FERA OFFICE FORCE GETS ONE HOLIDAY

For the first time in several months all of the office force in the relief office in Wilkesboro will get a holiday Tuesday, according to a statement by Mrs. G. G. Foster, relief director.

Mrs. Foster and all her office help will go to Chapel Hill Tuesday to hear Harry L. Hopkins, national relief director, in an address at the university commencement.

State Group Will Announce Official Returns When All Reports Are Received

Raleigh, June 5.—The work of officially tabulating the returns from Saturday's primaries got under way today when county boards of election gathered throughout the state to canvass the votes.

As soon as these reports have been forwarded to the state board of election here, the state board of elections will canvass the results from the whole state, and the official figures will be released.

Raymond C. Maxwell, secretary of the state board, said that the board will probably be called to meet Saturday or early next week, dependent upon how fast the county votes are reported to state headquarters.

Meanwhile available unofficial returns indicated five run-off races June 30 to offices other than county and legislative posts. Indications were also that a number of local and legislative races would require a second primary.

The main second primary race, it appeared, would be between Luther Hamilton and G. A. Barden for the nomination to the congressional seat from which Representative Charles L. Abernethy was removed.

Second primary solicitatorial contests also were in prospect in the first, fourth, seventh and possibly the 13th judicial district.

Unofficial returns from the legislative races were too meagre to indicate what the attitude of the next legislature would probably be on the sales tax, one of the principal issues in the legislative campaign.

Organized anti-sales tax forces, however, contended they had won a majority of the contests.

Said J. Paul Leonard, secretary of the State Fair Tax association in a statement issued at Statesville:

"When the final check-up on the primary results is made, I believe it will show a decisive victory for the anti-sales tax forces."

Meanwhile Democrats were preparing to gather next Saturday to set in motion the machinery that will end in the biennial party convention which will be held there June 21. The voters will gather in 1,838 precincts Saturday to name delegates to the county conventions June 11. The county conventions in turn will elect delegates to the state convention.

The sales tax issues is expected to come to the fore again in the state convention.

Troubles of Cooley Start; Must Name Postmasters

Washington, June 5.—The troubles of Harold Cooley, nominated for Congress in the fourth district, have already begun; his first official act will be to make some postmaster recommendations. He called up Senator Bailey today by phone, and the senator told him he would forward at once the list certified by the civil service commission for postmaster at Siler City, Asheboro, Clayton, and Cary.

Senator Bailey also suggested to Mr. Cooley that it would be well for him to come to Washington in the near future to give attention to some public works projects, and Mr. Cooley replied that he would be there the first of the week.

There will be a special election in the fourth and the election of Mr. Cooley is taken for granted. If Congress should remain in session to enact all the legislation the President desires the new member from the south would probably have an opportunity to take the oath of office before adjournment.

The very close relation between farm income and crop yields, as shown by surveys, leads to one basic thought—build better soils.

It would be shame if we did not sell the 200 men's and young men's new style Felt Hats that we are placing on sale Saturday at only $1.19. Dress Straw Hats too, $1.00, 48c and 95c.—The Goodwill Store, Your Store.
