Mooseheart Grad.

MARY LEE HANES

Here is the brief story of a home-town girl who, in spite of early and serious reverses, has made good. It concerns Mary Lee Hanes of Winston-Salem. In giving the details, F. M. Quinn, Secretary of the local Moose lodge No. 466, 607 Summit Street, said:

"Immediately after the death of Mary's father, application was made to the Governors of Mooseheart by the lodge for the admission of the girl to the Moose Child City of Mooseheart, the internationally known trade and academic school in Illinois, founded in 1913 by the Loyal Order of Moose. The application was granted, and Mary was admitted in May, 1923. With her came her brother Wilson, who graduated in 1935, and her sisters Louise and Mabel, who graduated in 1933 and 1938.

"For seventeen years," continued Mr. Quinn, "Mary Lee Hanes has enjoyed all the privileges and opportunities of the Moose program of child welfare. This program means for every Mooseheart child the best of care in homelike surroundings, spiritual and moral training, and a sound education—both academic and vocational. In the latter, Mary's vocational training has fitted her as a homemaker.

"In addition," continued the secretary, "Mary has received a broad cultural education in literature, music, and art, and she has learned to 'play the game' on the athletic fields of this noted child city." According to the Mooseheart records, she has shown conspicuous success in dancing.

The home-coming of this Mooseheart graduate will be appropriately celebrated by the lodge at an early date. A feature on the program will be the initiation of a "Mooseheart Graduate's Class." Present indications point to this class being the largest of the year.
