Robert L. Doughton Takes Part In Fight

Fist Fight Takes Place On Albe. marle Street; Solon Is Bruised About Face

Albemarle, Oct. 4.-Robert L Doughton, representative from the ninth district, was allegedly assaulted on the streets here about il o'clock this morning by J. S. (Ceph) Blalock, of Albemarle, The skin on Mr. Doughton's face was broken in several places and there were various bruises.

Despite his 71 years, the veteran representative defended himself in vigorous manner, exchanging several blows with his assailant, and after Blalock had walked away challenged him to "come back and let's finish this thing."

It was said that Blalock, who is a prominent Republican, has just received his cotton exemption certificate and was not entirely satisfied with the allotment granted him. Doughton opened the Democratic campaign in this county here last night, during which he defenced the provisions of the Bankhead bill, and it is believed that Doughton's version of the affair was that while walking down the street some man started cursing him about the cotton allotment and wher he sought to give a reply the man struck him in the face. LOVE Lightly intense story of modern youth in a modern city by Margaret Sangster

An

POOR ELLEN . . . poor Ellen Church . . . Her oddly distorted philosophy was built from the ashes of her mother's disillusionment . . . "It's better," her mother said, "to sit on the window-ledge and see the world pass by than to be a part of the crowd. ... You're less likely to be hurt."... Ellen had seen in her mother's broken life, the agony that may come from loving too deeply... But love came to Ellen ... came swiftly and desperately . . and her philosophy went crashing down all about her ... She couldn't help loving Anthony ... but she could, she would ... and she did, keep him from knowing that she loved him, even though they were man and wife . . . It's an intense story, neither over-sophisticated nor hard-boiled . . . It's a story all will enjoy. 'LOVE Lightly.'

Events in the Life of the Glamorous Empress, STORY OF CLEOPATRA Events in the Life of the Glamorous Empress, Suggested by Cecil B. De Mille's "Cleopatra"

But then Antony sees Cleopatra borne from the palace in her golden litter, carried to Octavian's tent. Heart-broken at what he believes is her desertion, he does not realize that she is making a last plea for his life, even offering to give up the crown itself.

and the second second

Completely broken in spirit, Antony drinks one lost toast to the Antony that might have been, and plunges his Roman sword deep into his breast.

With an insulting refusal from Octavian, Cleopatra returns to the palace to find Antony dying, to hear him beg forgiveness for the wrong he has done her. There is but one way now for her to meet gloating Octavian who is battering down the palace walls.

Dressed in her royal robes, she presses the poisonous asp to her white breast—and, when Alaxandria's gates fall, the Romans find Cleopatra, seated on her throne, dead—a fitting end for the woman who found a great love and, for it, gave all.
