Mrs. Lydia A. Gudger Is Claimed By Death

Moorestville, Jan. 15.—Mrs. Lydia Agnes Kerr Gudger, 91, widow of Arthur Winslow Gudger of Moorestville died at about 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Lowrance hospital, where she had been a patient for 10 days. Mrs. Gudger fell and broke her hip January 5 and had been in the hospital since that time.

A native and lifelong resident of Moorestville and one of the town's oldest citizens, Mrs. Gudger was the daughter of the late David and Mrs. Catherine Deaton Kerr. Had she lived until her next birthday February 17 she would have been 92 years of age. On August 10, 1876, she married the late Mr. Gudger who preceded her in death about three and half years ago.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Kate Rogers of Moorestville, three sons, L. A. Gudger of North Wilkesboro, D. M. Gudger of Moorestville, and A. A. Gudger of Winston-Salem; 18 grandchildren, 18 great-grandchildren and a great-great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at the home on North Main street by Rev. T. H. Swoford, pastor of Central Methodist church, of which Mrs. Gudger was a member.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Gudger attended the funeral of Mr. Gudger's mother, Mrs. Lydia Agnes Gudger, on last Thursday in Moorestville. Those going down for the funeral with Mr. and Mrs. Gudger were Mrs. Irene Meade and son, Robert. Mrs. Gudger was well known here, as she had visited her son often and had made many friends here. Had Mrs. Gudger lived until February the 17th she would have been ninety-two years old. She was a highly respected mother.

Nothing short of acre-by-acre application of all practical measures of proved efficiency will give permanent, practical soil conservation, declares Chief Hugh H. Bennett of the Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service.

STRAW SPREADER
Scatters Straw Evenly

STRAW WINDROWER
Makes Straw-Saving Easy

All-Crop Harvester . . . Queen of the harvest!

Quietly and efficiently it has ended the weariness of shocking and threshing, and taught the new system of home harvesting.

A wide range of attachments increases the All-Crop Harvester's usefulness and versatility in handling over 100 different crops. We can show you how these attachments operate, among them a Scour-Kleen that removes dockage and weed seeds; a straw windrower that combines two swaths in one windrow so that the straw may be saved readily; and a straw spreader that scatters straw back on the land evenly . . . making it easy to plow under for soil-building.
