Rousseau spent last week with their son and daughters; Mr. Julius Rousseau, Jr., student of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill; Miss Nancy Rousseau, student of Duke University at Durham; and Mrs. J. R. Bailey in Raleigh. On Friday Judge Rousseau attended a meeting of the State Bar Association in Raleigh.

WOODMAN, SPARE THAT CROP TREE

By A. H. MAXWELL, Farm Forester

Woods thinned according to Production and Marketing Administration (formerly AAA) requirements are seen being admired by Wilkes officials: left to right—A. H. Maxwell, Farm Forester, N. C. Division of Forestry; N. L. Wilson, District field man, P&MA; Arlie Forster, county forest warden; H. C. Roberts, chairman county committee; H. C. Colvard, assistant county agent; Prof. C. B. Eller, county superintendent schools; and Charlie Miles, regular member county committee. The woodcutters are Joe Owens, James Greer, Carol Bumgarner, P. W. Greer, and Wilbur Greer. Officials unable to be present were Fred Davis, agriculture teacher, Wilkesboro High; R. E. Dunn, soil conservationist; and Paul Choplin, county agent.

These, together with Chamber of Commerce Forestry and Agriculture committees, are urging all landowners to carry out a woodland betterment project.

According to H. C. Roberts, forest improvement and forest tree planting projects are included in the 1950 P.M.A. program. Work on these projects should be started as soon as possible after reporting intentions and securing approval from the county office. To obtain credit, they must be carried out according to specifications. The thinning and stand improvement practice applies to over-crowded stands under 10 inches in diameter.

Forest trees for planting in December or March should be ordered at once. In-the-woods assistance is available to help farmers do the finest possible job of growing-timber-for-profit, Roberts pointed out.

The woodland pictured is five miles east of North Wilkesboro and is owned by P. W. Greer, principal, Millers Creek school.

Prof. Eller, commenting on the value of forest practices said, "Woodland betterment is one of the greatest needs of Wilkes county."
