BEST BREEDS OF CATTLE FOR DAIRY

Asheboro Courier.

The following article with reference to various breeds of cattle furnished this newspaper by the teacher of Vocational Agriculture at Farmer high school will be of especial interest at this time:

It is desirable that the farmers of Randolph county give more attention to the production of cream on account of the market which we have, or will have at the creamery at Asheboro. So the main thing of interest to the farmer will be dairy breeds of cattle. Would it be best that the county have one established breed?

As we know, cattle are usually divided into three classes, this classification being based on the purpose for which they are raised. There are dairy cattle, beef cattle and dual purpose cattle. The dairy cows are for milk production and do not produce the best quality of meat. Beef cattle are for meat and are low milk producers, and dual cattle are for both purposes, that is for milk and beef.

The class that we are interested in is the dairy breed. The four leading dairy breeds in the United States are the Ayrshire, Guernsey, Holstein and Jersey. Those of minor importance are the Brown-Swiss and Dutch Belted, which are classed and recognized as dairy breeds.

In several conversations I have been asked the question, "What should the milk test in fat from my breed of dairy cattle?" The milk of the Ayrshires tests about 3.85 per cent fat. The milk of the Guernsey has an average test of 4.98 per cent of butter fat. The Holstein Friesian milk tests approximately 3.45 per cent fat. The average percentage of fat in Jersey milk is 5.14 per cent.

The amount of milk produced by the different dairy breeds is also of interest to the farmer. The Ayrshires are uniform milkers, average from six to seven thousand pounds of milk. The Guernsey cow averages about five thousand five hundred pounds of milk yearly. We find that Holstein-Friesian with an average yearly production of about eight thousand five hundred pounds of milk. While the Jersey under average farm conditions produce yearly five thousand five hundred pounds of milk.

Negroes Take Blame For Kidnaping Affair

They Sought Easy Money And High Living By Means Of The Kidnaping.

Chattanooga, Tenn. — An urge to travel and enjoy a life of ease on the part of Lewis Willis, 18-year-old negro, led him far afield but finally landed him in the county jail back home, where he awaits a hearing on a charge of having kidnaped two-year-old Virginia Jo Frazier and collected $3,333 ransom.

Willis, who with his 14-year-old brother, Arthur, was arrested last night is said to have confessed that he stole into the home of Commissioner Fred B. Frazier and Mrs. Frazier during the dinner hour March 23 and hid away until the household had retired. Then he crept to the crib of the child, wrapped her in a blanket and walked more than a mile to his home. He kept her secreted in the attic there until the following Sunday when he collected the ransom. Arthur, police said, confessed that he cared for the child while she was hidden at his home.

Meanwhile, officers announced that warrants charging Mrs. Annie Tominson and Frank Baskett, former policeman, with the kidnaping would be withdrawn when they appear in city court under bonds of $4,000 each which are returnable on that date. The negroes' confessions absolved all others of blame.

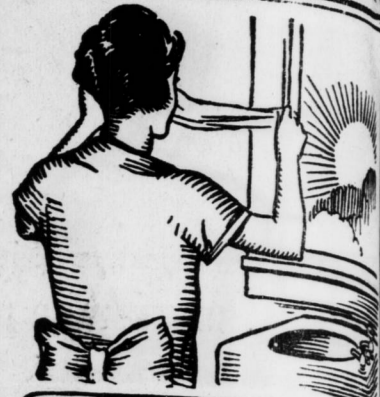

Marked bills handed by Mr. Frazier to a negro youth at a lonely street intersection, and numbers of the bills furnished business houses in the neighborhood resulted in the negroes' arrest. A drug store clerk who changed a $20 bill for a negro identified Lewis Willis as the one who presented it. Thirty-one hundred dollars in currency were found in the Willis home, officers reported, in addition to several cans of other. Physicians who examined Virginia Jo after she was found on a minister's porch following payment of the ransom said she had been under the influence of an anesthetic.

On a trip to New York several months ago Lewis Willis, looking about for access to "easy money," hit upon the kidnaping idea, officers said he confessed. A few days after Virginia Jo was abducted Lewis took a trip to Cincinnati, where it is believed he spent the $233 of the ransom that was not recovered. He formerly was employed by the Fraziers.

W. H. Hackett, chief of detectives, said Lewis' dream of "high living, with plenty of money to spend on clothes and trips" caused him to kidnap the child and hold her for ransom.

THE TEETH IN TAXATION

Taxes, unless confiscatory, must come out of annual income or net production. The smaller the amount left for the taxpayers' own use and the greater the amount that is likely to be added to the productive capital of the country. The amount of capital available for productive enterprise has a direct bearing on the prosperity of a country with large undeveloped resources—Canadian Taxation.

How to Tint

(Copyright 1927)
Any woman can do perfect, gorgeous tinting of dairy lingerie, etc., if she knows this single, use real dye. A tint is a color, true colors require true dye. You can dilute it to any degree you like, no matter how delicate the shade, dye-tinting is always even—never weak or "washy."

Diamond dyes are used in all water, for all tinting; unless you want the tint to be permanent, which case you merely have the water hot. So it isn't more trouble to tint the right way—it is a real less trouble. And what a difference in how the fabric looks! The whole envelope of the real dye powder is only fifteen cents at a druggist's. See what you can do with it—ask for color cards and suggestions. Or, write for Color Craft, a beautiful book of tinting and dyeing hints in full color; on request to DIAMOND DYE Dept. N34, Burlington, Vermont.
