Rev. C. F. Fields Dies Near Elkin

Was a Former Member of the Wilkes County Board of Education; Age 82

Rev. Columbus Franklin Fields, 82, passed away late Friday afternoon at his home in the Cool Springs community, four miles west of Elkin, death following a protracted decline in health which had confined him to his home for many months. His condition had been grave for a week following an attack of angina pectoris. The passing of this widely-beloved Baptist minister means the loss to that section of another of the pioneer rural pastors and public school teachers who have played such a part in the moulding of the characters of the youth of the suburban districts; one who was vitally interested in the education of the younger generations. Having spent his entire life in the community in which he was born and reared, few had ever won so warm a place in the hearts of the citizens of this northwest section, where he had served numerous churches as pastor for about 60 years. He taught in the public schools of Wilkes and adjoining counties for more than 40 years, served on the board of education of Wilkes county 14 years, and as moderator of the Elkin and Surry Baptist associations for a number of years.

Nine years ago the golden wedding anniversary of Rev. Mr. Fields and his wife, Mrs. Nancy Harris Fields, was celebrated at their hospitable country home and attended by a host of friends.

Surviving are his wife, three daughters and one son, Mrs. F. L. Byrd, of Ronda; Mrs. H. F. Byrd, of Benham; J. F. Fields, of Elkin; R. F. D., and Mrs. Grover Haynes, of State Road. The funeral rites were conducted Sunday morning at 11 o'clock from Benham Baptist church of which he was the founder, by Rev. Grant Cothran, Rev. Isom Vestal, Rev. George Curry and Rev. Richard Day. Interment was in the family plot in the cemetery, where members of the family of successive generations have slept for years.

SOME STRIKERS OUT FOR GOOD

"Many of those who participated in flying squadrons and other forms of violence probably never will be admitted again" to work in the textile mills, David Clark, generally recognized as an unofficial spokesman for the textile industry, said recently, in a statement denying that the manufacturers have made any agreement to "readmit all strikers."

"I notice that Francis J. Gorman and R. R. Lawrence are having much to say about mills violating some alleged agreement to readmit all strikers, but I have no record of any such agreement having been made," said Mr. Clark, editor of the Textile Bulletin.

"Mr. Gorman called off the strike when he found that he could no longer keep the people out of the mills, in fact, very few ever left their work except under intimidation and threats of violence. The strike was a failure.

"I understand that mills are re-employing the strikers, except such as were guilty of violence, and many of those who participated in flying squadrons and other forms of violence probably never will be admitted again."

"While Gorman and Lawrence get excited about mills refusing to re-employ workers who were guilty of violence, it is significant that in the only contract signed with a mill during the strike they specified that any worker who failed to join the union within ten days of employment should be discharged.

THE McNEILL FAMILY

By JOHNSON J. HAYES

(Editor's note: This is the third article written by Judge Hayes to appear in The Journal-Patriot. Interested readers are asked to look for the next one, which will appear within a short time.)

In my last article there could have been added the names of Bullis, Brooks, Cooper, Edmonston, Green, Minton, Miller, McDaniel, Proffit, Sebastian, Snyder, Stansbury, Stout, Triplett, Watts, West, and still others who have McNeill blood in them. I call attention to those who bear the name and those mentioned in my last article in order that they may become interested in the information which will affect them.

Rev. George McNeill was born in Scotland in 1720, and came to this country, married Miss Mary Coates from the eastern part of North Carolina, and settled in Wilkes county before the Revolutionary war. He was a Chaplain in the battle of Kings Mountain, having gone there with the troops of Ben Cleveland from what is now Purlear or New Hope section of Wilkes county. All of his descendants are, therefore, entitled to join the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution. He was a farmer and a very active country preacher, having assisted in the establishment of many Baptist churches in Wilkes and other counties. He lived on the waters of Lewis Fork creek, near Parsonville, on the land where the late George Welch lived, and was buried in a family cemetery just across the Lewis Fork creek in sight of the residence, having died June 7, 1805. The late Judge and Rev. Billie Eller (a descendant of Rev. George McNeill) of Greensboro, enlisted the co-operation of others and erected a marble monument at his grave in 1905.

The children of George McNeill were the great, great grandparents of most of us living today, although there are some still farther removed. It is my purpose to supply the information so those of us who are related may know, and to what extent. Therefore, I shall name the children of George, but I am not sure of the order in which they were born. From which of his children did you descend? He had eight children whom we are able to trace. One girl was called Polly, but I am satisfied her real name was Mary, who married Henry, the son of Uncle William Miller. The other seven children were John, who settled near Greenville, S. C., William, who married a sister of Jeremiah Cleveland and moved to Clayborn county, Tenn.; James, who married Mary Shepherd; Benjamin, who married a Miss Lipps; Joseph, who first married Hannah Wilson, and after her death married Elizabeth Powell Viars, widow of Viars; Thomas, who married Mary Hannah, daughter of Rev. James Parsons, of Purlear county, and Elizabeth, who married Robert Bingham and moved to Watauga. From her were descended many people bearing the Bingham name. Later I will deal more elaborately with the descendants of Elizabeth Bingham and of John and William McNeill, but at this time I will write concerning the descendants of the other children because they lived in Wilkes or nearby country and we contact them very frequently.

Let me now give you the descendants of James and Mary Shepherd McNeill. They had nine children who lived to have issue, namely, Larkin, John, Fanny, George, William, Oliver (Ollie), Nancy, Rebecca, and Eli. A chart will probably present this in a way easier to understand.

