The Grange, which was scheduled to meet Tuesday night, Sept. 30, will hold its session next Tuesday night, Oct. 7, at 7:30 o'clock instead, owing to the revival services at the A. C. church.
Ed Thomas, colored, who was a Pullman porter for years on the Norfolk and Western Railroad, is now retired and draws a comfortable allowance from the railroad for the rest of his life. Ed, who is the very essence of courtesy acquired in his many years of service for the Pullman company, is a real asset to this community, and especially so to those of his own race. Many of them would do well to emulate his courteous manners.
Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ferguson of Richmond, Va., visited relatives here and at North Wilkesboro last week. Mrs. Ferguson is visiting her mother, Mrs. Dean, at Elk Park, for some time. Miss Blanche Ferguson accompanied Mr. Ferguson back to Richmond for a short visit.

Improvements At Reins Brothers

During the past several weeks many improvements have been made at Reins Brothers, local firm for several decades engaged in the manufacture and sale of monuments here.
The building has been enlarged and extended on the back a distance of 25 feet to the alley. This enables the firm to carry a larger stock and to carry on operations on a bigger scale.
The front has been attractively changed and a large sign has been erected. A hoisting device has been installed for loading at the rear of the building.
