NURSERY NOTES By FLOYD M. JENNINGS

Pruning Hedges And Evergreens

Formal hedges like the privet, should be sheared back often during the growing season, between May and September. They should be pruned at least once per month during this period, oftener if they are making rapid growth. It is important to keep them neat, compact and box-like in appearance. Informal hedges like the Barberry, require very little pruning, except once during the summer, they should be gone over with a hand sickle and the straggling new shoots cut back. To renew an old hedge, cut out all the old, unsound stems altogether, cut back the younger healthy stems to ten to twelve inches above the ground and you will soon have a perfectly good young hedge. This should be done only in March.

Pruning evergreens. Pines and spruces require very little pruning. If they are growing too rapidly, or growing out of shape, the new shoots may be pinched off at the points where you wish to control growth or the new shoots may be cut back one-half the length a little later, so that you make sure this cutting is done before the growth stops. Junipers, cedars, retinosporas, biota and arborvitae stand shearing well and can be pruned or sheared at any time during the spring and summer. In pruning most evergreens it is generally desirable to leave the central leader. Dead wood can be taken out of evergreens at any time. No instructions are needed about cutting of the lower branches of evergreens, if in good condition, other than to leave them on. If a live branch of considerable size must be removed, do not make a clean collar cut as outlined in pruning deciduous plants but leave a stub of two or three inches for a year or two, till it dies out and then make the clean cut. Collar cuts of live wood on evergreens often starts the excretion of sap and this is rather difficult to control.

Resolutions In Memory Of Ralph Gray Bingham

During the session of the March term of Wilkes Superior Court, 1934, His Honor, Wilson Warlick, presiding, and on Friday morning, March 9, the Court and Bar are shocked, but bow and pause in humble submission to the will of the Creator of the universe and the great Law-Giver, who has seen fit to remove from us suddenly, in the city of Raleigh, our beloved brother, Ralph Gray Bingham.

In the passing of our beloved brother we feel the great loss our county has sustained in his passing. He was a most excellent citizen, a kind father, loving husband, brilliant young lawyer, and had before him a promising future.

The foregoing resolution is adopted by the Wilkes County Bar in open court, with His Honor, Wilson Warlick, presiding, and it is resolved that this be recorded in the minutes of the day's proceeding, and copies furnished the bereaved and the newspapers which desire to carry it.

MEDICAL ADVICE

If you want to . . . keep the bowel action regular and comfortable . . . make constipated spells as rare as colds . . . avoid danger of bowel strain —use a liquid laxative

Can constipation be overcome? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" declare thousands who have followed their advice and know.

You are not apt to cure your constipation with salts, pills and tablets, or any habit-forming cathartic. But you can overcome this condition just by gentle regulation with a suitable liquid laxative.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels just as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time.

Why Hospitals use a liquid laxative

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Will not irritate kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it!

In buying any laxative, read the label. If it contains a doubtful drug, don't take it. If you don't know what is in it, don't chance it. The contents of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is stated plainly on the label; fresh herbs, pure pepsin, active senna.

Its very taste tells you syrup pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. Drug stores have it, ready for use, in big bottles.
