AN OFFICIAL UNIFORM SALES TAX SCHEDULE

ed on the total of purchases made at one time, rather than upon each article, in many cases resulted in tax charges of 5 and 6 per cent when the total purchases were large enough to apply a straight 3 per cent. This was so confusing that many merchants elected not to use this advantage.

These experiences have been strongly persuasive in the direction of a single schedule for all merchants, starting with a lower taxable line for the benefit of merchants having a large volume of sales below the taxable line and making it adjustable to all merchants by using a higher top range in each bracket and giving the customer the benefit of a tax adjusted to the total sum of his purchases at one trading period.

Under the rule now promulgated it will not be possible for the merchant to include the tax in the price of each article of merchandise, because the amount of tax on a given article is not an exact sum, but will vary with reference to whether two or more purchases are made at the same time, and depends upon the total sum of such cumulative purchases. The single uniform schedule gives to the merchant the advantage of fair and uniform trade practice, and to the purchaser the advantage of tax applied to his cumulative purchases as near to the 3 per cent tax paid by the merchant as can reasonably be applied. The rule does not require the use of coupons, stamps or sales tickets and can be easily applied by every merchant, and easily understood by the customer.

Under this simple single uniform rule the customer can never be overcharged more than a fraction of a cent on any purchase or group of purchases, and is given a part of the break of fraction on taxable purchases and no tax on single purchases below 10 cents.

The general scope of this new schedule has been discussed with representative merchandising groups in the state, and has met with a very pleasing degree of approval and assurance of co-operation in its observance.

The practical unanimity with which it has been accepted by merchandising groups is a fine indication of their real desire to co-operate with any set of regulations that provide uniformity of practice and protects them from absorption of the tax, which was the clear intent of the general assembly.

In the interest of uniform practice and understanding the new regulation has been put in the form of a placard that is printed by the department of revenue and will be furnished without charge. The accompanying cut is a fac-simile reproduction of the placard. They will be furnished in lithograph printing on bristol board, size 11x14 inches, in such quantities as may be needed, to merchants' associations for distribution to their members and other merchants. In communities where there is no organization of merchants it is requested that some particular merchant order a sufficient quantity to supply the merchants in the community.

BY THE WAYSIDE

By S. B. F.

When life has lost its savor, And fondest hopes deceive, Let us take a hint from children Playing "Land of Make-Believe. There friends are always loyal And the welcome we receive Is warmer far, than any dream— Kind Land of Make-Believe!

Even love's fairest rose may bloom, And its thorns we never feel For we crowd out all our sorrows, And every woe, with hope we heal!

Friend, if thy heart too, is aching And thou art too brave to grieve, Just make a little journey to the Land of Make-Believe!

I do not know who is the author of these few lines; but they are full of wisdom and helpful meaning . . . the essence which makes for sane, joyous living, that which belongs to all who earnestly desire it . . . and is any life really sane that is not filled with joy and hope? What good does it do anyone to brood over troubles, real, or more often, fancied troubles, or to regret a mistake, beyond the point of letting it be a lesson to us? Surely the wisest thing to do is to put away all the disappointments, stings, and frets, and with all our hearts proceed to "make believe" that they do not exist. The poetic fancy, "Beauty is in the eyes of the beholder" is true, meaning that everything is as we see it, and think of it. The same thought is expressed a bit differently in, "As a man thinketh, so he is."

So, in learning to "make believe" are we not merely learning to look at things in the right way, or from the right viewpoint?

And let us be very sure that as we learn to turn our backs steadfastly on all our worries, disasters, and disappointments, and begin to see that the world . . . our world . . . is of our own making, that we are all working either with the law of good, or against it, that we are here in this life, to learn the lessons that will fit us for taking the next onward and upward step. . . never a backward or downward step . . . we keep in mind that every experience is a teacher.

If we would only take the old
