Home Recordings Become Popular Home recordings of the voices of members of the family will soon take their place in the family album along with photographs, birth certificates, and other precious mementoes. Henderson Electric Co., local Philco dealers, predict. "With home recordings developed now to a professional refinement," the local dealer said, "the horizon of its use has widened beyond all dreams. An accurate record of the voice of each member of the family would be an invaluable addition to the family album, which is already full of photographs picturing the family's growth and development. It seems logical that with the emphasis today on sound via radio and phonograph, recordings should be made of the family. "Particularly appropriate would be the recording of the progress of the new baby, combining picture and sound. Instead of pasting the baby's picture directly into the album, a good photograph and appropriate inscription could be made and cut in circular shape to fit in the center of the record, where the identification seal appears now in commercial recordings. Thus, the family album would hold a permanent record of the growth and maturity of each member of the family in both picture and sound. The Henderson Electric Co. pointed out that with the development of the Philco photo-electric phonograph, the life of any record, commercial or home-recorded, is now increased ten-fold, giving additional impetus to the hobby of making such home recordings as permanent family records. "The field for home recordings is limited only by human ingenuity," he added. "Many persons now make records of their talents as singers, tap dancers, comedians and monologists. Some use home recording to preserve their loved-

Week's Dizzy Digest Thrown Into Reverse New York.—Stand on your head, cross your eyes, unlimber your double-talk, and you'll be all set for this week's dizzy digest: Before the Hop Indians had a chance to start their traditional rain dance, it rained. . . . When the mayoral election in Sandy Springs, S. C., resulted in a tie, they decided just to go ahead and have two mayors. . . . And New South Wales banned mistletoe as a "noxious weed." The first two persons who turned up to register as aliens in Fort Myers, Fla., turned out to have been born in Georgia. . . . Lincoln (Neb.) mail men, after several unpleasant experiences with watch dogs, went out armed with packages of dog food. Stork stuff: . . . A Cumberland (Md.) man became a father at 74. . . . A Bell (Calif.) woman became a grandmother at 31. . . . And some triplets in Elizabeth, N. J., were born on three different days. Music For Strikers A Jacksonville (Fla.) factory provided music for the entertainment of its strikers. . . . And when a Burlington (Iowa) plant had a picnic, a lone man who had been picketing the place a week was invited along, too. Names in the news: . . . The Peoria (Ill.) army recruiting office drew men named Canada, Germany, England and France. . . . And two Pasadena (Calif.) brothers named Kishkunas asked to change it because it sounded too much like a sneeze. Rugged individualist: . . . The Hillside (S. C.) vote in the state prohibition referendum was: Dry, 99; wet 1. Department of commerce: . . . A Salem (Va.) man who wants to swap an airplane for something got this offer: A rooster, three hens, four bantams, four pigeons, two radios and a set of toys. "Hot Foot" Wilkes-Barre (Pa.) national guard casualty: A soldier who was given too strenuous a "hot foot." The war this week: . . . An argument on a Greek ship docked in New York about the quality of the chef's coffee ended up with the summoning of a police squad car, a police launch, a coast guard patrol boat and a riot squad. Bright sayings division: . . . A little girl who wanted a stamped envelope asked at the Hartington (Neb.) post office for "an empty letter." The futility of it all: . . . Just as B. J. Tarning of Lincoln, Kas., was finishing rebuilding his barn, which had been blown down by the wind, the wind blew it down again. A Hickory (N. C.) chair factory got a long letter complaining about a shipment lacking one piece, with the P. S.: "We've just found the missing piece."

Dougherty Re-Elected Dr. B. B. Dougherty was re-elected president of Appalachian State Teachers College at Boone and was empowered to work with the executive committee in repairing flood damages to the power plant, farm and bridges about the campus. Hendrix Child Dies Funeral service was held at Mt. Zion church today for Ruby Jean Hendrix, two-year-old daughter of Albert and Ina Minton Hendrix, of the Hendrix community. She died Saturday night. Surviving are the father and mother and five brothers and sisters: Isaac, Clyde, Cleo, Dorothy and Lois Hendrix.

