Angier Mirror Has Summer Vacation

The Angier Mirror, a paper started at Angier, Harnett county within the past year, has found it necessary to suspend till the fall...

But the situation could be improved by a little strain on the part of subscribers whose subscriptions need renewing...

"Due to depressed business conditions, this paper finds it advisable to suspend publication until September 1, after which time publication will again be resumed...

"It is a known fact that local conditions are such that even the county board of commissioners found it necessary to extend time to taxpayers on delinquent taxes...

"If any subscriber is desirous of a refund on his subscription for the dates intervening between now and September 1, he may have same by addressing a letter to the publisher...

"The paper has met with very favorable reception and has received the support of every business man in Angier, as well as subscribers but it is an unfair burden to shift to the shoulders of any individual at this time...

Growth of the Dairy Industry in Chatham

Certain signs point to the beginning of a better era for farmers in Chatham county. One of the most potent signs is the growth of the dairy industry. Three years ago the possibilities of producing dairy products in this county looked extremely doubtful.

Beginning September 1st, a new milk route embracing the communities of Brown's Chapel, Gum Springs and Pittsboro will be started. Farmers who will patronize this route expect to supply 150 gallons of milk daily, and increase the amount in the future.

Carload of Registered Jerseys to be Delivered at Siler City

The county Agent spent the week of June 11 in Orange Virginia, buying a carload of registered Jersey cattle for Junior Club members. During the course of our visit, we saw some thirty-five herds of pure bred cattle, including the Montpelier herd at Montpelier, Virginia.

PURE BRED SIRE CAMPAIGN

During the month of July, a series of meetings will be held in certain communities of the county for the purpose of introducing some good, pure-bred Jersey bulls in the county. While the dates of meetings in the various communities have not been definitely decided as yet, there has been made a tentative schedule, which is as follows:

Wednesday, June 26, Brown's Chapel; Monday, July 1, Red Cross School; Tuesday, July 2, Hickory Mountain; Wednesday, July 3, Chatham Church; Monday, July 8, Oakley Church or Bonlee; Tuesday, July 9, Goldston; Wednesday, July 10, Elk Hope; Monday, July 15, Mt. Gilead; Tuesday, July 16, Riggsbee; Wednesday, July 17, Mt. Pleasant.

During this month, it is hoped to place at least ten good bulls in the county. "News of the Week in Neighboring Counties"

An undersupply of good roughage, especially good legume hay, is one of the most serious drawbacks to successful dairy farming in North Carolina. Our cows are better bred than fed, says John A. Arey.

Dusting with fine sulphur is probably the best control of red spider on cotton. Use 18 to 20 pounds per acre and make two applications. If only a limited area is infested, it may be best to pull up the infested cotton.

If the conditions are right this summer there will be heavy damage by the boll weevil. Plans for dusting with calcium arsenate should be made early.

The sheep breeders Association of Edgecombe county recently sold a car of 142 lambs at good prices. Wildfire of tobacco has appeared in Hertford county with disastrous results. Bud worms and horn worms are also doing damage.

Where he plowed under a crop of cowpeas last summer George Poovey of Caldwell county will get 30 bushels of wheat per acre. Where there were no cowpeas, the yield of wheat was 15 bushels per acre.

Union county farmers report better growth of lespedeza this spring due to good rains and better fertilization. Grain farmers are compelled to raise the reaper blade to prevent cutting the young lespedeza. The North Carolina State Farmers' and Farm Women's convention will be held at State College during farm and home week, July 22 to 27. Over 600 farm boys and girls are expected to attend the 4-H club short course at State College, July 29 to Aug. 3.

Dairy Industry Grows in Western North Carolina

When the branch cheese manufacturing plant was established at West Jefferson in Ashe county through the efforts of local citizens and field workers of the Extension Service, it was an admitted experiment. It was known that the section was a good dairy country potentially but there was doubt as to the necessary amount of milk being produced at that time.

On the first day of operation, July 23, 1928, only 1,126 pounds of milk were delivered. The factory people said they must have at least 6,000 pounds a day for the plant to be operated. On June 10, 1929, not quite eleven months afterwards, the plant received 19,557 pounds of milk, and the next day, the deliveries went over 20,000 pounds.

E. C. Turner, County Agent of Ashe, says the deliveries will exceed 30,000 pounds a day before the end of the summer. The farmers received $25.90 for milk sold the first day, and $410.69 for milk the 10th of June, 1929.

This shows graphically what has happened in that section. About 500 patrons are selling milk to the factory. It pays 50 cents per pound for butterfat and the milk is sold on a butterfat basis. Milk routes are radiating from West Jefferson in all directions. The producers are paid twice each month and they are buying pure-bred dairy cattle, are planting more legumes and grass pastures, are remodeling old beef cattle barns into milking sheds and a general air of well being pervades the country side.

F. R. Farnham, dairy specialist, who helped to establish the factory, says that in the production of the 20,000 pounds of milk delivered in one day, not over $25 worth of purchased feeds was used for the cows. This means that the farmers have started in the right way and are producing their feed at home, so that their milk sales are profitable.
