Pou's Relief Loan To Old Negro Paid Despite Banks

Washington, March 7.—An aged gray-haired negro hobbled into the office of Representative Pou, of North Carolina, yesterday and pulled out a ragged $10 bill and gave it to him.

"I want you to take this," said Frank Peacock, the negro, a janitor in a school here.

"What is it for?" asked Pou, who had known the other since they were boys in Smithville, N. C.

"Don't you remember when I was sick last winter I borrowed $10 off you," Frank asked.

"Well, I want to pay it back and thank you."

Beaming at the negro's honesty, Pou, dean of the house, told him:

"Anytime you want to borrow another $10, Frank, just come to me."

Pou walked with the negro to his door and after Frank had gone the North Carolinian turned to his secretary and said:

"That ought to be a lesson to the American people. Just think, with the banks all closed, money hard to get, scrip about to be issued, and millions of people not paying their debts who are more able to pay them than that old darkey, he ignores the depression and pays back $10 I had forgotten."

Bill To Pay Teachers Of Fairplains Introduced

Raleigh, March 7.—A bill to require payment of salaries to teachers of Fairplains school district in Wilkes county was introduced in the House last night by Representative Charles H. Cowles, of Wilkes. The bill was referred to the committee on appropriations.

The measure sets out that an insufficient amount of money was provided to take care of the extended school term in the district for the year 1931-32 by reason of an erroneous valuation sent to the State Board of Equalization, the correct value for that district that year being $331,114, and the valuation used being $510,000, and that teachers were employed for the eight months term and taught the full period, but because of insufficient funds furnished by the State Board of Equalization, the salaries were not paid in full.

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction would be authorized, empowered and directed to pay the county board of education of Wilkes county from the tax reduction fund for 1932-33 the sum of $318.60 to be used by the board for paying salaries, as follows: Grady F. Miller, principal, $89.10; Mrs. Angie Henderson, $85.50; Mrs. E. D. Dancy, $76.50; Mary Louise Jones, $67.60.

MARCH 12 IS ANNIVERSARY OF THE GIRL SCOUT ORGANIZATION

To Show 'Pioneer' In Century Of Progress

Chicago. — Contrasting the "Pioneer," first locomotive to run out of Chicago, against the city's most modern engine, the "Class H," the Chicago & North Western Railway will give a vivid picture of almost a hundred years of development in railroading in Chicago in its exhibit in the Travel and Transport Building at a Century of Progress.—Chicago's 1933 World's Fair.

Ninety-seven years of railroad history in the Middle West and West will be combined in that display, a history starting when the legislature of the State of Illinois authorized the incorporation of the Galena and Chicago Union Railroad, parent road of the present Chicago & North Western Railway System, to "build a railroad out into the prairie country and on towards. If not to, the Mississippi River, near the lead mines at Galena, Illinois and Dubuque, Iowa."

Because Chicago's financial strength was not equal to her ambition the first board of directors of this road, made up of early Chicagoans—Theophilus W. Smith, Edmund D. Taylor, Josiah T. Temple Gregory Smith, Ebenezer Peck and James H. Collins—had to abandon the enterprise temporarily after preliminary surveys.

It was not until October 10, 1848, when the "Pioneer" was unloaded in Chicago off the big "Buffalo" that Chicago saw her first railroad locomotive and 14 days later, October 24, that little engine went into service between Chicago and the Des Plaines River on strap rail. Another group of Chicagoans headed by W. B. Ogden, were responsible for reviving interest in the enterprise and starting the construction under the 12 year old charter. Besides Ogden, there were John B. Turner, Walter L. Newberry, Charles Walker, James H. Collins, J. Young Scammon and Thomas Dyer, C. S. Hempstead of Galena, Ill., Thomas Drummond of Galena, W. N. Davis of Au Sable Grove, Ill. and Allen Robins of New York were associated with these Chicagoans on the board of directors.

The exhibit, which is being built by Marshall Field & Co., will have the Pioneer as its focal point. Across the back of the space an actual size reproduction of the "Class H" engine will be shown. The "Pioneer," which can be lost in the tender of this locomotive, will occupy space on the floor in front of the tender portion of this reproduction.

The flooring of the exhibit will give the effect of railway tracks. There will be a booth in the front part of the exhibit to disseminate information to the public.

The color treatment of the exhibit will be, for the most part, in harmonizing shades of blue and chromium, while effects on the locomotive and on the "Pioneer" will be achieved by the most scientific methods of lighting.

Cold Coins Are Taken Out of Hiding Places

New York, March 7.—Glittering gold came out of hiding, pay roll checks were cashed, and a "small change crisis" came to an end as the large New York banks reopened today.

The lights at tellers' windows gleamed frequently on $5 and $10 gold pieces as they were dumped onto the counter by men and women who had changed their minds about hoarding.

Some brought the gold just as they had obtained it—from the federal reserve bank—in regulation, sealed, government bags, containing $5,000 each.

This led an official of the Irving Trust company, where many of these large lots of gold were taken for deposit, to observe that apparently some persons had drawn money from some banks, rushed to the federal reserve and changed bills for gold, and then hidden the precious metal in safety deposit boxes or in their homes.

While no banks would estimate in dollars the amount of the new deposits, officials of the Irving Trust said they had been "very considerable."

Movement Started In Savannah, Ga., By Juliette Law 21 Years Ago

By MRS. W. C. GRIER, (Leader of Girl Scout work in North Wilkesboro)

March 12th is a red letter day for all Girl Scouts and their thousands of well-wishers throughout America. On this date 21 years ago, so writes Mary Margaret McBride in the current issue of Good Housekeeping, eight girls gathered in a little house in Savannah, Georgia, held up their right hands, and solemnly put themselves on honor to be courteous, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, friendly, trustworthy and loyal; to help others; to be clean in thought, word and deed.

Their leader was Juliette Law, Mrs. Law had previously met in England Sir Araruh Bowden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides in England. Leaving the Savannah troop in charge of a friend, she hurried through other towns and cities in America organizing the troops. The Girl Scouts now have ten thousand troops in America with a membership of three hundred thousand girls between the age of ten and eighteen. Including those who have graduated from their ranks because of the age limit, they have a membership of one million.

What the troop leader teaches her troopers dressed in their floppy hats and gray-green uniforms is best answered by the Scouts themselves. You will find them as grown-ups as teachers in the school room, stenographers and secretaries in the office, nurses in our hospitals, buglers on the stage, teachers of various arts and crafts, and mothers in the home.

In North Wilkesboro, the Girl Scouts and their leaders are begging you to give them your friendship and wholehearted co-operation in their work.

war Republican colors of Germany ceased to exist today and the constitutional provision concerning them became a dead letter.
