

Slayer of Cermak Will Die Tuesday

Governor of Florida Signed Death Warrant Monday; Is Heavily Guarded

Rafford, Fla., March 13.—Heavily guarded by a squad of national guard machine gunners, Giuseppe Zangara, the assassin who shot five persons in an attempt to kill President Roosevelt February 15, awaits the electric chair here for the murder of Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago.

Governor Dave Sholtz today signed the death warrant after Zangara had secretly been removed from the Dade county jail in Miami where he was convicted last Friday. The warrant sets the execution for the week of March 20, the actual day and hour to be determined by Supt. L. F. Chapman of the state prison farm. It was held likely Tuesday March 21 will be the date.

Under rigid orders from the governor, interviews were forbidden with the swarthy Italian who shot down Mayor Cermak, Mrs. Joe H. Gill, prominent Miami society woman, Russell Caldwell, Coconut Grove, Fla., William Sinnott, New York policeman, and Miss Margaret Krulis, Newark, N. J.

The latter three were not seriously wounded, but Zangara was given an 80 year sentence two weeks ago for attempting to kill the three and Mr. Roosevelt. He was never tried for the shooting of Mrs. Gill, who now lies in a hospital in a serious condition as a result of a bullet wound in the abdomen.

Cermak died last Monday after a long battle with a weak heart, pneumonia, and gangrene which set into the lung injured by the bullet.

Within a few hours after Cermak's death, Zangara had been indicted. In two more days, he had pleaded guilty and was sentenced to death.

Zangara gave as his reason for his mad act "hatred of capitalists," stomach trouble and the desire to cause Mr. Roosevelt to "suffer fifty-fifty" with him. "He capitalist and I figure make him fifty-fifty with me," said the slayer.

Zangara was brought to the state prison by Sheriff Dan Hardie, of Miami and within 10 minutes was photographed, fingerprinted and lodged in the death cell. He showed no signs of nervousness or curiosity at the prison surroundings.

"Are you sorry you shot Mayor Cermak?" Sheriff Hardie asked the assassin, as he was being led to the death cell.

"No," replied Zangara. "I'm not sorry. I wasn't shooting at him, but I'm not sorry I hit him."

THIEVES LOOT NEWTON OFFICE

Newton, March 13.—Chief of Police J. Parks Robinson is working on clues surrounding a bold safe robbery here yesterday.

The American Service company's offices were robbed of $110 in cash, $1,500 in negotiable notes, several insurance policies, one share of building and loan stock, and personal papers belonging to Clyde Wagner, manager of the company.

Thieves entered the office by "jimmieing" a window, although no marks were left on the sash. They opened the door from the inside, and carried out the company's safe. It was found by Claude Coulter, negro, a chauffeur for Mrs. J. Wilfong Yount.

The thieves had used a hacksaw and sawed off the safe's hinges.

This is the second safe robbery in Newton and surrounding territory in the last several months, several thieves now serving penitentiary sentences in the state's prison at Raleigh, having entered the Bank of Maiden. They took the bank's lone safe, but deserted it in a field some miles from town, with its valuables intact.

Several Are Hurt

Danville, Va., March 13.—Hastening here to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Nannie Estes, Oscar P. Estes, of Roanoke, and members of his family sustained painful injuries late yesterday evening on the Martinsville road. Mr. Estes was attempting to pass a wagon on the road when he saw he could not complete passage before the arrival of another car. His car fouled the wagon and it shot across the road into a ditch where it virtually stood on end. Miss Hattie Dickenson, of Roanoke, a niece of Mrs. Estes, was pitched through the windshield and partially scalped. Mr. Estes was badly cut about the head and daughter, Miss Mary Frances Estes, suffered a broken nose and damaged eye. Mrs. Estes was bruised and shaken. All were carried to Memorial hospital for treatment.

CHECKING UP ON SPORTS

By JACK ADAMS

There is a decided movement among baseball fans to get lowered admission prices to major and minor league baseball games this coming season. With the prices of everything else coming down and with smaller wages paid players, it seems in order to reduce admission prices.

In one of the first games of the season the Chicago Cubs defeated the New York Giants by a score of 10 to 2. The Giants will have to do better than that if they expect the support of the New York fans. Of course, a single exhibition game isn't a baseball season.

There is a growing agitation to play the men's and women's national tennis tournaments on clay instead of on turf as at present. Too much trouble has been encountered in trying to keep the turf courts in condition.

With the depression running wild, these baseball players who are holding out for more money than they received last year, seem to be out of order. Many a fan is wondering what he will use for money when he gets it into his head to go to a ball game.

Many a college student is participating these days in spring football practice. These days of spring training enable coaches to get a line on players.

Eddie Collins, now part owner of the Boston Red Sox, once stole six bases in a single game.

Ice hockey fans have been paying an average of $16,000 per game to see the contests in Madison Square Garden, New York.

Boxing is having a tough time of it in New York. Even lowered admission prices has had little influence on attendance.

So far no date has been set for the open tennis championship tournament. It wouldn't be surprising if no date was decided upon.

College crews in many sections of the country have started spring training. This coming season gives promise of being a rough one for rowing.

