Big Crowd Attends Yadkin Man's Sale
(Elkin Tribune, Oct. 23)
A Yadkin county farmer, projecting his personal troubles into a unique advertising campaign, pyramided an auction sale of property into one of the biggest sales events ever held in the county last Saturday.
Henry H. Brooks, who lives three miles west of Brooks Cross Roads at Marler, has been allegedly having his troubles since he "got religion" earlier this year at a revival meeting held in the Marler community by Dr. Luther Horn, traveling evangelist.

Since that time, Mr. Brooks stated, everything has gone wrong in his personal life—his wife and family will have little to do with him, his friends turned their backs, and he has been unable to carry on friendly relations with his church, he said a few days ago.
So, distributing a circular throughout the county recently, Mr. Brooks proclaimed that he was intending to hold a sale of his personal property on October 18th.
"The reason for this sale and service is because my wife and family have turned haired against me and destroyed the only home I have on earth," Mr. Brooks stated in his circular.
"I was head of my home so long as I drank, cursed and raised hell and did everything else the devil wanted me to do—then when I tried to turn my back to the devil and everything he stands for, and to do the will of God, my wife and children decided to take over and tell me what I could do. But, bless God, I'll have a home in the clouds one day. If you have any flowers for my grave, please drop them in my path now," the statement continued.
After the circular was issued, Mr. Brooks advertised the sale widely in newspapers, stating that "Funeral services would be conducted at 9 o'clock," an hour before the sale.
Saturday morning by sale time saw the largest crowd ever assembled in the county for a similar event, estimated to total around two thousand persons, with more than five hundred automobiles parked a distance of five and six city blocks from Mr. Brooks' place.
The funeral services, which Mr. Brooks said he thought his wife was going to preach, were never delivered, but after a talk made by the owner was over, a large amount of farming tools and shop tools were delivered to a ready market of buyers who paid well over the new market prices for the second-hand equipment they purchased.
Which just goes to show that it pays to advertise, whether you have troubles like Mr. Brooks or not.

Brookshire-Rainey Marriage at Boomer
Lenoir, October 22.—The wedding of Miss Virgie Lyda Brookshire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Brookshire, of Boomer, and Tedd Hall Rainey, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Rainey, of Lenoir, took place Saturday afternoon, October 18, at 5:30 o'clock at the Little Rock Baptist church at Boomer.
The Rev. Woodrow N. Brookshire, uncle of the bride, officiated. The vows were spoken before a background of greenery and baskets of white dahlias. Seven-branched candelabra held white cathedral tapers.
Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Leo Bowman, pianist, and Mrs. Howard Correll, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music. Mrs. Bowman played "Clair de Lune" by Debussy and "I Love Thee" by Grieg. Mrs. Correll sang "Because" by D'Hardelot and "All for You" by Bertrand Braun. During the ceremony, Mrs. Bowman softly played "Liebestraum" by Liszt. The traditional wedding march from Wagner's "Lohengrin" was used for the recessional.
Charles D. Correll, was the groom's best man, and ushers were Harold E. Rainey and Malcolm Brookshire.
The bride was given in marriage by her father, Herman R. Brookshire. She wore a wedding gown of white fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice, long pointed sleeves and a full skirt ending in a train. The double-tiered veil of illusion was worn with a coronet of orange blossoms, and her bouquet was a white purple-throated orchid surrounded by white gladioli. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, gifts of the bridegroom.
Mrs. Ray Foster, sister of the bride, was matron-of-honor. She wore a gown of aqua taffeta fashioned similar to that of the bride's, and carried a bouquet of yellow mums tied with yellow satin ribbon. Miss Faye Warren was the bridesmaid. She wore a rose taffeta gown and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers tied with blue satin ribbon.
Mrs. Brookshire, mother of the bride, wore a black suit and a corsage of red rosebuds. Mrs. Rainey, mother of the bridegroom, wore a black suit and a corsage of red rosebuds.
After the ceremony, the couple left for a wedding trip to New Jersey and Boston, Mass. For traveling, the bride wore an aqua suit with brown accessories, and a shoulder bouquet of the orchid taken from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Rainey was graduated from Wilkesboro high school, and for the past several years she had been employed by the Southern Telephone Company. During the war, she served as a telephone operator at Camp MacKall, and she worked at the telephone office in Charlotte, and Atlanta, Ga., before coming to Lenoir.
Out-of-town guests for the wedding were Miss Eleanor Sullivan of Charlotte; Odell Brookshire of Langley Field, Va.; Malcolm Brookshire of Union City, N. J.; and Mrs. Ida Brookshire and daughter of Taylorsville.
Cake Cutting
On Friday evening, following the rehearsal of the Rainey-Brookshire wedding, Mrs. Herndon T. Huntley, Jr., and Miss Margaret Chester entertained at a cake cutting at the home of Mrs. Huntley.

Bowls of white flowers decorated the rooms. The dining room table was laid with a lovely linen cut-work cloth, and in the center was a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom, and flanked by an attractive arrangement of ivy and candles.
The bride and groom cut the first piece of cake in the traditional manner, after which it was cut and served by Mrs. Paul Chester. Mrs. Herndon Huntley, Sr. and Mrs. Bryce Moore presided at the punch bowl.
During the evening, Miss Brookshire and Mr. Rainey presented gifts to members of the bridal party, and the guests were asked to register in the bride's book.

Guests included the bridal party, members of both families, and intimate friends of the couple.
In fitting a collar on a horse or mule, it should be put on and so buckled that the sides of the collar are snug enough against the neck to make it feasible to pass the fingers only, held flat, between the rim of the collar and the sides of the neck when the collar is pressed or drawn strongly back against the shoulders.
