

TOWN AND COUNTY BRIEFS

Mr. Henry Bynum of Columbia, S. C., spent the week-end with his parents here.

His friends were glad to have Walter Siler here the first day of court.

Frank Taylor, a respected colored citizen, died Saturday, after a long illness. He lived on the Sheriff Milliken place.

Miss Claytie Harper, who holds a stenographic position in Raleigh, spent the week-end with her parents near Pittsboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Bass, of Wilson county, came up for the week-end, bringing Miss Gladys Peterson back with them after a visit by her of three weeks.

Mr. R. P. Eubanks wishes the Record to express his appreciation for the kindness of his friends and neighbors who enabled him to have the necessary operation which he recently underwent and for general kindness.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Mann had as guests during the week-end Miss Elsie Grady, a student at the University, and Mr. C. B. Martin, a student at Wake Forest College.

It is gratifying to learn that Mr. James L. Griffin, who has been quite ill at Watts Hospital for months, is reported as rapidly improving in health. His friends hope he may soon be able to come home, where he is greatly missed.

Mr. J. C. Andrews, who has been very ill for the last few weeks, seemed better the first of the week.

Pittsboro people should feel very much gratified at the high standing among University students attained by Mr. W. L. Harper, who was one of the nine students recently distinguished by election to the Golden Fleece, one of the honorary societies of the university.

Mr. Sam Lawrence of Raleigh stopped by Tuesday to see Mr. Alex Riddle, who continues an invalid at his home here.

We were glad to have a call from Veteran W. I. Dowd Saturday. It didn't occur to us when he came in that he was one of the veterans of the sixties, as he looked so young. He is one of the long-time subscribers to The Record. In fact, he and Major London were born in the same month and he read the paper practically from the Major's first issue, and feels that Major London was one of the State's greatest friends to the veterans.

John Parker Rejected by Senate Vote 41-39

The nomination of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina to the supreme court was rejected by the senate late yesterday by a vote of 41 to 39. The result had been in doubt until the roll call. Friends of Judge Parker had hoped that they might win by a vote; they were prepared even for a tie, when Vice President Curtis would have cast the deciding vote for confirmation. When Senator Deneen of Illinois, who has a large negro constituency, voted "no" it was realized the case was almost hopeless.

President Hoover stood staunchly by the appointment and refused every suggestion that he withdraw Parker's name. There is even now the suggestion that he may send it back to the senate and appeal to the country to bring pressure upon that body for confirmation.

It is generally conceded that the three main factors contributing to Parker's defeat are his alleged bias against organized labor, as indicated in the West Virginia mine case; his statement ten years ago that the Negro in North Carolina was not qualified for full participation in politics; and the charge that the appointment was made solely as a political sop to the South. It is being charged now, however, that the real basis of opposition came from the wets, and that they merely used these other surface matters as a smoke screen. Parker is known to be an absolute dry, personally, politically and judicially.

Washington observers believe that President Hoover will nominate Owen J. Roberts of Pennsylvania, if he decides not to rename Parker. Roberts is special counsel for the government in some of the big oil cases and is said to be satisfactory to most of the element which opposed Parker, including the wets.

Inquiry Reveals Source of Anti-Smith Funds

The senate committee investigating campaign expenditures has reached the matter of Anti-Smith associations in 1928. E. C. Jameson, New York insurance man, who was the largest single contributor to Hoover's expenses, testified Tuesday. Mr. Jameson said he gave a total of $195,000 to aid Hoover's election. More than $65,000 of this went to the Virginia Anti-Smith association headed by Bishop Cannon. Bishop Cannon had previously reported receiving $17,000. The committee is now trying to find what became of the other $48,000, at present unaccounted for. One of the most startling disclosures was Mr. Jameson's statement that the late James W. Good, Hoover's first secretary of war, and Bascom Slomp, private secretary to President Coolidge, advised him to join the Anti-Smith crowd. This was the first direct connection established between the Hoover group, the national Republican party and the Anti-Smith association.

