throughout the United States. In towns and communities where there is no such office, the Post Office will furnish the address of the nearest one.

To apply for a social security account, the worker should get an application blank from the nearest Social Security Board office—or perhaps he can get one from his employer. He should fill in the application blank and return it to the Social Security Board office, or to his employer, if he prefers.

In return, he will receive a card showing his name and social security account number. He should keep the card and make a record of the number where he can always find it—but he should tell the number to his present employer, and to every other employer for whom he may work. The employer must have the number to use with the worker's name in his reports to the Government showing the worker's wage and social security tax.

To file a claim, the worker or any other beneficiary should go or write to the nearest Social Security Board office. There he will receive all the help he needs to make out the necessary claim papers. After the application forms and essential proofs are completed, the claim will be forwarded to Washington for adjudication. When the claim has been adjudicated and the amount of the insurance payment determined, the applicant will be advised when he may expect the first payment. It is not necessary to consult an attorney or any legal adviser in obtaining insurance payments.

Residents of Ashe, Alleghany, Alexander, Caldwell, Catawba, Iredell, Rowan, Watauga and Wilkes Counties may secure information about the old-age and survivors insurance program at the office of the Social Security Board, 301 Post Office Building, Salisbury, N. C.

2 Miners, Buried In Cave-In, Saved

Carbondale, Pa., April 1.—Two anthracite miners were recovering in a hospital today from effects of a 17-hour imprisonment 30 feet underground as a result of a cave-in. Steve Daynock, fifty-eight, and Michael Hurchick, thirty-six, were brought to the surface in a dramatic rescue yesterday.

Movement For Economy Gets A Big Setback

Senate Groups Boost Flood Control and Canal Funds

Washington.—April Fool's Day produced increasing indications that Congress was only fooling when it showed signs earlier this year of hitting the economy trail to avoid additional taxes or an increase in the public debt limit.

Almost the last vestige of the reductions voted by the House or Senate previously in President Roosevelt's budget estimates was offset when a Senate appropriations subcommittee added $44,150,000 to a House-approved appropriation for civil functions of the War Department. Of this increase $30,000,000 was for general flood control work and $14,150,000 to start construction of a third set of giant locks at the Panama Canal.

More Relief Funds Urged
Possibly heralding further setbacks to come for the economy forces, appeals for increased relief funds were heard on the House side of the Capitol.

Representative Cochran (D), Mo., saying that the WPA had cut its rolls to 2,100,000 for April by lopping off 200,000 persons employed in March, proposed a supplemental relief appropriation of $38,000,000 for the current fiscal year. He said Colonel F. C. Harrington, the WPA commissioner, had advised him that this amount would be needed, in addition to the $1,477,000,000 already voted the work relief administration for the current year, if the rolls were to be kept at the present level until the year-end—June 30.

"The cities and states say they will be unable to carry any additional load," Cochran declared.

(To stay within appropriations, WPA has been cutting its rolls. The aim has been to bring the rolls down to about 1,500,000 by June 30—a cut of roughly 700,000 as compared with the total of project workers on March 20. Harrington has set the April quota of jobs at 2,120,000, and he said today that he had made no final decisions on exact figures for May and June.)

THE LITTLE BOY'S BABY PRAYER

Dear God, I need you awful bad; I don't know what to do. My papa's cross, my mamma's sick. I hain't no fren' but you. Them keerless anrels went and brung 'Sted of the boy I ast. A weensy, teensey, baby girl; I don't see how they dast . . .

And, God, I wisn't you'd take her back. She's just as good as new. Won't no one know she's second hand. But 'ceptin' me and you. And pick a boy—Dear God, yourself. The nicest in your fold. But please don't choose him quite so young. I'd like him five years old. —SELECTED.

High Point Is Host P T A Convention

Now that Easter is over and those PTA sponsored egg hunts are a thing of the past, Parent-Teacher people all over North Carolina are making plans to attend their 21st annual convention.

Mrs. Doyle D. Alley, state PTA president, and her board members have been planning the program for months. And this week, Mrs. Alley announced that plans are practically completed for the 1940 state-wide PTA convention to be held in High Point, April 17-19. Hotel Sheraton is to be the convention headquarters.

The program, built around a central theme, "The Next Steps in Education," will bring to its listeners speakers from a dozen state organizations, both educational and civic. PTA believes in studying a subject from all angles, and developing a cooperative program of public relations. Mrs. S. C. Cox, a national vice president, from Roanoke, Va., will represent the National Parent-Teacher Congress at the convention. An address by Mrs. Cox will be the main feature of the opening session on Wednesday afternoon, April 17. Mrs. Alley will present the convention theme at this time.

This spring convention for P. T. A. workers, where delegates representing over 700 local associations come together, is regarded by 70,000 PTA members as a culmination of their years efforts. Reports are made, officers elected, and education and inspirational addresses heard. This year a first vice president and a recording secretary are to be elected.

The High Point council is planning to play hostess in a big way. A banquet, several luncheons, and sight-seeing tours for delegates are being arranged.

State College Answers Timely Farm Question

Question: What is the nature of, and the control for, the rust which often attacks leaves and fruit of apples?

Answer: Rust is one of the oddest diseases affecting the apple. The parasite which causes this disease spends part of its life cycle on the apple and part on the common red cedar tree. The presence of both of these plants is essential to the existence of the rust parasite. Elimination of the red cedar trees for a distance of one-half mile or more from the orchard is the only practical method of controlling apple rust.

Passing on curves and hills is dangerous practice. After you are caught at it, it may be too late.

STRIP-CROPPING

Farmers in Madison county are observing the advantages of strip-cropping on steep mountain land, and are beginning to follow this system more each year, says J. S. Holloman, assistant farm agent.
