About Gentle Art of Fishing

By WING LEARDNER

To the Editor:

The undersigned wrote such a marvellous article on instructions in regards to fishing a yr. ago that I have been apt to write another one and try to make it somewhere near twice as good.

I can't be all over the country at once but they say that from now on is the best time to fish in either fresh or salt water or both at the same time on acct. of being the open season for the new kinds of fish, which have been discovered since the last fishing article I wrote.

In the old days before these things happened, why if a person lived on a fresh water pond or rivulet, what they had to do was to bait their hook with spinach and they were practically sure of dragging in a muskie, a pickerel, a perch, a pestilence, a sword fish, a swage, a serod or a crame. But now days since they have found out about the new kinds of fish you have got to use a whole lot more judgment. That is why I have been approached on all sides with a view to learning the new secrets in regards to how to fish for the new kind of fish.

Would like to exclaim at the outset that I have long been a student of what I sometimes call the finley tribe and am known around home by a nickname I once give myself, namely, the Piscatorial Artist. Lots of people still call me Isaac Newton on acct. of the mastery I have got over the piscatorial profession.

Well to make a short story still shorter, the latest fish that can be caught in medium water, that is, half way between salt and fresh and vice versa, is the geffel. The nimrod must first lay on their back and read an evening paper. Along about five o'clock you bait your hook and cast it off the side of the boat or hammock or bicycle or whatever you was in to start with. The bait must be sage dressing out of a turkey. It will improve matters a good deal if the fisherman keeps reading the comic pictures of the paper and laughing aloud as that makes the geffel think he is not in earnest. Sometimes it is necessary to have two evening papers as the geffel don't always agree on which is the funniest pictures. The first time Commodore Gallagher of the Knickerbocker Yacht club fished for geffel, he had no less than three comic supplements and had to read one and a 1/2 before he even got a nibble. By that time both he and the geffel was laughing their heads off. That put them both on easy st.

Another fish that has recently been discovered in all kinds of waters and some kinds of milk is the prone. The word prone means laying down face forwards on your stomach and that is where this scion of the finley tribe got its name on acct. of it always lying down face forwards on its stomach. In order to catch them you have got to first wake them up and turn them over and ask them why they was laying on their stomach. It may of been from cramps or something, but as soon as you find out then you know how to fish for them. If it was cramps you give them some kind of indigestion tablets which I won't mention no names on acct. of free advertising, but if that is what it was, they will get very grateful and turn over on their side and then is the time to grab them. A prone laying on their side is as helpless as one of Tunney's sparring partners.

In this connection it might be of interest to tell other Isaac Nimrods about my first experience in prone fishery. I had been out in a queel boat on Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, for three years, every day, trying to get a prone. They wouldn't even look at me. One day however, one of them got in terrible shape and began to cry in misery and I called down to the bottom of the lake what is the matter. The prone rolled over and made the remark that it felt kind of out of things as parties had been going on at the different mansions and cottages around the lake and it had not been invited to one.

Well, I says, you and I are in the same boat.

No, says the prone, we ain't but we will be.

With that, he jumped up and got in my boat. That is one way of catching a prone.

Another kind of fish that everybody is ravenous to grab one of them down our way is the month fish. This is four times as long as the weak fish and it takes four times as long to catch them but when you catch them you don't half to worry for another month.

They are caught with a page out of a calender, like for inst. if you are fishing in September, you bait your hook with the October page of the calender and they will grab it, think they are going ahead somewheres.

A year from now I will give you another lesson in what I call the piscatorial art.

MRS. BETTIE THOMAS DIES

At the close of day February 28 Mrs. Bettie Thomas gently fell asleep to wake no more to the beauties and pleasures of this world but to awake in that beautiful land above which God has prepared for his children. She realized she was passing out but was not afraid of death, only regretted to part with her children and other dear ones. No doubt at times she grew tired and longed to be at rest. She had been permitted to live 76 years, 3 months and one day. A long life filled with good deeds.

Mrs. Thomas was a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. George Moore who died many ears ago. In 1870 she was married to J. A. Thomas who has been dead about 12 years. For 58 years she had been a faithful member of Pleasant Hill Baptist church. She dearly loved her church and all other churches as well. She was ever concerned about the spiritual welfare of relatives and friends. Mrs. Thomas was the mother of 10 living children, 50 grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren and when they went to visit her she always wanted music and singing and she would join in. She was especially fond of music and during her latter days she enjoyed her radio very much. She loved flowers as well as music and ever appreciated flowers given her even if her sight was so dim she could not fully appreciate their beauty.

Funeral services were conducted at Pleasant Hill church by Rev. R. R. Gordon, assisted by Rev. C. Norris and Rev. Mr. Morris. A mixed choir sang several old songs which Mrs. Thomas was especially fond, among them being "Amazing Grace" which was to her the sweetest song ever written. Grandsons acted as pallbearers and granddaughters had charge of the flowers and as her body was lowered to its resting place we realized the last charter member of Pleasant Hill had gone to rest.

He maketh me to lie down on cushions.
He refresheth me beside great waters;
He restoreth my doubt in the Republican party.
He leadeth me in the paths of destruction for his party's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the Valley of the Shadow of Death,
I do fear evil for thou art against me;
Thy politicians, and profiteers they frighten me,
Thou preparest a reduction in my salary before me in the presence of mine enemies,
Thou annoonest my income with taxes;
My expenses runneth over my income.
Surely unemployment and poverty will follow me all the day of Republican administration, and I will dwell in a rented house forever.

Mr. Newton Dickens of Norwood spent a few days here and at Buckhorn last week. It is his custom to spend his time here when not at work for the C. P. & L. company, and it is always a delight, especially to the young ladies, to have him drop in.

Justice Sandford Died Suddenly

Saturday, March 8, 1930, will be long remembered in the annals of the United States Supreme court. While the court was helping its oldest member, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, to celebrate his 89th birthday, there came news of the sudden death in a Washington dental office of one of its members, Justice Edward Terry Sandford. In a few hours came report of the death of the late Chief Justice Taft.

Mr. Justice Sandford was 64 years old. He was appointed to the supreme court by President Harding in 1923. A native of western Tennessee the body was returned to Knoxville for burial. It was accompanied by a delegation from the court, which returned immediately to Washington for the last rites in honor of the late chief justice.

The death of Justice Sandford provides President Hoover another opportunity to name a member of the highest court in the country. How he will meet the situation in the light of the recent senatorial fight on confirmation of appointment of Chief Hughes remains to be seen. The fight on Mr. Hughes was not personal, but was based upon the belief that he was too conservative, that his long connection with big business had prejudiced him toward that viewpoint. If the new appointment is of a man of similar connection a more strenuous fight may be expected upon him.

DON'T STINT

Every man wants a Bank Account, but STINTING one's self of food and other things essential to the highest degree of efficiency is not the way to get it. The secret is to Make MORE.

Any Chatham county farmer, with a fair season, should produce everything needed for food and feed except sugar and coffee and the condiments, such as salt, pepper, and flavoring extracts. When he has done that, he can live like a king and will need comparatively few dollars for other living expenses.

When he gets a dollar then, there will be some chance of his putting it in the Bank.