The North Carolina Anti-Smith club, headed by Frank McNinch and Frank Hampton, the latter private secretary to Senator Simmons, has never made report on its finances as required by law. It is understood that the senate committee will soon take up the North Carolina case.

Quarter Million for Senate Nomination

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, recently nominated in the Republican primary in Illinois for the United States senate, reports that she spent $252,500 to get the nomination. That is about 25 years salary for the job. It seems, however, that it was all her own money. Having plenty of it she was not averse to spending it, and being her own such action places her under no obligation to anybody. In that respect her excessive expenditures differs from the Pennsylvania and Illinois campaigns of four years ago. James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee, reports that he spent $35 to get his nomination. Some wag has remarked that the difference between $35 and $252,000 represents about the difference in actual value of the Republican and Democratic nominations in Illinois.

That it is not necessary for you to go to some other city or send to buy anything. The stores of your city are in position to supply your every want. They sell at reasonable prices the highest quality of merchandise. Along with the growth of your city, your home merchants are always making improvements and adding to their stocks to take care of increasing business—always keeping in stock the best merchandise at a price that can't be beat elsewhere. Local merchants aim to retain trade by furnishing better service and better quality at better terms and prices. If you don't read local advertisements and buy from your local merchants, you are a loser. People who earn money in one city and spend it in another should move to the other city. It will be no loss to the home city if they do. Nothing is so gentle as that which is strong.—French proverb.

GARDEN NOTES FOR MAY

Prepared by E. B. MORROW, Extension Horticulturist

Pest Control in the Home Garden

The first essential in successful pest control is good equipment. For the home gardener, the most generally useful piece of equipment is a compressed air sprayer of 2 or 3 gallons capacity. A hand duster is also desirable. The second essential is a supply of spray and dust materials. This brings up the subject of a practical means of measuring spray materials in small amounts. An 8-ounce glass measuring cup is quite useful for this purpose. It is graduated in thirds and quarters, and may be purchased at most dime stores. Now for control measures for the more important pests:

1. Mexican Bean Beetle: Spray with magnesium arsenate at the rate of 1 pound to 50 gallons of water or 1 ounce (1-3 cup) to 3 gallons. Magnesium arsenate may be used in dust form by mixing 1 pound with 3 pounds of hydrated lime. Spraying gives better results than dusting. Begin the applications as soon as the adult beetles become numerous and repeat every week or ten days, or as often as necessary.

2. Colorado Potato Beetle: Spray or dust with calcium arsenate or lead arsenate. For spraying, use 2 pounds to 50 gallons of water or 2 ounces (2-3 cup) to 3 gallons. If used in dust form, mix 1 1/2 pounds with 8 1/2 pounds of hydrated lime.

3. Cabbage Worm: Use same materials and strengths recommended for the potato beetle. Calcium caseinate spreader at the rate of 2 level tablespoons to 3 gallons will help to make the spray stick to the smooth cabbage leaves.

4. Cucumber Beetle: Apply a poisoned Bordeaux dust as soon as the plants are up and repeat if necessary in a week or ten days.

5. Harlequin Cabbage Bag: Sometimes called "Terrapin Bug" and "Lincoln Bug." To control it, spray while the bugs are young with a soap solution made by dissolving 1 pound of soap in a gallon or two of boiling water and diluting to make 6 gallons. White soaps give better results than fish oil soaps or yellow laundry soaps. Flake or beaded soap may be used if desired. Two cups of flake or beaded soap will make a gallon of the spray mixture. Soap sprays should be applied before they become cold enough to gel. The bugs must be hit with the spray material.

