When The Bowery Was Livest Mile

20th Century Inaugurates Its Program With Drama Of Naughty '90's

The Bowery—The Bowery They do such things And they say such things— On the Bowery—

I'll never go there any more. Certain authorities on the subject hold that the song quoted above robbed the once "livest mile on the face of the globe" of its glamor; there are others just as certain the advent of prohibition turned the Bowery into the drab and bedraggled street it is today.

Leaving such disputes to those who delve into the archives of forgotten glory, if glory it can be called, it must be admitted that the wicked old eighties and the naughty nineties are jammed with as colorful accounts of breezy goings-on as can be found in any period of American history.

To the lot of Wallace Beery, who can do more with a smirk or a silly grin than most leading men can do with an entire film of acting, falls the task of bringing to the screen one of the most picturesque characters of the time when the Bowery was in full flower. He has now added to his overflowing gallery of silent and talking screen portraits the characterization of Chuck Connors, as will be seen when "The Bowery" plays as a United Artists release Thursday and Friday of next week at the New Orpheum Theatre.

With all due respect to the rich color of George Raft's Steve Brodie and Jackie Cooper's Swipes, the newsboy, in "The Bowery," the characterization of Beery as Connors is more striking. If ever a part was tailored to the talent of Wallace Beery, that part is Chuck Connors, guide and friend of celebrities and humble Orientals, and a fancy dresser according to his own notions of flashy elegance.

Mrs. Andy Roop Dies

Mrs. Mary Ann Richardson Roop, highly respected lady of Halls Mills, passed away Tuesday, March 20, 1934. She was born January 29, 1859 and was, therefore, 75 years, 1 month and 21 days of age.

Mrs. Roop was married to Andy Roop, November, 1877. To this union were born eight children, seven living, one dead. Surviving her are her husband, Andy Roop, and the following children: J. A. Roop and B. C. Roop, of North Wilkesboro; G. C. Roop, of Pores Knob; F. F. Roop, of Wilkesboro; Mrs. B. F. Hayes, of Herndon, W. Va.; Mrs. Roby Wyatt, of Abshers; Miss Myrtle Roop, of Halls Mills; one sister, Mrs. M. J. Sturgill, of Roanoke, Va., forty grandchildren, fifteen great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted from Center Baptist church Thursday, March 22, at twelve o'clock with Rev. J. E. Hayes in charge. Interment was made in Cross Roads cemetery.

Rev. J. O. Wood Dies

Rev. J. O. Wood died at the home of his son, J. H. Wood, Friday morning, March 23. He was 78 years, 7 months and 10 days old.

He was first married to Miss Fanny Cockerham Sept. 23, 1874, who died 21 years ago. He was later married to Mrs. Ellen Byrd, who survives him.

He leaves five children by his first wife, Mrs. Lydia Creed, of Greensboro: Etta Blackburn, Roaring River, Route 1, Julia Blackburn, Dosa Wiles and J. H. Wood, North Wilkesboro Route 2.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday by Rev. J. M. Owens, assisted by Rev. Jimmie Bryant.

Eller Recovering

Lawson Eller, who was stabbed in the throat during an altercation early Sunday morning, is getting along satisfactorily and is expected to recover quickly.

3 Generations' of Measles At Same Time

Burlington, March 27.—Three "generations" of measles—father, daughter and her son—were recovering here today.

Physicians said it was the most unusual case recorded here.

John Banks, 76; his daughter, Mrs. Y. S. Miles, and her son, Shelton, 8, all were generously peppered with evidence of the malady.

Banks admitted he waited a long time to contract the childhood disease but pointed out that he was least affected of all.
