistic meeting at the Corinth School house Sunday afternoon, but the few eighteen to be exact that were present enjoyed the Sunday school hour. Remember the hour next Sunday is 10:30. Again, let's not forget the library is for the community and it is not just for members of the Sunday School. Anyone who wishes to do so may have access to the library and books may be taken any day except Saturday. The teachers, Misses Bland and Wilkie, have charge of the library on school days. Mr. Hannon is the official librarian.

Rev. and Mrs. Blalock of Aberdeen were week-end guests here of Mrs. O. C. Kennedy. Mr. Blalock, who is the pastor of the Moncure Baptist church and an earnest, efficient leader winning approbation of all who hear him.

One of the most delightful entertainments that we have had here was the program presented by the school. Friday evening, September 26 by Mrs. Charles Doak of Raleigh. The selections were both serious and humorous and so well were the interpretations given that it was hard to tell which type pleased the audience more. Aside from her ability and evident talent as a reader, Mrs. Doak is a charming gracious woman, and we shall always be delighted to have her with us.

The Betterment Association met Wednesday afternoon and decided to have the annual bazaar this time on Friday evening before Thanksgiving, instead of on Saturday as formerly. Everyone who is interested in the school is urged to donate one or more articles. It is hoped that this may be the best and biggest bazaar that we have yet had.

Of course we believe that the world is growing better as a whole, but the recent almost utter devastation of old Fort Raleigh by representatives of the Highway Commission is enough to make one wonder if we are losing respect and reverence for worth-while things. This site should be held sacred in the minds and hearts of all sincere patriots, for it is a reminder of the heroic attempt of those first pioneers who dared and did so much to inspire those who did succeed in founding settlements that eventually developed into our own great America of today. While the work of destruction does not seem to be the fault of anyone individual, it does seem an act of abject carelessness and is most certainly very regrettable.

CAVINESS-JONES NUPTIALS.

Bear Creek Rt 3, Oct. 13.—Mr. W. Wesley Caviness of McConnell Rt 1 and Miss Annie Jones of Fall Creek, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Caviness of McConnell, Rt. 1. He has been working at Winston-Salem, and Durham.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jones of Fall Creek. She has held a position in a cotton mill at High Falls for quite a while.

We extend our heartiest congratulations and wish them many years of happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Jones and sons, Arnold and Leon, were visitors in this community Sunday.

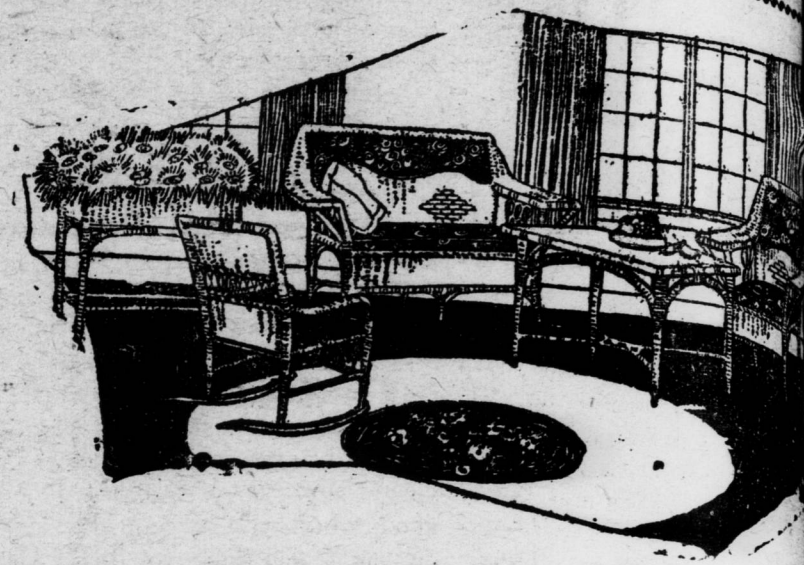

Mr. Avery Powers, who has been at Greensboro for some time, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Powers.

Misses Blanche and Josie Albright, who have been working in High Falls Cotton mill, spent Sunday with home folks.

Sunday night brought to a close the revival at Pine Mountain which has continued for three weeks.

There will be "Mothers Day" service held at Beulah Baptist church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

EVERY BALE of cotton dumped on the market is a bale that helps the speculative interests.
