QUESTIONS —and— ANSWERS

Question: When is the best time to cut hay crops?

Answer: The proper time to cut any hay crop is when the greatest quantity of digestible nutrients can be obtained from it, says E. C. Blair, Extension agronomist of State College. With most hay crops the percentage of leafiness and protein content are highest soon after the plant begins to bloom. Complete information on hay making is contained in Extension Circular No. 237, "Making Hay in North Carolina." The publication is free upon request to the Agricultural Editor, N. C. State College, Raleigh.

Question: How many different kinds of vegetables can be grown in North Carolina?

Answer: According to H. R. Niswonger, Extension horticulturist, it is not a difficult task to grow as many as 20 different kinds of vegetables during some period of the year in North Carolina, and have at least three or more different kinds growing each month in the garden for at least eight months of the year. He suggests that farmers write for Extension Circular No. 122, "The Farm and Home Garden Manual." It is free upon request to the Agricultural Editor, N. C. State College, Raleigh, N. C.

Question: Can milk absorb odors from the air around it and get an unpleasant taste that way?

Answer: Scientists say that the mild, delicate flavor of good milk is very easily tainted by absorbing odors from the air. If you keep milk uncovered in the refrigerator, it will soon take on the taste of fish, cabbage, banana, melon, onion or other foods with a decided flavor that are also in the refrigerator uncovered. Milk will take on the odor of disinfectants or medicines with strong odors used in the barn where the cows are milked. For example, milk will taste of coal-tar for days after coal-tar spray has been used in the dairy barn.

Question: Is it necessary to follow a recipe in preparing fruit juices for cooling drinks?

Answer: No. Use the odds and ends of fruit juices your refrigerator may offer. The juice left from the pineapple salad last night will make a pleasing combination with the juice of a fresh lemon, lime or an orange or two. For color, crush and strain half a cup of berries and add a table-spoon or two of jelly. If used as an appetizer, the drink should be more tart than sweet since sugar dulls, rather than stimulates the appetite. A sugar syrup is more effective for sweetening summer drinks than sugar itself.

Tells How Rubber Can Be Conserved

America's motorists can play a major role in conserving our nation's rubber supply, for by more careful use of tires thousands of tons of this now vital material could be saved annually. Ray Shomaker of the Motor Market store, local Goodrich distributor, declared here today.

Referring to the government's plans for restricting the consumption of rubber, Mr. Shomaker said that rubber savings of almost fantastic amounts would result if motorists joined the conservation cause.

"The material which today is indispensable to national defense actually is being wasted in America because tires are driven at excessive speeds or are otherwise misused by thoughtless motorists," Mr. Shomaker stated.

"Every time a motorist fails to inflate his tires properly, takes curves too fast, drives at sustained high speed, spins his tires in a quick start or skids them to a sudden stop, he is destroying rubber and wearing out tires before their time."

According to Mr. Shomaker any plan that will result in making tires and other rubber products last longer, is a potent means of rubber conservation for fewer tires will be needed to meet civilian motoring requirements.

On the matter of excessive speeds, Mr. Shomaker cited scientific studies recently completed by E. F. Goodrich that show the tire treads wear out twice as rapidly at 70 miles an hour as at 45—and worn-out treads account for 90 per cent of all passenger-car tire replacements, he said.

"As an illustration of speed versus rubber conservation," Mr. Shomaker said, "a reduction of 10 miles an hour in the average speed motorists will travel during the Fourth of July week-end would result in tremendous savings."

He explained that according to estimates 13,500,000 motorists will be on the highway that weekend, driving an average of 30 miles at 40 miles an hour. A reduction to an average speed of 30 miles an hour would save more than 45,000 pounds of rubber in reduced tread wear alone, he declared, and at the same time help conserve stocks of gasoline and perhaps defer the early necessity for drastic rationing of motor fuel for civilian use.
