Promises Reich Bomb For Bomb

Britain today pledged "no truce or parley" with Adolf Hitler or the Nazi regime and Prime Minister Winston Churchill for the first time promised that German cities would feel a weight of bombs equal or exceeding anything suffered by the British Isles.

The pledges made by Churchill came at a moment when Berlin asserted her forces are sweeping through the Stalin fortifications toward Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev—a claim countered by a Russian declaration that there were no important changes in the front fighting lines.

Churchill spoke in confident, aggressive tones. He revealed that "in the past few weeks" since the start of the Royal Air Force offensive upon Germany a weight of British bombs equal to about half of all those dropped by the Luftwaffe on Britain since start of the war has fallen on Nazi objectives.

This weight, he promised, will grow and grow and grow as Britain gains greater strength in the air with the arrival of more and more American-built long-range bombing planes.

He said Britain wanted no favors from Germany and if a truce or the bombing of cities should be proposed it would be rejected with indignation by British civilians who are determined to see the ravages of London, Coventry, Rotterdam, Warsaw, Belgrade and other objects of Luftwaffe fury repaid on German soil.

Britain, Churchill said, will bomb and bomb and bomb "until the Nazi regime either is extirpated by us or better still torn to pieces by the German people themselves."

The Prime Minister's pledge of "no truce or parley" placed in common language the joint declaration of Britain and Russia, announced yesterday, that they would fight to the end against Germany and sign no separate peace.

He declared that the sympathy of British hearts goes out to the Russian people "in their valiant struggle."

Heavy Losses Are Admitted By Russia

Moscow—Russian counter-attacks on the vital central sector protecting Moscow have recaptured from the Germans the towns of Rogachev and Zhlobin, while Nazi offensives on the Baltic and Ukrainian sectors have been stemmed with heavy losses to German panzer and motorized units, an official communique said early today.

The communique admitted Russian losses in three weeks of fighting of 250,000 men, 2,200 tanks and 1,900 planes and asserted that German losses were at least 1,000,000 men, 2,300 planes and 3,000 tanks.

The claim of Russian gains on the pivotal central front, the "Road to Moscow," came a few hours after Russia and Britain signed in Moscow a new pact pledging each other "support of all kinds" against Germany and promising that neither side would make a separate peace. A Soviet spokesman said the new London-Moscow pact made the United States—pledged to give Britain all-out aid—virtually a partner of Russia "for the inevitable annihilation of German fascism."

The Sunday night communique, describing Saturday's fighting, said that in the northwestern or Baltic sector heavy fighting raged all day Sunday when large Nazi mechanized and motorized units launched a large-scale offensive.

"Stubborn resistance by our troops held it up and the enemy suffered heavy losses," the communique said.

Rogachev is 35 miles due east of Bobruisk, some 145 miles southwest of Smolensk, and Zhlobin is about 12 miles due south of Rogachev.

G. R. Andrews, for the past twelve years engaged in the automobile business in Lenoir, has purchased an interest in Yadkin Valley Motor company in North Wilkesboro and will join the firm in a few days, A. F. Kilby, president, said today.

Mr. Andrews, who will assume the position of secretary-treasurer of the Yadkin Valley Motor company, purchased the Somers' interest in the firm. The addition of Mr. Andrews in the executive personnel of the company will not otherwise affect the organization, which will continue under existing management in all departments to render the high type service which has characterized the business.

Mr. Andrews was reared in Alleghany county. He is a graduate of Sparta high school. For several years after completing high school he taught in Alleghany county schools, working during evenings and Saturdays in the Bank of Sparta.

He secured two years of college training at Appalachian State in Boone, and then went to Fort Wayne, Indiana, to the Teachers University of Commerce, where he took a complete combined commercial course. The funds for his education were earned after graduation from high school.

For two years he was in the automobile business in Alleghany county, going from there to Lenoir. In Lenoir for the past eleven years he was connected with Smith Motor Sales, Inc., as secretary-treasurer, during which time the firm has been highly successful.

Mr. Andrews and family plan to move to North Wilkesboro as soon as a residence can be located.

Woman Catches Chicken Hawk

Mrs. G. W. (Red) Felts, of North Wilkesboro route three, had been annoyed by the loss of chickens to a big chicken hawk so long that she decided she would put a stop to it—she went out and caught the hawk.

On Wednesday while she was engaged in canning she saw a hawk fly into the chicken house. She followed the hawk into the house and closed the door. The hawk was doomed.

In a remarkably short time she caught the hawk with her hands, in much the same manner as she would catch a chicken, and put the hawk into a strong box to await execution by her husband when he returned from work. She did not receive a scratch.

Her husband, who is a barber in North Wilkesboro, killed the hawk when he returned home. It had a wing spread of 20 inches and Mr. Felts said it was "the largest hawk he had ever seen."

Several people in that community who have been losing numerous chickens because of the hawk's big appetite owe Mrs. Felts a vote of thanks, or a reward.