Clark D. (Shag) Shaughnessy, of Loyola University, New Orleans, described as the greatest one-man coaching staff in football, is the successor to Amos Alonzo Stagg at the University of Chicago.

Ty Cobb used to put lead in his shoes during practice. When the game started he removed the lead. He did this to gain speed on the bases.

A fifteen-round boxing bill has been passed by the Illinois State Senate. Schmelling and Baer may go that distance in Chicago during the world's fair.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question—What causes blood spots in eggs and how can this condition be remedied?

Answer—Eggs with blood clots or spots appear during the season of heavy production and are caused by the rupture of a blood vessel in the ovary. There is no way of correcting this condition but the eggs can be detected by candling and removed from those offered for sale. This condition, however, is only temporary and is not consistently found in the product of any one bird.

A Good Suggestion

"I can't do a thing with this Jones," said the manager. "I've had him in three departments, and he dozes all day long."

"Put him at the pajama counter," suggested the proprietor, "and fasten a card on him with these words:

"Our pajamas are of such superior quality that even the man who sells them cannot keep awake."

Sanitary

Visiting Doctor: "How is it, Sambo, that you and your large family keep so healthy?"

Sambo: "Well, sah, ah tell you: We've done bought one of dose sanitary drinkin' cups, an' we all drink outen it."

Rather Pert, Himself

Diner (to waiter): "What's the name of that selection the orchestra is playing?"

Waiter: "Go Feather Your Nest."

Diner: "Go jump in the lake. I asked you a civil question."

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and help shown us during the death of our darling daughter, Thelma Mae Wilson.

Smokies To Offer Many Attractions

Floral Display To Enhance Beauty of National Park Near Asheville

Asheville, N. C., March 14.—The floral display presented by the hundreds of flowering plants and trees, among the nearly 3,000 species to be found in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, will be a principal attraction of the new national playground during the spring and summer months of 1933. Due to the latitude in the mid-south and the variety of climatic conditions due to the changes in altitude of the mountains, the Smokies are said to harbor more species of plants than any other similar area on the North American continent.

Dogwoods, rebuds, early azaleas, anemones, saxifages, blood-roots and numerous other species growing in the shaded coves and ravines or on the sunny slopes, mark the early flowering season. Of particular interest in the Smokies is the large variety of trilliums, some 14 of the 18 known varieties being found in these mountains. Two of the species found here are new to science and are yet to be named.

Large beds of blue and pink phlox as showy as any cultivated varieties, hepaticas, iris, bluets, Virginia catch-fly, trailing arbutus add to the glory of the spring blossoming period in the Park. Rare orchids may be found in the ravines and secluded localities. The types of plants vary with the altitude and the blooming periods of the same species are later at higher altitudes.

Of paramount interest to the visitor in the Great Smokies will be the flowers of the rhododendrons and mountain laurels. Entire mountain slopes covering thousands of acres will be blanketed in the flowers of these showy mountain shrubs, in June, this year. The purple rhododendron most beautiful of all the varieties grows in great masses along the tops of the higher ridges. The laurels are to be found in profusion at most elevations, the great laurel or Rhododendron maximum fills entire valleys some of the shrubs being a foot in diameter at the base and twenty or more feet in height.

An area of rhododendron which will be of particular interest to Park visitors this season, is found on the summit of Thomas Ridge. This area is easily reached by visitors, by motor to Newfound Gap thence by the Indian Gap road to a point where a new trail has been built down the Thomas Ridge. For three miles this trail will traverse a vast flower garden. Highways and trails through other parts of the Park lead to large areas of rhododendron.

Mother: "But surely you didn't come right out and tell Jim you loved him?"

Daughter: "No, Mother, he simply had to squeeze it out of me."

Jay Anderson Is Church Organist On Two Occasions

Only Student At Wake Forest Permitted To Play On Poteat's Organ

Wake Forest, March 14.—Jay Anderson, a freshman here from North Wilkesboro, has been honored by the privilege of being the only student in Wake Forest College to use the organ in the Baptist church and the organ on which Dr. Hubert M. Poteat plays. Twice recently, Mr. Anderson has played for church services, the first time being last Wednesday night. On last night (Monday), the second meeting of a series of revival services, he and a choir which he picked from college students, took the place of Dr. Poteat and the regular choir.

The Good and Bad

Some folks are up and doing And think they're mighty smart. Giving old Satan full control, And using his fiery darts. They are shooting some at you. They're shooting some at every one.

And some they do not see. But get the good old Saving Grace.

God says 'twill make you free; It will keep you in the narrow path—

Nearer my God to Thee. —D. F. Barlowe.

Anatomically Speaking

Where can a man buy a cap for his knee? Or a key for the lock of his hair? Can you call his eyes an academy? Because there are pupils there?

In the crown of your head What jewels are found? What travels the bridge of your nose?

If you wanted to shingle the roof of your mouth Could you use the nails in your toes?

Can you alt in the shade of the palm of your hand Or beat on the drum of your ear?

Can you eat the corn that grows on your toe? Well why not grow corn on your ear?

Can the crook in your elbow be sent to jail?

If so, just what did it do? Where can I sharpen my shoulder blades?

I'll be darned if I know, do you?