1. James McNeill, son of Rev. George McNeill, born 1763, died 1834, married Mary Shepherd, lived in Wilkes. Children (a) Larkin McNeill died 1824, married Vannoy. Their children were: 1. Jesse, 2. John, 3. Fannie, 4. Neil, 5. James, 6. Charlotte.

(b) John McNeill, born January 30, 1796, died January 21, 1877. Married Rachel Eller, a sister of Captain Simon Eller, August 22, 1820. They lived at Purlear near the spot where Charlie Carter, their grandson, now lives. Their children were: 1. Alfred, 2. Franklin, 3. Peter, 4. Jesse, 5. William (Big Billie) 6. Laura, who married John Carter; 7. Susan, who married James H. McNeill (called Jimmie D.) 8. Emaline never married, 9. Caroline never married, and 10. Polly, who married David Eller. He died in the Civil war and she left no children. You can see how easy it is to identify the children of these families. Rufus Eller (son) and Mrs. Carrie Hayes (mother of Ed Hayes), are grandchildren of Alfred McNeill; Mrs. E. E. Eller, of North Wilkesboro, is a daughter of Peter McNeill. Jesse McNeill was the father of Mrs. Sharper McNeill, and Mrs. Lonnie Carter and other children; William (Big Billie) was the father of P. M. McNeill, of Purlear, and grandfather of Chal O. McNeill and Cyrus McNeill, of North Wilkesboro; Laura Carter was mother of Charlie and Will Carter, of Purlear; and Susan was the mother of twelve children,

NURSERY NOTES
By FLOYD M. JENNINGS

Evergreen Hlex

During the past few years considerable interest in the evergreen hlex (holies) has been shown by nurserymen and home owners. The evergreen holies show considerable variation in habit of growth. Dense pyramid-altree forms are characteristic of the American and English holies, compact upright shrubby forms are exhibited by Hlex Pernyi and F. crenati, while F. crenati convexa and F. glabra usually present more rounded forms. The variations in habit and growth lend to the usefulness of these broad-leaved evergreens in landscape planting. Even though the fruiting habit of these plants is their most outstanding characteristic, the nature and attractiveness of the foliage should not be underestimated.

Culture
The best cultural conditions for these evergreens holies can be summed up in the statement that they will do best in light soil, which is retentive of moisture, although well drained, and fairly fertile.

Transplanting
Plants are best transplanted when the soil is warm, and the plants properly dug, and well burlapped, as much of the root system should be retained as possible. The plants should be well firmed when planted and a depression left around each one to hold water.

A liberal quantity of peat moss worked into the soil about the plants, as well as used as a mulch, will aid their proper development. If the soil is of average fertility little additional fertilization will be necessary. An application of complete fertilizer, such as a 4-12-4, at the rate of one-half pound to plants of specimen size or at the rate of two and one-half pounds per hundred square feet of bed area, is sufficient.

Family Re-union At Home Mr. J. H. Moore

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moore in Brushy Mountain township was the scene of the happy family re-union Sunday, Sept. 30th, when their children, a number of their grandchildren, and a few intimate friends of the family, gathered in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Moore.

Mrs. Moore is 74 years of age, while Mr. Moore has passed the 72nd milestone. Both are enjoying splendid health, their many friends will be pleased to learn.

Among those present for the happy event were all of the ten children of the aged couple, 25 grandchildren, and one great grandchild.

At the noon hour a bounteous dinner was served which was greatly enjoyed by all present. Interesting talks were made by Messrs. Charlie Poole and E. C. Moore, both neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Moore.

Kansas City, Sept. 25.—J. D. Gutches' automobile was ablaze. He drove rapidly in search of a fire station. Motorists followed to warn him his car was afire. When Gutches reached the fire company building he had a following of two dozen would-be warners.

one of whom still lives, Mrs. Rhoda Pennell, of Moravian Falls, while the last living son died a few days ago, Thomas Jefferson McNeill, father of Miss Hattie McNeill.

Extra Point Proves To Be Margin of Victory In Game Here Friday

Playing against big odds in weight and experience the Mountain Lions of North Wilkesboro high school lost by the margin of an extra point 7 to 6 against Marion here Friday afternoon.

This was the initial game of the 1934 season for Coach Richie's team, which showed up well throughout.

Marion was favored to win by a comparatively wide margin—but the locals were in there to win if possible, taking advantage of four fumbles by Marion and completing four passes.

Marion started out gaining ground steadily and in the second quarter Carson managed to get over for a touchdown. Tight playing followed until near the end of the game when the Lions put on an aerial attack that went for a touchdown on a pass from Gentry to Ervin. Hubbard failed in attempt for extra point by a line buck.

Carson and Broom were outstanding for the winners while Hubbard was the greatest ground gainer for the locals. Deal, Ervin and Captain Jarvis played good football for the Lions.

The game Friday was the beginning of the Western Conference schedule as far as North Wilkesboro is concerned. The next game will be here Friday afternoon with Lenoir offering the opposition. This will also be a conference game.

Wilkesboro's First Football Friday

Mocksville Will Play Wilkesboro On Home Field First Game of Season

Wilkesboro high school's first football team will usher in the 1934 season with a game against Mocksville high school on Wilkesboro's field Friday afternoon. Due to the short time for practice, Coach Benny Troutman hardly knows how his team will stack up this year but prospects, notwithstanding inexperienced players, does not look so dark and a fighting team is confidently expected.
