Kitchen experts frequently say the part of mediator in the debate of "Reachers" versus "Scoopers," as applied to kitchen cabinet and cupboard arrangement, it was learned after extensive interviews with cooks, but house wives and home economists. The question as to whether it is more fatiguing and inconvenient to reach up when getting out and putting away cooking utensils or to stoop down for them has advocates on each side.

An English butler, whose experience included service in households of socially prominent persons, stated that a kitchen, planned as it would like, would have no well cabinets or cupboards at all; that all such space would be arranged from the floor to the working surface level.

However, a recent tour of approximately twenty model kitchens indicated that kitchen arrangements designed in between these two extremes, are widely avored at the present time. By enclosing the kitchen walls with cabinet units at reachable heights above the working surface, the problem of the old fashioned "top shelf" is almost eliminated. A great deal of tiresome stooping has also been avoided by the substitution of drawers which may be used instead of shelves.

Wintry winds are hard on delicate complexions. Beauty specialists recommend the lavish use of lubricating, nourishing and protective creams and lotions to keep the skin soft, youthful and radiant during the rigors of the winter season. Apply them before going to bed and leave a bit on overnight.

"By saving expense and adding new income, the electric system on most farms ought to pay for itself," declares David Cushman Coyle of the Rural Electrification Administration. "The best way to start planning for use of electricity is not to waste much time on mental pictures of electric toasters and electrically heated shaving water, but to begin with the practical everyday jobs around the house and barn. Electric service ought to be not a burden on the family budget but a help. The first pieces of equipment bought should be those that will actually save money now being paid out for expenses. Next come those that will help to add new income to the farm. Any additional comfort and convenience can then be considered as extra profits."

Mrs. Sophronia Watson, of LeNoir, was a visitor in the home of her son, Mr. Roscoe Watson, Sunday.

This community enjoyed a glorious Christmas. Everything was very quiet with the exception of a few who had so little respect for themselves as to get drunk. We are made to wonder why men with any degree of decency or self-respect will stoop so low as to drink the body-wrecking, soul-destroying stuff that will lower a gentleman of the highest rank to the lowest degree of shame and disgrace.

Interesting News From Parsonville

PARSONVILLE, Dec. 28.—Christmas passed satisfactorily around Parsonville.

Rev. Lee Beshears preached a very interesting sermon at Miss Cynthia Ann Parson's Christmas day.

Mr. Van Spears, of the C. C. Camp near Bristol, Tenn., spent the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Spears.

Mr. E. D. Hamby and daughter, Mae, spent Christmas day with relatives at Rhodessa.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Welsh, of them appear the equal of men. Today they do not need any proof, he declared.

The flavor of ripe olives is heightened by heating. This accounts for their ability to lend an accent of flavor to any entree of which they are a part and is the reason for their popularity when served hot as hors d'ouevres. Merely heat the whole olive in its own juice and serve while still well heated through.

Household Hint: To renovate one of the lizard-skin or crocodile bags so much in vogue this season, rub it with vaseline to which a few drops of glycerine have been added and wipe with a dry, clean cloth.

"I'm sorry I can't give you an appointment this afternoon," said the dentist. "I have eighteen cavities to fill." And he picked up his golf bag and went out.

544 Hunters Secure Quarry In Huge Deer Hunt In National Game Preserve

Asheville, Dec. 30.—Hunters numbering 544 bagged and carried away an equal number of bucks during the huge deer hunt which recently closed in the Pisgah National Game Preserve near Asheville, according to figures recently compiled on the hunt by the National Forest Service officials in charge of the event.

Inaugurated with a preliminary hunt of 205 hunters during the week of November 2 to 7 and continued with a four-week main hunting season for 1,439 hunters from November 18 to December 12, the hunt, it is believed, proved to be the largest and most successful ever held in the south.

Hunters from 18 states took part in the expeditions which gave opportunity for three days of exciting deer for nearly 1,700 men and women outdoors. States represented in the big hunt included Massachusetts, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia. The District of Columbia was also represented by hunters in the event.
