

Cooking A Fine Art In The Navy Says Manager Of Hotel Wilkes

Napoleon once said, "An Army marches on its stomach." J. B. McCoy, Hotel Wilkes manager says, "The Navy sails on its stomach. And believe me, it's some stomach!"

Being interested in what folks eat, Mr. McCoy has dug up some interesting facts about Navy eating. For example, he tells us that the Navy will eat 146,016,000 eggs and will consume 1,419,600 gallons of sauces, oils and vinegar during the year.

"What's more," says Mr. McCoy, "our Navy has 3,200 cooks and bakers who prepare 720,000 meals every day. Yes sir, the Navy sure is well fed. The food is wholesome and nourishing. Nothing fancy, mind you, but mighty good. Navy cooks know their business. They get good food supplies and they turn out grand meals. Ask any Navy man."

"Many Navy trained cooks have cashed in on their training and have become hotel chefs and restaurant owners in later civilian life.

"Just the other day I was reading about a restaurant owner in Brooklyn, New York, who used to be in the Navy," said Mr. McCoy. "He was a chief commissary steward in charge of handling food and personnel in the commissary department. When he retired he opened a restaurant that has become one of the most successful eating places in the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn. And he said there was no doubt that he owed his success in the restaurant field to the experience he got in the Navy."

Any young man who joins the U. S. Navy or Naval Reserve can learn how to become a cook, baker, steward, commissary steward or storekeeper if he qualifies to study at a Navy Trade School. There he learns "the tricks of the trade" and acquires knowledge that will help him not only to advance in the Navy, but will insure his future success when he returns to civilian life.

"One more thing," said Mr. McCoy. "I forgot to mention that as many as 250 pies come from the bake shop of one of our big battleships every day."

"In case you haven't got the idea yet, Mr. McCoy has been hinting that the U. S. Navy is the best fed Navy in the world!" says Dwight Nichols, Navy Editor. "All menus are carefully supervised by the medical officer in order to assure balanced meals. The Navy diet conforms to the latest opinion voiced by the medical profession."

by Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Taylor.

Commenting on the opening, Mr. Taylor said he wished to take opportunity to thank all who attended the formal opening and the opening sale, which were more successful than anticipated. He said he was grateful for the cheerfulness and pleasant reaction of the crowds, which were so large on formal opening night that it was impossible to give each visitor the kind attention which the management desired to give.

The store, one of the most modern in the state, is exceptionally well stocked.

On Friday and Saturday 80 sales girls were employed. The total personnel, including management and office force, was about 100.

Wilkesboro And Griffin Deadlock

Griffith and Wilkesboro high school pitched their football teams together Thursday and as a result proved to have two well-balanced squads, scrambling the full 48 minutes without even giving the fans a faint impression of scoring but fought it out to a 0-0 deadlock.

Blocking seemed to be the main tactic that both teams lacked. And this of course left the teams in a good position to play a bang-up defensive game and they did. Due to that fact the offensive game just wasn't there. Neither team advanced beyond its opponents' 30-yard line as a zig-zagging battle took place between those markers.

Wilkesboro, paced by J. Linney, who is a real ball player for anybody's money, moved to the Griffith 30 in the opening minutes of the game but no farther as the Forsyth team's forward wall held fast.

J. Myers and Sewell were stalwarts in the Griffith line play, while Foltz, Wilkins and Eddinger were the threats in the backfield.

Linney and Steelman played the ball for Wilkesboro.

James Lowe Hurt In Auto Mishap

Mr. and Mrs. James Lowe made a trip to Raleigh and almost all the way back to Wilkesboro safely last Monday, but when they got within one mile of home they happened to an accident which could have been very serious.

Their car overturned at Cairo and Mr. Lowe sustained a knee fracture. With him were Mrs. Lowe and daughter, Anne, and Mrs. J. B. Hall, mother of Mrs. Lowe. They had been to Raleigh to visit Mr. and Mrs. Claude Robertson. Mr. Lowe was the only one injured in the accident.

Dairyman Tells of Value of Cows

Homer Robinson Is Speaker At Friday Noon Meeting Of The Kiwanis Club

Homer Robinson, of the Granada dairy farm in Caldwell county, addressed the North Wilkesboro Kiwanis club Friday noon and spoke on the subject of "Dairy Farming."

The program was in charge of A. A. Cashion, who presented the speaker.

He stated that he is tremendously interested in the small dairy farmer, the ones with from two to 15 cows. It was his opinion that they represented the backbone of the country and they need encouragement and support. Their opportunity to sell milk in small quantities will prove to be a great benefit to this entire country, he said.

He pointed out that in normal times this part of the country produces only about one-half as much milk as is needed and with defense needs a great increase is needed. He said the small farmer must supply the needed milk.

In conclusion he said this was an excellent section of the country for dairying and listed the three major needs as follows: more and better pastures, better cattle barns and provisions, better breeding.

At the end of his talk he answered several questions by members of the club.

At the meeting J. W. Farmer and Rev. A. C. Waggoner were guests of Dr. John W. Kincheole, Jr., and E. W. Smith, of Lenoir, was a visiting Kiwanian.

D. J. Pardue Rites Held Sunday At Moravian Falls

Funeral service for D. J. Pardue, age 76, well known citizen of the Moravian Falls community who died Friday, was held Sunday afternoon, two o'clock, at Moravian Falls Baptist church with Rev. E. V. Bumgarner in charge.

Mr. Pardue, a farmer and carpenter, was a member of a widely known Wilkes family.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Rosa F. Pardue, and six children, all of whom are well and favorably known: Hobson Pardue, Mrs. P. G. Smithey, Mrs. R. A. Greer, Mrs. R. G. Pennell, Misses Maxine and Lola Belle Pardue.

China Grove Wins Over Local Team

China Grove high school's football team took the breaks here Friday afternoon and converted them into two touchdowns and extra points to defeat North Wilkesboro 14 to 0.

The score does not indicate the playing in the game or the hot gridiron contest to which local fans were treated. North Wilkesboro outplayed the visitors except for two scoring thrusts set up because of the breaks of the game. The first period found both teams exchanging punts with neither team getting into enemy territory.

On the first play of the second period, Rary, star tailback for China Grove, intercepted a pass by Hunt and ran 40 yards through the team to score. Extra point was added by line plunge.

The Mountain Lions came to life with a vengeance and put on a sustained drive that was halted on the 20-yard stripe by the half-time whistle.

In the third quarter there were plenty of fireworks supplied by both teams. Day in safety position let a punt get away, which was covered by China Grove on the 40. That did not look so dangerous until four plays later. China Grove had failed to make the necessary yardage for a first down and Rary went back into punting position. The ball got away from him and when he retrieved it he was unable to kick or run. He faded back three steps and shot a long pass for a 25-yard gain. Four more plays and China Grove had scored again. Bradshaw scored the extra point by perfect placement.

North Wilkesboro again put on a drive to score but the ball went over two yards short of pay dirt after a 60-yard march featured by passing and running of Hunt.

Hunt was the offensive star for the Mountain Lions. Gentry also played well on the offense and defense. Hunt at center and Foster at guard were line stand-outs.

Monthly Cripple Clinic Nov. 13th
