

Dr. Frank Crane Says

Endurance

Importance depends on endurance. Endurance is the retention thru time of an achievement of value.

Thurs says Whitehead in Science and the Modern World.

Endurance is the real test of a man. It is something that we can all have.

One of the strongest pleas of the church is that it has endured thru the ages and is still going strong.

The life of an organism depends upon its ability to adjust itself to its surroundings.

A man is in perfect health when he can breathe the air, enjoy the sunshine and partake of the food that is offered him.

attuned to his environment.

If they become out of tune or in other words, he becomes unfit, nature eliminates him.

Emerson says that the best test of a book and the finest critic was time, and advised us as a whole, to read no book that had not been printed twenty years.

Time has dealt harshly with some popular favorites, while others have survived.

Some of the popular songs our ancestors sang are still popular. No one could tell at the time which they were, but the passing of the years has tested them.

It is perhaps a wise thing not to build a monument to a man before he is dead. Time must have its opportunity to pass upon him.

There is something in mere endurance, and the man who is able to stick a thing out to the bitter end has the advantage over one who is continuously changing.

Do not stick to a thing simply because you have chosen it, but after choosing it wisely keep your feet firm and do not vacillate.

and counselor to hundreds of girls through their teens. in New Bern, N. C.

"The desire to be conspicuous in the hope that popularity may follow explains why every group has, and always has had, its extreme members," says Mrs. Cosgrave in an article written for Good Housekeeping Magazine.

The pathetic aspect, she points out, is that frequently such girls would rather not be considered "wild," but lacking either mental or physical qualities and accomplishments which attract others they seek to avoid mediocrity by making themselves conspicuous by their daring.

"They do whatever is being done a little more emphatically than any one else," she says. "If skirts are long, theirs trail around them; if short, they go above the knees. If hats are large or poked, their features are extinguished by their head gears. They adopt the extreme styles in dancing and frequently go almost or quite over the line in acts of questionable propriety, or even morality, not—at least at the beginning—because there is anything really wrong about them, but because they are so anxious to be the first and most conspicuous in everything they do."

Although such types attract attention "such effectation cannot be moderate," she points out. "It must continually strain for new effects or it ceases to challenge. So the course of action begun in the desire to arrest notice becomes more and more bold and foolhardy until frequently there is a smash of some sort.

Citing examples from her own experiences, Mrs. Cosgrave contends that many girls of the "wild" type really possess extraordinary potentialities which would win them lasting admiration and esteem of their friends if wisely developed. Qualities of friendliness, sympathy and consideration, she points out, are likely to go much farther toward winning lasting friendship than rash and spectacular escapades and the flouting of convention.

FAR FROM UNANIMOUS

(News and Observer)

The action of the State Highway Commission declaring it would not ask for additional bond issue to build roads has not won unanimous approval. There are sections, which feel they have not secured the roads that are greatly needed, and they will make themselves heard when the legislature meets.

The Edenton News voices dissent from Northeastern North Carolina. It says that it is necessary to completely remodel "miserably poorly laid, poorly constructed and experimental roads that dot the mileage of this entire section," and it adds:

"The State Highway Commission cannot point with pride to its work in the northeast, because its work here has been a miserable failure. They have failed to connect the county seats with a standardized hard surfaced road, as the good roads bill was intended that they should do; they have failed to find the road building material that will stand up under the traffic of lowland travel, and standardize those roads in this entire section; they have failed to make the nine-foot road on Federal Highway 17, between Hertford and Edenton, a standardized 16 foot, county seat to county seat highway; they have failed to make the Virginia road out of Edenton a successful road, the present pavement being in such condition that it is worse than nothing they have failed to give Perquimans county anything but what Perquimans county paid for themselves; they have failed to construct one single piece of suitable road in Chowan county that was not partly paid for by the county; they have failed to give to Gates county any more than they could possibly help; they have failed to build a lowland road over the sinking roadbed in Camden county; they have failed to construct and complete the Virginia road to Elizabeth City through South Mills road; they have failed to give to Bertie a connection with Martin; by a standardized 16 foot county seat to county seat road; they have failed to make the roads out of New Bern a pleasure and a pride, instead of the narrow roads they now have; they have failed to give to the Scotland Neck section of Halifax county a single foot of hard surfaced road leading out of it.

The News advocates an increase of forty million dollars of bonds to complete the system. "We demand that we be treated like a member of the State, and not as a foster-child by its parents in Raleigh." It goes on to say: "There are sections of North Carolina that need no more roads; that's true, but those sections are few. They usually are the towns from which the highway commissioner comes, Tarboro or Washington or Raleigh or Durham or Wilmington."

There will be plenty of road talk when the solons gather next January.

MOTIVES OF "DARING GIRLS"

The Uplift

The daring girl, the one who is the first of her group to smoke a cigarette or to take a drink, who wears the shortest skirts and affects the most shocking conversation—is usually motivated by nothing more than a pathetic desire to be popular.

This is the conclusion of Jessica G. Cosgrave, who has been teacher

Infant Care

Mothers, you can't start too early to establish a child's serene and tranquil disposition. Even an infant can have a happy, fretless state of uninterrupted health. What will help do this? A simple, purely vegetable product as old as you are: plain Castoria.

A few drops of Castoria will settle all uneasiness in a jiffy. Will dispel colic or ward off constipation; and just as surely check diarrhea.

In real sickness, call a physician. But many physicians urge only Castoria for those little childish disorders that need nothing more. You need never be afraid to give pure Castoria. It is safe and perfectly harmless, for it contains no paragon, no opiates, no dope of any kind. At least, this is true of the genuine Fletcher's Castoria—and that is the kind doctors tell you always to buy.

Fletcher's Castoria is fine for any child. All children love to take it. Delicious tasting, and as good as it tastes.

Just look for the Fletcher signature on the package and you will know you have the genuine and pure Castoria.

*SPECIAL NOTE: With every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria is wrapped a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

THE BANK OF MONCURE

did address was made by Miss Lillie Hill, the beloved missionary from this Parish, who is doing such a wonderful work in Rockingham county. She vividly and most feelingly portrayed her experiences in the Prison camp where she and her little band of evangelistic workers conducted a study class and Sunday school for the prisoners. She stated that one of the greatest problems today is the problem of parents and that the inmate of the convict camp are, in the majority of cases, the product of parental neglect.

Miss Hill holds three prayer meetings weekly, these being conducted, in part, by different members of her little band.

The county home is visited regularly and services held. On Saturdays she visits the shut-ins. The case of one young man, who has lost practically every faculty except speech, was especially touching.

We were shown that we should not refuse to do our share of God's work when called on, as each of us has an influence on some one. In closing she asked that we pray for her portion of God's work.

Her talk was an inspiration and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Mrs. N. M. Hill, president was presented with a beautiful potted plant, as a birthday remembrance from the auxiliary.

The hostess served a delightful sweet course. After cutting the birthday cake, with gleaming candles representing the 72 years of long and useful service of our dear president, each member wrote a birthday wish for Mrs. Hill, thus closing a most enjoyable meeting.
