George Gray, tinsmith recluse, dweller in the railroad yards of Dallas, Texas, ignores a legacy of $25,000 to remain with his soldering tools and his sheet iron shelter tent. The money was left Gray by a former customer and he was told four years ago to call at the county clerk's office to get it. He refuses to go after it, saying he will wait for it to be brought to him. He is still waiting.

LINCOLN FAMILY FACTS REVEALED

Found in Records of Berks County, Pennsylvania.

Springfield, Ill.—The Lincoln tradition of Berks county, Pennsylvania, reviewed by the recent death of Robert Todd Lincoln, the Emancipator's last surviving child, has caused renewed historical researches into the Berks county records of early days.

Ancestors of Robert Todd Lincoln, it was found, played a leading part in the historical and political affairs of the county during the latter part of the Eighteenth century, one of them serving in the state legislature a few years after the Revolutionary war.

The first Lincolns came into Chester county from New Jersey about 1720. These early arrivals were Mordecai and his brother Abraham.

Mordecai's family comprised four children, Mordecai, Thomas, "Virginia John" and Abraham, born after his father's death. "Virginia John" was the great-great-grandfather of Robert Todd Lincoln.

After the death of Mordecai the four sons moved to Berks county and the county records still show the extent of the influence which the family exerted in the affairs of the county. Mordecai and his wife, Mary, were owners of property in Reading, and Thomas was elected county sheriff in 1753.

The younger Abraham, however, was the politician of the time. From 1772 to 1779 he served as county commissioner. Later he was elected to the state assembly and he represented the county during 1782, 1783, 1784 and 1785.

At the close of the Revolutionary war he was chosen to make an address to General Washington on a visit to Philadelphia. On the original draft of the Pennsylvania constitution of 1790 his signature is found as a member of the constitutional convention from Berks county.

Between the years of 1765 and 1768 "Virginia John," fired by the exploits of Daniel Boone, son of a neighboring farmer, left the county and moved to Virginia. Some years later Abraham, a son, the great-grandfather of Robert, left Virginia for Larue county, Kentucky.

In the meantime a romance had grown up between Abraham and Anna Doene, cousin of Daniel Boone. Their wedding met with rebuke in the little Quaker settlement, and it was not until she acknowledged her error publicly that the disgrace of her marriage "out of meeting" was forgiven.

Bar Men Dancers

Mantua, Italy.—Men in the province of Mantua have been forbidden to dance in public during summer. The prefect in issuing the prohibition said his action was taken for hygienic and moral reasons.

Listen, Mothers

Philadelphia.—Mothers who smoke, listen to Prof. L. A. Higley of Wheaton college. He believes your children are liable to physical handicaps in early youth.

How Come?

Newport, R. I.—An official description of gems stolen from the home of Cornelius Vanderbilt mentions, in addition to pearls, diamonds and rubies, a "lipstick badly scratched."

Fall Is Fatal

Geneva, N. Y.—Falling several feet off the back porch of her home, Mrs. Minnie Jeffrey suffered injuries which resulted in her death.

GERMANY WOULD BUY MALMEDY AND EUPEN

Dickers With Belgium for Return of Cantons.

Washington.—Belgium considers selling to Germany, according to cable reports, the two border cantons of Malmédy and Eupen.

"If cable facts in the transaction are correct, this deal in international real estate equals any flights of fancy prices in America," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington.

"Belgium has been the owner of Eupen and Malmédy for six years. They are both hill towns. The first has 14,000, and the second 4,000 inhabitants, and the whole 382 square miles of territory contains not more than 60,000 people. The wooded countryside offers no such rich agricultural perspective as the fertile Belgian plain farther west. The hills contain no minerals of importance. Yet the tentative price is reported to be 1,000,000,000 gold marks. At current rates of exchange this is equal to approximately $40,000,000, which is a six-year profit any American realtor can appreciate.

Two Towns Near Liege.

"No one of the present generation can forget Liege, so it is easy to locate Eupen and Malmédy by fixing the former 25 miles east, and the latter 25 miles southeast, of that martyred Belgian town. Eupen can almost claim to be suburb of Aix-la-Chapelle, or Aachen, as the Germans call it. From Eupen the Germans stepped across the border on August 5, 1914. Malmédy is farther south along the German-Belgium frontier, which is only 40 miles long. Directly across the line from Malmédy is Spa. Not a spa, but The Spa, whose health springs attracted crowned heads of Europe during the first part of the Nineteenth century.

"At Versailles, in 1918, Belgium wanted 14 cantons in the so-called Eifel district of Germany adjoining the Belgian border. She claimed them as lost Walloon territory taken by Prussia by the treaty of Vienna in 1815. Belgium is half Walloon and half Flemish. The Walloon half is the forested uplands nearest France. Walloon speech resembles French and the religion is Catholic. Flemings, on the other hand, live in the fertile plain, are Protestants, and speak a Dutch language. At one time, Walloon families may have outnumbered all others in 'beyond the border' cantons, but the Germans changed that. Indeed, Eupen, a wool weaving center, is said to be German now but Malmédy, isolated in the hills, is still Walloon. Five Hundred People Without a Country.

"Neighbor to Malmédy and Eupen is Moresnet, which is a freak of border barter. In neutral Moresnet live 500 men, women and children without a country.

"The town sits over a zinc mine which has been worked for hundreds of years. When it came to laying a border line neither Belgium nor Germany would consent to the other owning Moresnet and its mine. They compromised to create neutral Moresnet. It is not a state, yet it belongs to no one. Moresnet is measured in acres instead of square miles, 1,400 acres, according to one authority, and 800 acres according to another. One year it has a German burgo-master, the next a Belgian burgo-master. Customs revenue is collected by German agents and divided between the two countries.

"Moresnet came near to being overcrowded shortly before the World war because its inhabitants, being citizens of no country, did not have to serve in the army. Belgians and Germans wishing to escape military service flocked to Moresnet until the two god-parent countries put a stop to that. A glimpse into Moresnet's economic life is afforded by its taxation policy. Funds to run this village without a country are obtained through subsidy from the mining company and a license on draught dogs!"

Fair Sued for $24,000 for Slump in Hot Dogs

Camden, N. J.—Leon Ferber, a former hot-dog vendor at the South Jersey Exposition grounds here, sued the exposition company for $24,000 damages because, he complained, the hot-dog business at the fair wasn't as good as the exposition directors represented to him and he was forced to close his concession stands after suffering severe financial losses.

He asserted that glowing promises of much trade in the succulent links were made to him by the exposition management, but that the crowds didn't arrive and the hot dogs died on the griddle.

NOTICE OF SALE OF LAND UNDER DEED OF TRUST

Under and by virtue of power conferred upon me in a deed of trust dated the 14th day of May, 1924, by J. B.
