was enthusiastically passed by a standing vote. Next came a resolution offered by Julius C. Hubbard commending the administration of J. Gordon Hackett, eighth district highway commissioner, for his fine services to the district, and also commending the various highway officials in the district for their splendid work in both the construction and maintenance departments. This resolution was also unanimously passed by a rising vote.

Mr. Forester then offered in succession resolutions asking for a re-apportionment of representatives in the General Assembly in the session of 1941 based on population figures gathered in the 1940 census, and also a more even and fair division of the state offices between the Democrats of the east and west sections of the state. Both of these resolutions were unanimously endorsed by the convention.

Vote and Work For His Election To Congress

This personal word carries to my great host of friends in Wilkes County that our old and new supporters in the counties of Anson, Hoke, Lee, Moore, Montgomery, Richmond, Scotland and Union, all of which we carried in my former race for Congress, positively assure that we will again carry these counties by splendid majorities.

In addition our friends and leaders in Davie, Wilkes, and Yadkin, which counties gave us a wonderful vote, feel confident that they too will lead us to victory.

I do not have a single manager of hired worker in any county. In these closing days please redouble your efforts and on May 25 let's show to the Eighth Congressional District the power and influence of leading men and women who can go out and carry elections free of money and political interference.

Again I thank you for your wonderful support.

Sincerely,

C. B. Deane

Chairman McElwee was a member of the county executive committee, and during his absence from the organization, D. J. Carter served as chairman. Mr. Carter called on D. C. Phillips, candidate for congress in the eighth district for an address. Others recognized for short talks were J. G. Hackett, eighth district highway commissioner, Frank Grist, former state commissioner of labor and printing, and the various county candidates: J. B. McCoy and Floyd C. Forester, candidates for the state senate in the primary to be held May 25th; A. A. (Dick) Cashion and Hugh A. Cranor, candidates for the House in the primary; Cecil Howell, unopposed candidate for register of deeds in the November election; and C. E. Lenderman, W. W. Harris, and V. T. Walsh, unopposed candidates for commissioner in their respective districts.

Just prior to the close of the convention, J. R. Rousseau moved that C. O. McNeil be endorsed as a member of the county board of education. This was carried unanimously. D. J. Brookshire, a former chairman of the party, was then recognized. Others recognized by the convention in its closing moments were D. F. Shepperd, member of the board of education, and C. T. Doughton, now serving his second term as sheriff of the county.

Following a brief talk by J. R. Rousseau, during which he thanked the party for again electing him chairman of the county executive committee, the convention adjourned. Members of the party who have been attending Democratic convention for many years, stated without hesitation that the one held Saturday was one of the best and one of the most harmonious party meetings they ever attended. Party leaders were gratified to see so many ladies present.

Resolutions passed in the convention will be published in the Journal-Patriot Thursday.

ADMIRAL FOOTE TO SPEAK WEDNESDAY AT KIWANIS MEET

During the World War he was in command of the U. S. S. President Lincoln engaged in transporting the U. S. army to France.

On May 31, 1918, while returning from France the President Lincoln was engaged in battle with the German submarine U-90 and was sunk by three torpedoes fired by the U-90. Although the big ship sank in three minutes, only 26 of the 750 on board were lost.

For his illustrious performance of duty on that occasion Foote was awarded the Distinguished Service medal in the name of the president of the United States.

From 1918 to 1921 he was the naval aide to Josephus Daniels, then Secretary of the Navy.

He has commanded every type of ship in the navy except a submarine. His last command was the Battleship Arkansas.

He was industrial manager of the U. S. Naval gun factory at Washington, D. C., for five years.

He retired from active duty in the Navy on June 30, 1936, after 40 years of service. On retirement he was promoted to the rank of Rear Admiral in recognition of his performance of duty in combat with the enemy during the World War.

But his career in public service did not end with his retirement from active duty in the U. S. Navy. In June, 1937, he was appointed as the Commissioner of the Pennsylvania Motor Police by Governor George H. Earle and performed the duties of that office with unusual success until February, 1939.

In 1938 deaths from motor vehicles in Pennsylvania were reduced 35 per cent under the fatality total for the previous year, the percentage of decrease being second only to Rhode Island in the United States. The total of lives saved was 904.

In recognition of his services in the safety program he was awarded the meritorious medal of the state of Pennsylvania by Governor Earle with the following inscription:

"Whereas, Admiral Percy W. Foote, commissioner of the Pennsylvania motor police, through his great ability and devotion to duty, directed a great program for the safety of our people, and "Whereas, he has, through his direction, saved the lives and preserved the health of thousands of our citizens, "Therefore, I, George H. Earle, governor of Pennsylvania, hereby cite Percy W. Foote, because of his outstanding service in this great cause, for a meritorious medal of the state of Pennsylvania."

Admiral Foote is now residing at Chapel Hill.

Claude Pearson In Business Here

Claude Pearson, who has a wide reputation in the merchandising field, has established a wholesale and retail store in this city.

His place of business is located on Forester Avenue in the building formerly occupied by Cranberry Poultry company.

Claude, a member of a family long associated with wholesale and retail business in Wilkes, has experienced the ups and downs of merchandising but the downs were mainly caused by circumstances beyond his control. Businesses owned and operated by him have been burned out twice, the last time being the disastrous fire which wiped out his large store and stock of merchandise on highway 421 ten miles west of this city near Purlear. That fire occurred in February, 1938.

In his newly established business here he will be engaged in wholesale and retail selling of groceries, feeds, etc., and is also in the market for all kinds of country produce.

Claude invites all his old friends to visit his new store and will be glad to make the acquaintance of as many people of Wilkes and adjoining counties as possible.

TODAY and TUESDAY "THE BISCUIT EATER"

Candied Copra Or Semi-Solid First Thought In Coccidiosis

All of our experience in treating coccidiosis points toward one inevitable conclusion. This is, that the soundest method of control, is flushing and sanitation.

Sanitary measures, strict enough to prevent outbreaks in the first place, is of course most desirable of all. We're convinced that no chick that has ever suffered from coccidiosis is as good as one that never had it at all, and we believe that a lot of chronic troubles experienced in mature flocks can be traced back to attacks of coccidiosis when the birds were growing.

But when coccidiosis occurs in spite of all the sanitation we can practice, we almost always recommend flushing the flock, and a thorough clean-up of the house and premises immediately following. Flushing will reduce the degree of intestinal infestation, and if by cleaning we prevent a reinfestation we can be reasonably sure of controlling the trouble. Coccidia do not multiply inside the bird and are not infective when passed from the bird. It is only after the oocysts have incubated for forty-eight hours or so, in the litter that they will infect the birds that pick them up.

For flushing the flock we usually recommend either Candied Copra or Semi-Solid Buttermilk and bran. Candied Copra, given pure to the birds for a day will produce a very satisfactory flushing, which seems to work well in cases of bloody or caecal coccidiosis.

For more severe cases, and where the upper intestinal tract is involved we advise using a mixture of one part Semi-Solid Buttermilk and one part bran, (by weight) with 3 per cent Candied Copra and 3 per cent charcoal added, giving this for at least one day with all other feeds removed.

Candied Copra $2.50 per hundred pounds.

Buttermilk, Bran and Copra flush $3.00 per hundred.
