— MORE ABOUT — LIONS CLUB (Starts On Page One)

Anderson. During the dinner entertainment was furnished by a group of six colored singers from radio station WSJS in Winston-Salem, who were presented by Ray Manship, a member of the program committee.

Attorney Alie Hayes in glowing terms welcomed the lady guests at the banquet and his address received a gracious response from Mrs. H. H. Cobb.

Lions and lady guests, wearing high paper hats and entwined with paper whistles and rattles and by throwing confetti.

Rev. A. C. Waggoner, chairman of the program committee, presented Dr. Dwire.

Dr. Dwire used as a subject, "Facing the Future". Every point in his address was illustrated with a humorous story, and the address was enthusiastically received.

In solving past war problems Dr. Dwire urged courageous optimism, sincere tolerance, thoughtful patriotism and sound balance.

During the program special mention was made of members of the club now in service and their names were listed on the programs as follows:

William F. Allen, James C. Stokes, R. W. Finley, I. H. McNeill, Jr., William C. Gray, Edward S. Finley, Richard W. Gwyn, William J. Brame, Phillip A. Brame, Gordon Forester, Elmer Rouzer, James L. Lowe, Richard B. Johnston, C. C. Faw, Jr., William Blair Gwyn, Grady O. Church, T. R. Grayson, Don Wadsley, Lawrence G. Critcher, J. C. Arledge, Charles G. Day, Jr. (Civilian Air Corps).

chairman of important committees throughout the history of the club. At the conclusion of the tribute Mr. Eshelman pinned a red rose on Kiwanian Finley as a token of the club's esteem and fellowship toward him.

J. B. Snipes stated that the list of farmers selected as guests for June 16 had been notified. He also stated that the men in the county who had been members of the Pig Chain Club are now ready to deliver their total of pigs to the persons or organizations furnishing them with the pigs.

W. D. Halfacre, stated that he had been to Richmond and had seen persons connected with the Flood Control Project for this county. He stated that he did not get much encouragement about the matter, but stated further that Senator Bailey seemed to be getting some results from his end of the effort.

Program Chairman W. A. Stroud brought the club two very impressive farm pictures: "California Cow", and "Raising 'em Right", the latter a picture of pig raising. These pictures were made possible by a contribution of $25,000 from R. J. Reynolds to the Extension Department of State College. Each of the pictures presented a fine lesson. The value of care and attention to the building of a dairy farm and to the raising of valuable hogs, proper breeding, right kind of food, proper housing and other individual attention, all together make the difference between good stock and scrubs.

S. Sgt. Warner Miller, Jr., was a guest of P. E. Forester and Rev. A. C. Waggoner was a guest of Dr. John W. Morris at the meeting.

Mexican motion picture producers expect to make 80 pictures this year.

Quotas Control Number of Tires To "B" Holders

Charlotte. — The local ration boards must await announcement of June quotas before they can do anything about the backlog of approved applications for Grade I tires which have piled up since the announcement that holders of B and C gasoline ration books are eligible for the grade I tires.

A. Monroe Hollingsworth, district OPA rationing executive, for the western North Carolina area, has explained that the new eligibility rules for the B and C book holders went into effect in May. The result was that many applications for grade I tires were approved by the local rationing boards.

The quotas assigned the various boards, however, were hardly changed from the quotas which had been assigned during the periods when grade I eligibility had been limited to only a few holders of high mileage C cards.

The situation created was one in which the local boards approved a great many applications but were unable to issue the actual tire certificates because the quotas were exhausted.

Mr. Hollingsworth said that the local boards simply had their hands tied, and that the fault was not theirs. He said that regional headquarters of the OPA at Atlanta, Georgia, has notified the district officials that there will be no additional grade I quota assignments in this month. Whether the June quotas will be increased to take care of the increased demands for grade I tires was unknown yesterday at district offices, it was said.

Penalty Assessed For Sale Trucks Over Ceiling Price

Charlotte.—Used motor trucks sold at above ceiling prices have recently cost Wilkes county sellers $474.07, according to a report released today by the district office of the Office of Price Administration. This amount, district office officials said, represents overcharges that the sellers have been required to refund to the Treasurer of the United States.

L. W. Driscoll, district director, explained that once a truck is sold for more than the ceiling price, the seller may not clear himself by refunding the overcharge to the purchaser, as a sale of a used truck is a "transaction in the course of trade or business" and repayment must therefore be made to the Treasurer of the United States.

It was pointed out that a heavy fine or imprisonment, or both, is the penalty of wilfully violating the OPA regulation establishing ceiling prices for used trucks.

Dr. Driscoll cautioned persons wishing to buy or sell used motor trucks to go to the nearest War Price and Rationing Board for assistance in figuring the ceiling price of the truck.

Letter From Tennessee

Dear Editor:
We hear much about the churches going to prayer when the invasion starts, but why must we wait until our boys have been sacrificed? Why not pray now and build a wall of protection around them? In Knoxville they are calling the people to prayer by sounding of whistles, bells and sirens. What are we waiting on? Are we too busy to pray and thus fall our boys who have gone out to save us? If all the cities of America could catch a vision of the horrors of this war and remember that God has promised to save if we call, surely the siren calls, mingled with our prayers and tears, would storm the Heavens and the God of Israel would answer as in the days of old. I have four dear brothers in the