Seed Available For Flood Areas

The State College Extension Service has compiled a list of sources of surplus legume and small grain seed available for the drought and flood stricken areas of North Carolina. A copy of this list has been placed in the hands of every county farm agent in the State. John W. Goodman, assistant extension director, acted promptly when it was evident that the dry weather in July and the heavy rains and floods in August had destroyed thousands of acres of food and feed crops, and many bushels of stored seed. He called upon Extension agents to report on seed surpluses in their counties. The survey showed that there are available: 124,335 bushels of oat seed, 61,232 bushels of wheat, 18,500 bushels of barley, 1,000 bushels of rye, 30,000 pounds of crimson clover, 17,000 pounds of Italian rye grass, and 5,000 pounds of vetch. "Farmers who have lost a part of their corn and hay crops should immediately communicate with their county farm agent and learn the sources of this surplus seed," Goodman said. "This is the planting season for small grains and winter cover crops in most of the State, and even in areas where the drought and floods did not cause any damage, it is wise to have some of these crops growing to protect and enrich the soil during the winter months." The Extension leader said that 11 varieties of oats, three varieties of wheat, three of barley, and Abruzzi rye are available.

Grading Of Tobacco Will Be Demonstrated Lloyd T. Weeks, Extension tobacco specialist of N. C. State College, has announced plans for a series of tobacco grading demonstrations arranged by county farm agents of the Extension Service, and presented with the assistance of marketing specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. W. L. Bradsher and J. O. Armistead of the U. S. D. A. will give the demonstrations. Weeks and possibly other specialists from State College will assist with some of the grading schools. The schedule announced by Weeks is as follows: August 22, Jones County; August 23, Onslow; August 26, Lenoir; August 26 and 27, Wayne; August 29 and 30, Johnston; August 30, Carteret. September 4, Craven; September 4 and 5, Beaufort; September 5 and 6, Bertie; September 6, Hertford; September 9 to 17, Wilson; September 9, Edgecombe; September 10 and 11, Pitt; September 16 and 17, Harnett; September 18 and 19, Wake; September 20, Vance; September 23, Cumberland. September 24, Moore; September 25, Richmond; September 26, Anson; September 30, Franklin; October 1, Durham; October 2, Orange; October 3, Rockingham; October 4, Guilford; October 7, 8 and 9, Forsyth; October 10 and 11, Stokes; October 14, Davidson; October 15 and 16, Yadkin; October 17, Wilkes; October 18, Alexander; and October 21, Alamance. Weeks said that two demonstrations per day will be given in a county.

Ask Convention N. C. Moose Be Held In This City The fifteenth annual Conclave of the Carolina Moose Association convened on Saturday, August 31st, at Wrightsville Beach, and it is understood that the meeting will continue through Monday, Sept. 3rd. According to information received, about four to five hundred delegates are expected to be in attendance at the Conclave. The Commerce Bureau and the Mayor of North Wilkesboro have extended an invitation to the Moose Association to hold their next Annual Conclave here, which will convene about the same time next year. Local people are delighted to have people from elsewhere to come and see what North Wilkesboro and Wilkes county have to offer.

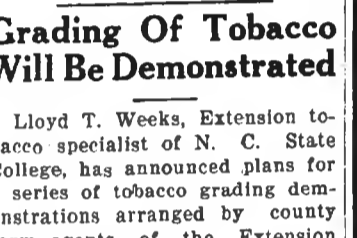

Explosion Shakes Italian Military Plant, Killing Ten Rome.—An explosion in a Bologna "auxiliary establishment" killed 10 persons and injured many last night. Fire broke out, setting ablaze a nearby pavilion. Firemen and Red Cross workers removed the injured and Fascist officials rushed to the scene. (The meaning of "Auxiliary establishment" was not made clear, presumably because of censorship, but the terminology suggested a plant used for military purposes was involved). Send the collegians back to school with boxes and boxes of RYTEX TWEED-WEAVE Printed Stationery. They'll write more often and more interestingly on this smooth-surfaced paper. And your budget will wear a contented smile. . . .
