

VERY FAVORABLY— Buyers Comment On The Financial Condition Wilkes

Investor Says Ratio Of Debt Per Capita Low Compared With Other Counties

Lewis and Hall, Greensboro firm who headed a syndicate which purchased $267,000 Wilkes refunding bonds, this week made some very favorable comment relative to Wilkes finances.

The net interest cost to the county on the refunding bonds, McDaniel Lewis, of Lewis and Hall said, is 2.99 per cent interest, taking up 5 to 6 per cent bonds.

Mr. Lewis said: "It shows the response of the public to the decision of the county commissioners to levy a tax sufficient for all purposes, especially debt service. Wilkes county is regarded as being in fine shape now, financially with per capita debt—the best yardstick to measure by—low and very favorable as compared to other counties in this section of the state. The debt burden is low, there being more than 42,000 to pay less than a million and a half dollars debt. Bonds are being reoffered to the public at prices to yield 2.75 to 2.90 per cent net. The bonds are free of federal and state income and intangible taxes. They are issued to refund $267,000 par value bonds bearing interest rates from 4 1/4 to 6 per cent, called for redemption January 1, 1942. The average interest saving to the county being 2.30 on the whole lot sold."

Lewis and Hall have for years handled Wilkes county bonds, distributing them to investors all over the state and in many other states.

Abnormal Absurdities

By DWIGHT NICHOLS, et al.

FOR LIGHT READING

An ex-private who never saw the front was always telling about being shot six times during the war. Finally one of his buddies took him to task before a crowd of friends and told that the ex-private had never received a scratch, much less six bullet wounds. His comeback was that he had been half-shot a dozen times and was once half-shot at sunrise.

While rambling through a book store in a neighboring city we asked the lady who was supposed to be doing the selling if she had a book entitled "Man, the Master of Woman". She politely informed us that the fiction department was on the other side of the store.

"That's the guy I'm laying for" muttered the hen as the farmer walked by.

A groom is a man who takes care of dumb animals.

She sat on the steps at eventide
Enjoying the balmy air.
He came and asked, "May I sit by your side?"
And she gave him the vacant stair.

We know lots of people who are at least half-wit. (No wisecracks, please).

AT FORT BRAGG—
First Selectee
In N. Carolina
Completes Year

Fort Bragg, Dec. 5. — Dallas McQueen Campbell, first selective service trainee from North Carolina, today completed his first year's service in the army of the United States and began his second with only a fraction of the fanfare that accompanied his "debut" into the armed forces a year ago, when he was welcomed by Governor Clyde R. Hoey of North Carolina and Major General Jacob L. Devers in a formal ceremony in Fayetteville, and received considerable publicity in the form of photographs and newspaper stories.

Twelve pounds heavier and almost a half inch taller, Campbell celebrated his anniversary by putting in another hard day's work in the Personnel Section at Post Headquarters of Fort Bragg, where he has been stationed for the greater part of his year in the army. Described by his superiors as a "hard-working, efficient clerk who makes mighty few mistakes," Selectee Campbell was promoted this week to the grade of sergeant.

Campbell, who volunteered for army service came into the honor of being the first North Carolina inductee by living in Bladen county. In the first induction, the different counties were taken in alphabetical order. He along with two hundred other North Carolina volunteers, was not only sworn in, equipped, and "processed" at Fort Bragg, but was turned to duty at the same post after a rigorous four weeks of training in the station complement training camp.

Faced with the prospect of several more months service, Sergeant Campbell had no particular comment to make, but rather he seemed determined to face a second year in the armed forces, or an even longer period with the same spirit in which he volunteered. With Campbell, as with a majority of the selectees, the idea seems to be to stick around until there is no further need for a powerful army such as the one Uncle Sam is now building and training.

Sailor Weds Homeless Girl He Befriended

Garfield, N. J.—Sailor William Langford, 22, of Victoria, Texas, and his bride, the former Josephine Phillips, the 20-year-old, park bench "Cinderella girl," were honeymooning in New York today.

Their story-book romance was climaxed yesterday in their marriage ceremony, performed by Mayor John J. Gabriel in the Garfield council chambers—a wedding featured by gifts from Garfield merchants.

The romance began on September 14, when Langford, on leave from his ship in New York, found Josephine, broke and homeless, shivering on a Central Park bench. He bought her a warm dinner and promised to see her again the next night, but he was suddenly recalled on sailing orders.

Josephine, disheartened, was picked up by police as a vagrant. William, who had been transferred to Philadelphia, read of her plight, hurried to Josephine's side and made his marriage proposal.

BY THE STUDENTS— Mountain View School Reports

School was resumed again on Monday morning after Thanksgiving holidays were enjoyed very much by everyone. And now we're all looking forward to the Christmas holidays which won't be long off.

The seniors are expecting to receive their class rings in about a week, and are all waiting anxiously to get them.

There are twenty-four pupils enrolled in the eleventh grade this year, and we're hoping that everyone of the twenty-four in the eleventh grade, good looking seniors can graduate with high honors next spring.

In our eleventh grade English class we're studying poetry and there are several that have an ability to write poems. Here are two poems that were written by two eleventh graders. The first one's called,

DAY DREAMING

Adrift on a cloud,
Floating in a dream,
Surrounded by a shroud,
With memories supreme,
Thinking of yesterdays,
Of happiness long past,
Of treasured minutes
That could not last.

The other one goes like this:
I think that I shall never see,
A car as trappy as my old "T",
A car which may in summer heat
Have a nest of hen eggs in her seat.

Poems are made by fools like me,
But only Ford can make a "T".

We have very interesting movies given to the student body at Mountain View. They are very educational as well as interesting for the pupils.

The eighth grade presented an interesting chapel program on Thursday, November 27, on "How Important Safety is in Our Everyday Life."

The perfect attendance roll for the third month of the eleventh grade is:

Hazel Brown, Mary Ruth Church, Mary Lee Fel's, Mary

MANY NEW PLAYERS— Cage Prospects At Wilkesboro

(Editor's note: This is a first of a series about Wilkes High school basketball teams)

Coach Vaughn Jennings has a basketball squad at Wilkesboro high school that is large in numbers but small in stature of individual players.

With more than a dozen inexperienced players trying far places on the first string, the coach does not know how his team will turn out in competition this year but is hopeful.

Loss of Adelman, Garwood, Dennis, and Moseley, four of last year's strong quint thinned the ranks of cage prospects but the newer ones give promise of good performance before the season is over, Coach Jennings said today.

Some of the better squad members now include Hoke Steelman, Joe Greene, Joe Linney, Lee Mayberry, Robert Dennis, G. E. Miller, M. P. Mastin, W. G. Johnson, Alvin Burdwan, Jr., Harold Burdwan, Arnold Jarvis, Herb Stoolman, Don Littman, George Littman and Edwin Gilchrist.

Wilkesboro cage team this year is entered in the four-county organization of teams in Wilkes, Surry, Yadkin, and Alleghany counties.

Coach Jennings, a graduate of Wake Forest, taught at Louisiana and Millers Creek before beginning at Wilkesboro three years ago. He has taken a keen interest in statistics throughout his school and teaching career.
