

Two Cars Stolen And Recovered

Car Stealing Epidemic Here Saturday Night, But Both Are Found

Two automobiles were stolen here Saturday night but were soon recovered. Police Chief J. E. Walker said today.

A 1941 model Plymouth belonging to Wilkes Auto Sales company was taken Saturday night about 10:15 and was found Sunday several miles east of Wilkesboro. The speedometer showed that the car had been driven about 200 miles but was not badly damaged.

Incidentally, a ham in the back seat had not been removed from the car.

Saturday night about 9:30 a 1936 Ford belonging to Philo Miller, of Crick, was stolen from where it was parked on Main street. A short time later the car was seen on Sixth street, where two boys abandoned it and ran.

No arrests have been made in either case.

Superior Court Term Called Off

Term Scheduled To Begin Today Will Not Be Held, Local Bar Decides

Term of Wilkes superior court scheduled to open in Wilkesboro today was called off by the Wilkes bar association.

The bar in called meeting discussed the matter and decided that it would not be wise to have the court while so many people in the county are busily engaged in farming operations, and that calling off the court would allow people to go ahead with production of food and with other war work without interruption. Judge J. H. Clement, of Winston-Salem, was scheduled to preside over the term, which would have been for two weeks and for trial of civil cases only.

Ration Is Lifted On Used Tubes

State OPA has announced that all rationing restrictions on the sale of used passenger-car and truck inner tubes have been removed.

There has been very little demand for these types under rationing.

Previously, used tubes could be sold only to holders of rationing certificates. Since the certificates could be used to buy either a used tube or a new one, the purchaser usually chose the latter.

The action, to conserve new tube supplies by encouraging the use of about 765,000 used passenger-car tubes and 225,000 used truck tubes, now idle in dealers' stocks, was effective May 20.

FARM QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: How late should I start chicks for growing laying hens?

ANSWER: Under the conditions of the present feed shortage, Prof. R. S. Dearstyne, head of the Department of Poultry Science at N. C. State College, advises that no chicks be started for laying purposes between June 1 and September 1. They make slow growth and do not produce many eggs during the time when prices for eggs are ordinarily high.

Sunlight Destroys Vitamins In Milk

Sunlight destroys the riboflavin of Vitamin B₂ of milk and therefore this valuable food, which is such an important part of the everyday diet, should be stored in a cool, dark place, say W. J. Peterson and F. M. Haig of the Animal Industry Department of N. C. State College.

They report that recent studies at the North Carolina Experiment Station show that the riboflavin is rapidly destroyed when milk is exposed to sunlight in standard bottles under normal conditions. The tests showed that 44 percent of this valuable vitamin was lost in one hour's time and that only 33 percent of the riboflavin remained after the milk had been exposed to sunlight for three hours.

The scientists report that milk and meat are two of the most important sources of the vitamin in the human diet, although it is also found in green leafy vegetables, the whole cereal grains.

The importance of riboflavin in the daily diet and the results of these tests, showing that the vitamin is rapidly lost when exposed to sunlight, suggest that handlers of milk and those who should cooperate in the proper storage of milk so that its full food value may be maintained.

The United Kingdom plans to produce 4,175,000 tons of wool this year.
