QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question: What are the requirements of the corn-hog plan?

Answer: In signing this contract, you agree to reduce your corn acreage by 20 per cent under the average number of acres planted to corn on your farm in 1932 and 1933. You also agree to reduce the size of your brood sow herd so that not more than three-fourths as many litters will be farrowed in 1934 as were farrowed by the average of your sows in 1932 and 1933. Liberal payments are provided both for the bushels of corn reduced and the number of pigs not produced and sold.

The Bear Hunt

On Sunday morning, November 26, 1933, a group of Wilkes county boys, Claude Petty, Regional Cundiff, John Vickers, Nathan Ford, and the writer left for a big bear hunt in Eastern Carolina, Jones county. The day was a beautiful one and we were all in high spirits because each one of us had planned to bring a bear back to Wilkes county.

We reached our destination on Sunday night. After getting there we were carried to a Mr. O. E. Heaths home to spend the night. Naturally we were quite tired from our trip and had planned to go straight to bed so we could get up early on Monday morning to go bear hunting. Mr. Heath had his daughter fix us a light supper which we ate heartily. After supper as we sat around the fire getting acquainted each person had to tell a joke and believe me Mr. Heath really could tell jokes. He started telling us such exciting stories about the bears in that section that we all wanted to go bear hunting that night. Here's one of his true stories: He said he had killed 36 bears in six years, captured two alive, and his wife had killed one. One of the bears he killed weighed 413 pounds. Mr. Heath took the bear up on his shoulders and carried him 5 miles to his home and wasn't tired a bit. No static. In addition to the bear stories Mr. Heath also entertained us with harmonica music and could he play it?

The hunting grounds were not space. Our bear was secured on Monday morning bright and early. The weather was great for hunting but "fate" was against us because we didn't even see any sign of a bear. The hunt continued through Tuesday with no luck. On Wednesday we were out hunting and a young deer crossed our path and did we kill him? Wednesday night all of us were quite pleased over our game so we found Mr. Heath again to listen to his true stories. He didn't hesitate to relate one interesting experience that happened to him while here in Wilkes county. He said while he was here he was taken to Pores Knob. He declared that the trees grew so tall on Pores Knob that he could walk along and knock the tops of trees with his walking cane. May I say here that I also met a colored fellow who has 29 children and by February, 1934, he's expecting his 30th child. He has been married twice and has 16 children living, the baby being two years old and the father, James Stanley, is 60 and has never seen a sick day.

On Thursday morning we started for dear old Wilkes county. We stopped in Morehead City for a while and our next stop was Wilkesboro. Although we enjoyed our trip immensely I like Wilkes county best and the water of Wilkes county is better for us than all of the deer and bears you can kill. From what I could observe I'm forced to think that North Wilkesboro is a more progressive town than any town I passed through. If you want health and a long life come to dear old Wilkes county.

J. T. REDDING.

"Yes, gentlemen," he cried, "I've sold these pills for over twenty years, and never heard a word of complaint. Now what goes that prove?"
Voice from the crowd—"That dead men tell no tales."
