Local Impersonator Good In Hollywood Premiere

Some twenty-five local young men and women "went Hollywood" very nicely last Thursday and Friday evening in a novel way.

In keeping with the spirit of the Greater Movie Season, which the Liberty Theatre has started about a month ago, the management has endeavored to bring to the people of this neighborhood a different atmosphere concerning motion pictures.

And along this line a duplicate of a real Hollywood Premiere was staged with floodlights and loudspeakers to greet the stars on their arrival.

The characterizations as given by the local folks was very much like the real characters and the judges had quite a hard time to decide which were the best.

The first prize, a 40-piece glass dinner set was awarded to Miss Cat Moore for her characterization of Zasu Pitts. Second prize was awarded to Miss Jackie Hart for her Kate Smith and song imitations. Third prize was given to Miss Hazel Horton who portrayed Mae West. Others to receive prizes were Miss Mickey Bryant as Dorothy Lee and Jim Love and Jay Brewer as Laurel and Hardy.

Other entries that were well received and applauded were Elizabeth Grayson as Margaret Sullivan; Peggy Jane Hart as Baby Darling of the Our Gang Comedy fame; Francis O'Daniel as Norma Shearer; Alma Horton as Elizabeth Allen; Jean Moore as Mitzi Green; John Blackburn as Lanny Ross; Mrs. Billie Morrison as Claudett Colbert; Mamie Bowles as Gracie Allen; Lucille Hart as Joan Crawford; Carolyn Ann Moore as Baby Ann in Our Gang Comedies; F. R. Harris and Major Minton as Groucho and Harpo Marx; Buddy Moore as Baby LeRoy; Bill Erwin as Joe Penner; Bob Ward as Mickey McGuire; Ed Aaron as Bing Crosby, completed the characters.

Mr. Kay, the manager, thanked the contestants and the many merchants who made it possible to give the Hollywood Premiere. The following merchants generously gave their help: The Hater Chevrolet Company for the use of the cars; the Auto Parts for the sound system; Davis, The Florist, for flowers and the Blue Ridge Studio for photographs.

Famous Meeting Places at Chicago's Two Great World's Fairs

At the World's Columbian Exposition in 1893, it was "Meet me at the Ferris Wheel." At a Century of Progress 1933-1934, it has been "Meet me at the Havoline Thermometer." Whether or not the great height of both have anything to do with this popular choice may be left to the psychologists; but the fact remains that at both great Chicago World's Fairs, the big passenger wheel on the Midway and the world's largest thermometer became the favorite assembly points for exposition sightseers.

For those who have forgotten, the Ferris Wheel was 265 ft. high and had a seating capacity of 1,400. It lacked the central location of the Havoline Thermometer as a meeting place, but dominated the earlier fair because it might be seen from any point in the grounds. The big wheel was distinctly a Midway enterprise, while its counterpart is a regular exhibit of a well-known product.

The Havoline exhibit provides a comfortable lounge where parties may meet and where the weary may rest. The earlier meeting place lacked this feature. When the present colorful exposition has passed into history, old-timers in reminiscence will probably say to each other, "Remember when we met at the big thermometer the day it registered 106?"

Premiums Restricted To Carolina Products

The North Carolina State Fair will restrict its premiums on agricultural products to North Carolina growers alone and will pay competitors $10,500 for the agricultural exhibits made.

"This means that farheel farmers should plan to enter more of their products at the Fair this year," says Dean I. O. Schaub, head of the extension service at State College. "We are asking our county farm and home agents to aid growers in selecting and preparing exhibit material when possible but we shall not be able to aid in this work to any great extent due to emergency canning and crop adjustment programs now underway. The fair last fall was an excellent exposition but failed to measure the agriculture of the state because of the few agricultural exhibits made. I am hopeful that this will be remedied this fall."

The State Fair will be held during the week of October 8 to 13. The premium list has been printed and is now ready for distribution, Mr. Schaub said. Those desiring copies of the list should make application directly to Mr. Norman Y. Chambliss, manager, at Raleigh.

Until last fall, county home and farm agents were able to give considerable time to selecting, assembling and preparing farm products for exhibit at the annual State Fair. However, the cotton plow-up campaign, the tobacco work and the emergency canning program prevented the agents from taking an active part in helping with the fair in 1933. This should not deter individuals from selecting their choice livestock, field crop and garden products to be shown at the fair this fall, said Mr. Schaub.

Trench Silo Described In New Bulletin

The trench silo has become one of the most popular and inexpensive types of silos to store the feed needed each winter in North Carolina.

During the past year hundreds of mimeographed plans for building trench silos have been distributed to interested farmers but the demand for these plans became so heavy that an extension bulletin, "Silage and the Trench Silo," has been written by John A. Arey, dairy extension specialist, and D. S. Weaver, agricultural engineer at State College, and issued an Extension Circular No. 201.

Corn and sorghum are the foremost crops advised for use as silage and should be cut when they contain maximum feed nutrients and at the same time sufficient moisture to cause the silage to pack well.

The amount of silage needed on any farm is determined by the number of animals to be fed. The acreage required to produce a given amount of silage depends largely upon the fertility of the soil. Information is contained in the bulletin on the amount of ensilage needed and the acreage to plant.

The trench silo is inexpensive to construct and has given thousands of cattle-keeping people of North Carolina excellent results during the past two years. It is recommended as a type that is well adapted to the medium or small-sized herd and among the advantages enumerated in the bulletin are its low cost of construction, low cost of filling equipment, ease of construction, and fire and wind proof. The most important factors to be considered in locating the trench silo are: drainage, soil, and convenience. The location must permit good surface drainage.
