Gravely Visiting This Section State

Lee Gravely, of Rocky Mount, a veteran state senator who is seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, will spend next week in this section of the state, according to advice received by some of his friends here today.

Gravely, who spends about half his time at his summer home at Roaring Gap, promoted the legislation which provided for state advertising and during his stay in this part of the state is expected to confer with civic groups relative to advertising the opening of the Blue Ridge Parkway.

His recent statement favoring a third term for President Roosevelt and his endorsement of the New Deal farm program have received much comment.

Formal Opening Horton's Renovated and Modernized Drug Store Friday

Grand Opening Sale is Announced; Many Improvements Made in Store

Horton Drug company is celebrating its 40th anniversary Friday, May 10, with formal opening of its newly remodeled and highly modernized store.

The business has been in operation for 40 years and since 1922 under its present management. It has become one of the best known drug firms in northwestern North Carolina.

Workmen have just completed the task of remodeling the entire interior of the store and making of it one of the most attractive stores in this section.

The walls have been repainted and redecorated and many new fixtures have been installed. The renovating process has been carried out throughout the store, including the prescription department and the improvements have been carried out with the intention of making the store a pleasant and convenient place to transact business.

One of the several major improvements has been the installation of a streamlined and ultra-modern fountain and luncheonette counter, which not only adds to the good appearance of the store but make possible the rendering of a high type of service. Fluorescent lighting fixtures have been installed, introducing a new and highly improved type for merchandising firms in this section of the state. The lights give daylight visibility and in addition to being very attractive are easy on the eyes.

In connection with the formal opening Friday will be a Grand Opening sale with unusually low price quoted on many items of desired drug store merchandise. Some of these values are quoted in the advertisement on page five of this issue of The Journal-Patriot. Favors will be given visitors and the public has a most cordial invitation to pay the store a visit.

Horton handles the nationally famous Walgreen products and connection with the Walgreen system enables the store to have the advantage of mass buying. Substantial savings, which are passed on to the consumer, are thus brought about.

Phillips Talks "Cold Turkey"

Candidate Shows How He Would Clean Up Politics In District

FOR THE PLAIN PEOPLE

D. C. Phillips, Southern Pines, bringing his string band and political "cleansing" campaign for congressional nomination, is speaking to large crowds at various courthouses.

The Southern Pines man, one of five contestants for the place now held by Representative W. O. Burgin, Lexington, advocates federal aid to schools as a means of repealing the sales tax in this state, emphasizes his sympathy for "the plain people," who, he says must "wash clean" the "confusion and bewilderment" in this country.

Phillips' string band of six pieces consists of guitars and an accordion. Phillips himself participates in the singing and playing.

To demonstrate how he would clean up the "filth of the political war of the eighth district," Phillips, who is a laundry equipment salesman, carries with him a miniature washing machine. During the course of his talk, without interrupting himself, he pulls out a dirty rag doll with a round knob for a head. The head, he said, represents that of the "gang politician." It is difficult to tell whether his face is in front or behind.

"Cleans" District
He places the doll in the machine and starts the device, talking all the time. After a short while, by sleight of hand, Phillips pulls out from the machine a clean, properly clothed doll, simulating the "cleansing" of the eighth district. The audiences are very much entertained by this stunt. Music is played while the miniature washer is passed about and at another interlude in the program.

Regarding federal school aid, the speaker says that by enacting such aid, congress can place the North Carolina legislature in a position where it can repeal the sales tax, thus saving the cost of collection.

He reiterates a previous, unqualified stand against the United States entering foreign war. "I would not cast my ballot under any condition for an American youth to go across the water to war," he said.

Hits "Isms"
Phillips says the three "isms" which threaten the American system of government are materialism, atheism and communism, the latter being brought about when the former two combine. He defines materialism in one sense as when "a man can go into a county, buy two or three politicians and carry the county."

He tells his listeners that "we have the power of free action, self direction and self determination" and that through "human will" coming from "an infinite God we have the power to clean out the filth of political war in the eighth district."

Phillips emphasizes he is not the favorite son of any county. A Chatham native, he attended Campbell college, has been in the newspaper business, has sold laundry equipment seven years, teaches a Bible class and is a Legionnaire.

Mr. Phillips hopes to bring his band and put on his program in Wilkes county, but states that he is not going to be able to carry it to all counties in this district. (Paid Political Advertisement.)