6. Plant Lice: Spray or dust with nicotine sulphate (black leaf 40) or use a commercially prepared pyrethrum spray. Nicotine sulphate may be used in small amounts at the rate of 1 tablespoon to 3 gallons of water. By adding 1 cup of flake or beaded soap, the material will be more effective. Commercially prepared nicotine dusts are obtainable from dealers. If pyrethrum sprays are used, they should be diluted according to the strength recommended by the manufacturer.

An Unpleasant Subject

All of the functions of life are not pleasant to consider. Perhaps this is why some mothers refuse to think that such symptoms as restlessness, loss of flesh, lack of appetite or itching nose and fingers in their children, can be caused by round or pin worms. Many mothers have proven, however, that a few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge, that sure and harmless worm expellant, will make these symptoms disappear. You can get White's Cream Vermifuge for 35 cents per bottle from Pittsboro Drug Co.

POORLY FED, EARLY BRED HEIFERS HURT DAIRYING

A recent United States Department of Agriculture circular shows that of 200,000 cows of different breeds throughout the U. S. the larger cows in the breeds produce more milk, more butterfat, and more net profit.

Southern cows are below the average in size for the breed to which they belong because of two practices followed by dairy farmers. First, heifers are not fed enough from six months of age until they freshen to produce normal growth. Most farmers feed calves satisfactorily until they are six months old because they have learned that if they do not, they will die. The second practice responsible for small cows is running the bull with the cows and heifers. Under this system, the young heifers breed when they are nine to fifteen months old and produce their first calf when under two years old.

Contrary to popular opinion, carrying the calf does not have a serious effect on the young heifers growth. It is the milking period following calving which produces the stunted condition of cows. Even small heifers produce dry matter in the first week or ten days of their milking period equal to that of the calf when it is born. Since the calf is produced over a period of many months, this is not a serious factor. The practice of breeding heifers when they are too young must be changed if we expect to get the greatest profit from dairying. The only solution of this problem is for each farmer to build a pen in which the bull can be kept separate from the heifers and the milking herd. Then the heifers may be bred at the proper age, depending on her size and by good feeding, they can be grown to normal size.

Dangerous Business

Our stomach and digestive systems are lined with membrane which is delicate, sensitive and easily injured. It is dangerous business, then, to use medicines containing harsh drugs, salts or minerals, when we are constipated. In addition to the possibility of injuring the linings of our digestive system, these medicines give only temporary relief and may prove habit forming. The safe way to relieve constipation is with Herbine, the cathartic that is made from herbs, and acts in the way nature intended. You can get Herbine at Pittsboro Drug Co.

John Ramsey Colored Dies at Albany, N. Y.

Grant Ramsey, a respectable colored citizen of the Haywood community, received a telegram on May 4 to the effect that his son John had died at Albany, N. Y. Death was unexpected. The body was brought home for burial, arriving on the 7th of May, accompanied by his wife and son and R. L. Gordon, a lodge friend, and Mrs. Lydia Jones.

The burial was on Thursday. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Banks of the Congregational church, assisted by R. L. Gordon.

John had been working for the N. Y. Central Railroad. He had been away from Chatham several years. He had evidently made many friends, as the floral tributes from his northern friends were the most beautiful ever seen in the Haywood cemetery. The body was laid away in a very beautiful casket in a steel vault.

The burial was largely attended, as the father of the young man, Grant Ramsey, is one of the most popular men of his race and a prosperous farmer. He is held in high esteem by both white and colored.

John was a Mason and a member of the Eastern Star. Both lodges sent beautiful floral designs. He was 41 years of age. A wife and one son, 14 years old, are left to mourn his death, besides his father, step-mother, and two brothers.

The body of Rudolph Prince, son of Edward Prince, formerly of this county, was brought from Washington, D. C., and buried at Rose Hill A. M. E. L. church, Sunday, May 4. He was 20 years of age. Part of his family came with the body.

The Haywood school colored, closed a good seven-months session May 9th. Two very good plays featured the closing. Principal Hunter and his assistant Miss Laster have worked hard this year. TAMA V. CRUMP.
