

TOWN AND COUNTY BRIEFS

A number of the college boys was at home during the week-end and part of this week.

Mr. Carey Bynum, a Greensboro druggist, visited his parents here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Griffin and Mr. W. H. Griffin visited their sister, Mrs. Dark at Liberty Sunday.

Miss Margaret Johnson, who has been teaching at Asbury, has entered the East Carolina Teachers' College at Greenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Brooks and the baby spent the week-end with Mrs. Brooks' parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Mason, near Lillington.

Former Lieutenant-Governor Long has been in attendance at the court in session this week. Mrs. Long has been coming down from Durham and spending the day with her sisters, Mrs. DeGraffenreid.

The teachers of the county were in session at Siler City last Friday. Also, quite a number of them expect to attend the state meeting in Raleigh today and tomorrow.

We regret to learn that Mr. W. J. Williams, an aged citizen of Bynum Rt. 1, is very ill, and is, in fact, hardly expected to survive more than a few days. He has been long a sufferer from an incurable disease.

Mr. B. W. Mann, who will be 82 in June, was here Saturday and was as active as most men of seventy. Year before last, when he couldn't get any one to cut his wheat, he sharpened up his cradle blade and went out and cut the wheat.

Mr. A. V. Nolan, former principal of the Pittsboro school, now superintendent of the schools of McDowell county, stopped over at Pittsboro on his way to attend the teachers' meeting in Raleigh. He has many friends here who were glad to see him.

Mr. Robt. A. Cotten writes a letter heartily approving the candidacy of Mr. S. W. Harrington for the House, and expresses the confidence that lower Chatham will give him a hearty support in the primary election.

From Bonlee comes the following advertisement, for which we are making no charge: "We, Bryan O. Dunlap, W. Simmons Phillips, and W. T. Brooks, do hereby announce ourselves as farmers subject to the wishes of the good people around Bonlee. We will endeavor to do our best if the corn is in shady fields and if plenty of good water is near. Write or phone either of us if this meets your approval."

The Record welcomes Mr. E. J. Barnes and family to the county. Mr. Barnes has bought the Carey Griffin place on the Moncure road and has already moved in. Mr. Barnes is a lawyer, though his poor health for several years has caused him to retire from practice. He taught for a number of years before becoming a lawyer, and was once superintendent of schools of his native county Wilson. The editor knew his brother down in Sampson, and he was a mighty fine character. We have known Mr. E. J. Barnes two years and have been impressed with his good commonsense. We consider the family an acquisition to the county. He and Mrs. Barnes have one son with them, while another is employed at the Brickhaven brick plant.

Mr. R. F. Grady, an experienced barber, has come from Chapel Hill to manage the Fields Building barber shop. Call him Graddy; that is the way the old Irish name is pronounced down where he comes from. We are speaking Saturday night to Dr. Grady of Kenly, and he said that he was a Grad(dy), and Judge Henry Grady insists upon the ancient pronunciation of his name. The shortening of a vowel by following it with a double-consonant was the device of an old English poet in the days before the English language had become homogeneous in England, and Irish names were not affected by the trick.

Little Marguerite Fields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Fields of the White's Bridge community, was severely burned last week, when her gown caught afire while she was standing near the fireplace. Her legs were burned quite severely, and it will be sometime before she recovers.

Mr. Newton Moore, who is quite a chicken enthusiast, had white leg-horn biddies crowing on their 37th day. His main breed, however, is the Rhode Island Red. By the way, that little advertisement he put in The Record some weeks ago brought him an order within a few days for 2,000 eggs, besides the local calls for settings. Ed Hinton, also, is bragging on his 300 Plymouth Rocks, but Ed's biddies cost him 14 cents apiece to start with, while Newton's are home hatched. Also Gapt. Alston and Charlie Moore, in cahoots, are making a success of growing fryers and egg-producing pullets.

Bishop Cheshire held Lenten services at the Episcopal church Sunday.

Mr. Will Thompson of Albright's township, an aged and highly respected citizen, died Sunday, and was buried at Rocky River Friends' church Monday.

A SPOOKY RABBIT?

Mr. Editor: You seem to have your own ideas about the lucky (or unlucky) Chatham rabbit. So do I. How is this for one? A certain colored brother, while passing through an old field, saw (so says he) a rabbit, in its bed, and borrowed a shot gun and two shells, and went after his meat. Brer Rabbit was sitting quietly in his nest. He shot the rabbit. On going up nearer he saw the rabbit still there as if nothing had happened (saw his eyes too). Backing off a few yards, he let him have the second load, full on the side of his head.

Seems Brer Rabbit then just disappeared—not a sign of hair, or hare, could he find.

The colored brother returned the gun in quite a hurry, saying, "Mr. Jim, I'm goin' to git out of dese here woods, 'fore the sun gits any lower."

MRS. J. E. CROSS, Corrinth, N. C.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

The grim reaper, which is death, is ever abroad in the land, seeking whom he may devour, taking the youth as those of mature age.

It was on the 13th day of March, 1930, he entered the home of our dear brother, Stonewall Jackson Fields, a member of our Council, Goldston No. 288, Jr. O. U. A. M., and called him from time into Eternity to be with us no more. Therefore, be it resolved:

First, that we bow in humble submission to the will of Him, Who doeth all things well and does not make any mistakes.

Second, that we extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy in the hour of their bereavement.

Third, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased brother, to the Chatham Record, the Chatham News, and a copy spread on the minutes of our order.

By order of the council in session this the 15th day of March, 1930.

J. W. BURKE, VAN E. ELLIS, Resolution Committee.

Accompanied by Miss Carrie Jackson, the Daughters sang "Dixie." The ritual was repeated in unison. Several matters of importance were attended to. Final arrangements were made for the entertainment of the eighth district which is to meet with this chapter in April.

For the afternoon's program, Mrs. J. W. Hunt, historian, presented Mrs. Henry A. London, who read Mrs. J. H. Anderson's prize-winning essay, "University During the War." This article was based on her father's diary while a student at the university, before his enlistment in the army.

The hostesses aided by Miss Frances Bland served delicious sandwiches and tea.

HOW MONEY TRAVELS

The Monroe Journal prints the paragraph below to show what it means to put a coin in circulation. If you have a spare one, start our way and we assure you it will keep up its pace. Says The Journal:

Money travels as well as talks and when it travels in a circle it can do a lot of business. Yesterday Mr. Charley Helms walked into the Paramount barber shop with a basket of eggs. John Robinson, the barber, bought some of the eggs and gave Mr. Helms a piece of money. Mr. Helms, seeing The Journal in the chair, used the money in paying his subscription. The editor used the same piece in paying the barber for his work. The barber took the same piece and went upstairs to the drug store and bought witch hazel. Mr. Helms, who sells milk to the drug store, went upstairs and was paid the same piece of money on his milk bill. Mr. Helms then probably put the money in the bank, as he likes to take care of it, where it is being lent to somebody else. There were five transactions in a few minutes on which the same piece of money was in Mr. Helms' hand twice and in the barber's twice. And Charley Helms' hens started the whole business. Money travels as well as talks.
