Fascinating Facts of NATURE

The ground is Nature's magic workshop. In the ground she brings seeds to life, she forms her jewels, her precious metals. In the ground she creates plant foods that are life-blood of farming in the South—potash—phosphate—and Chilean Natural Nitrate.

FOUR YEARS AFTER THOMAS JEFFERSON DIED AT MONTICELLO (1826) CHILEAN NATURAL NITRATE WAS FIRST USED TO FERTILIZE SOUTHERN CROPS.

NATURE PROVIDES FOR EVERYTHING AGES AGO, BEFORE MAN INHABITED THE EARTH SHE CREATED CHILEAN NATURAL NITRATE AND AGED IT A MILLION YEARS SO YOU COULD HAVE IT FOR YOUR CROPS

Col. Langston was the first after-luncheon speaker, and he expressed the hope that the dries would avoid a spirit of intolerance, adding that he thought, however, the press of the state should realize that freedom of conscience was as vital to the public welfare as the freedom of the press.

Mrs. W. J. Jones, president of Pineland college, Salemburg, told about the dry victory in Sampson county. Judge Johnson J. Hayes of the middle North Carolina federal district took the chair during the voting on the constitution and by-laws.

Prof. T. E. Story, successful dry delegate in the November election, Rev. Avery M. Church, Rev. Seymour Taylor and Mrs. R. E. Faw represented Wilkes county at the Greensboro meeting. They were greatly impressed by the enthusiasm manifested by the large gathering.

The Family DOCTOR

By John Joseph Gains, M. D.

THE ADOPTED CHILD

I have been consulted frequently in regard to the adoption of a baby, by the childless couple. Those interested are inspired by the highest, most noble, and sweetest of human impulses. I do not know of anything more fine and self-sacrificing, on the part of would-be parents, who by some freak of nature are denied children of their own.

But the sublimely-religious deed of adoption is fraught with perils. Granted that the "foundling" baby is free from the taint of underworld blood—passes the laboratory test with nothing plus; Granted that the parents are totally unknown—no estate claims or bobbing up of indigent ancestors to make trouble for the foster-parents in later years. There still remains the virile germ of inherited disposition. Like will—must—beget like. The wriggly snake cannot beget the dove.

Just recently an example came to my notice, which suggested this letter to you. A couple, well fixed with property, but denied the blessing of a baby, adopted a little boy from a foundling home. The foster parents were not over thirty-five, and the finest of characters. All the love of devoted parents was lavished on the little waif; no actual heir ever had better or sweeter parentage. I have known the adopters intimately since their youth. . . . No more ideal home.

The adopted one is now eighteen, and isn't at home any more. He began lying to his guardians as soon as he found the value of falsehood to himself. He never missed the opportunity to deceive and run away—and commit all sorts of crime of juvenile sort. He forged checks; even stole whatever laid loose. No amount of pleadings, and tears could feaze him—a natural born criminal. I'm glad it is not always that way.
