Scouts Observing National Week

Boy Scouts of Wilkes are now in the midst of their observance of National Boy Scout Week.

The observance reached a climax Saturday at noon when all the troops were mobilized and marched to the Legion-Auxiliary Club House where they listened to their most famous fellow member, President Franklin Roosevelt, who delivered an address over a nation-wide radio hookup.

Following the Scout radio program, H. V. Wagoner, who was recently named district Scout commissioner, spoke briefly to the Scouts and urged them to accept the challenge to go forward in their program of service to humanity.

The special observance of Scout Week began Thursday evening with a program at the Presbyterian church. At this program, each troop located in the Wilkesboros put on a special stunt demonstrating some phase of Scout work.

Hale Jones, the only Eagle Scout in this district and a member of the Baptist troop, demonstrated how to start a fire without matches. The Methodist troop gave an example of a Scout "good deed". The Presbyterian Scouts gave information about use of flags.

The Wilkesboro troop put on a first aid stunt, demonstrating the knowledge the Scouts must know about helping those who are injured.

The Girl Scouts were also present and gave the Scout oath and Scout laws.

A. S. Cassel, a member of the Court of Honor, presided at the program Thursday evening and presented Dr. W. A. Jenkins, Methodist minister, who delivered the principal address. Dr. Jenkins recalled the 24 years of service rendered by the Scouts and declared that the Scout organization has a glorious history.
