

Plans Lighting For Rural Homes

Governor Ehringhaus Appoints Rural Electrification Committee

The plans of Governor Ehringhaus's newly appointed rural electrification committee are carried out, a great many farm homes in practically every county of the state will soon be enjoying the use of electric service for lights, stoves, motors, etc.

According to David S. Weaver, agricultural engineer of State college, who has been selected by the committee to make a survey of the state, there is a possibility of extending a great many electric lines in the very near future. Financial assistance through Mrs. Thomas O'Berry, state relief administrator, is expected.

Local groups of farmers interested in securing this service should get together and send Mr. Weaver the following information:

- 1. The number of farmers who will actually connect to the proposed line at once.
- 2. The number of farmers on the proposed line who would probably connect later.
- 3. The number of filling stations, churches, schools, etc., along the proposed line.
- 4. The approximate length in miles the line would have to be to serve above users.
- 5. Can the "right of way" be secured without cost?
- 6. Determine just what the group, as a whole, will do in the way of donating poles, labor and such.
- 7. What use of current, other than lighting, would be made by the majority of farmers, such as irons, washing machines, ranges, refrigerators, motors, etc.

The complete line of Firestone tires are now unconditionally guaranteed against all road hazards, effective yesterday, according to announcement made by Dick Cashion, proprietor of Dick's Service Stations.

Rousseau Gets Lead Over Burke

When he should have been watching troubles in his own backyard," made the principal affidavit for the Rousseau cause.

Among the allegations in this affidavit were these: "That a number of both Democratic and Republican voters of Alexander county have stated to this affiant that in their opinion from 1,000 to 1,500 Republicans voted in the primary in Alexander county.

"That David Ball, registrar in Sharpe's township, stated sometime between 10 and 11 o'clock on the morning of the primary Harry Miller, chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Alexander county, instructed him that every voter should vote for both Hayden Burke, Democrat, for judge, and John R. Jones, Republican, for solicitor and that thereafter all voters were given both the Democratic and Republican ballots.

"That since the primary was held in Alexander county this affiant and others repeatedly tried to see the poll books and the registration books and were repeatedly refused the privilege of seeing them.

"This affiant is further informed, advises and believes that at about 9 o'clock on the morning of the primary that one or more persons in Alexander county deliberately and designedly passed instructions to the registrars and judges that both Democratic and Republican ballots could and should be handed to each voter, that this instruction was given deliberately and for the purpose of piling up a vote of Hayden Burke for judge, notwithstanding protest that had been made on several occasions prior to the day of election."

"That the entire vote of Alexander county on account thereof was illegal, contrary to law and void and the entire vote of the county for the judicial ticket of the 17th judicial district should be thrown out and certified so far as that county goes."

Only Part of Probe

The election board of the state only went a part way with the contentions of Rousseau's attorneys, Frek Hutchens, of Winston-Salem, and J. H. Whicker, of North Wilkesboro. After an hour's conference in executive session this afternoon it reorganized the Alexander election board and discarded 559 Democratic votes when it was contended by the Rousseau advocates that there was a surplus of more than 1,700 votes over voters.

Mr. Burke stayed in the Alexander courtroom during the whole proceeding which was termed a "Spanish inquisition" by some of his attorneys. Mr. Rousseau was in the room but a few minutes, waiting throughout the whole hearing under the shade on the courthouse lawn.

Registrars Sworn In

All registrars were sworn at the beginning of the hearing this morning. C. R. Watts was the first to take the stand. He denied that Dagenhand, the chairman of the county board, had given him instructions to give both Republican and Democratic ballots to the voters. He had been given no instructions at all, he said, and wasn't sure whether anybody had voted for both a Republican and a Democrat.

F. S. Stackleather, registrar, said that he imagined some of the Republicans did vote for Burke in his precinct. He had 593 voters registered on the poll books and 989 judicial ballots tabulated. He said that officials in his precinct began to hand out both Republican and Democratic ballots to each voter sometime before 10 o'clock on the morning of the primary when the people began to demand them.

The same story was repeated in each precinct: There was always a plurality of votes over voters and the officers had no other explanation than that everybody had a right to express his sentiments.

Burke had coming to his side of the fray today 12 attorneys who will also appear in Wilkes tomorrow. They are former Lieut. Gov. W. C. Newland, of Lenoir; John Scott, of Statesville; Eugene Trivette, North Wilkesboro; V. G. Beckham, of Stony Point; J. V. Gwaltney, of
