Miss Jewel Howard T. B. Lupton, Jr. Married Saturday

The wedding of Miss Jewel Selena Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Howard, of Wilkesboro, and Theodore Berkley Lupton, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Berkley Lupton, of Greenville, was solemnized in a lovely ceremony Saturday, June 24, at the Wilkesboro Baptist church. Rev. W. N. Brophshire, pastor of the church, heard the vows at 5:30 o'clock, using the double ring ceremony.

Florida palms made a background for white cathedral tapers in branched candelabras, arranged amid floor baskets of white gladioli. The choir loft was also banked with the palms, and white satin ribbon marked the pews for the two families.

Gordon Pittentreigh, of Winston-Salem, organist; and Mrs. Joe Lupton, Greenville, soprano, were the wedding musicians. Prior to the ceremony hour Mr. Pittentreigh played a program of nuptial music, after which Mrs. Lupton sang "All For You" and "Be-

FINAL HONOR FOR CIVIL WAR VET

TAKING OVER COMMAND of Stanton Post 55, Grand Army of the Republic, Los Angeles, Calif., Civil War veteran Douglas T. Story, 105, is aided to the rostrum by Mrs. Francis Smith. At right, Mrs. Margaret Thompson pins an orchid on Mrs. Esther Shore, president of the Women's Relief Corps at the post. Story was the lone male member to attend. Only other member was unable to travel. (International) cause" (D'Hardelot), and as a benediction "The Lord's Prayer" (Malotte). The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Joe Osborne, as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Misses Virginia Tesh, Winston-Salem; Lillian Raper, Mt. Olive; Betty Austin, Boone; and Doretta Foster, and the Junior bridesmaids were Sue Ann Lupton, Greenville, sister of the groom; and Judy Yates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Yates, cousin of the bride.

Joe Lupton, of Greenville, was best man for his brother, and serving as ushers were Jack Howard brother of the bride; Tommie Lupton brother of the groom; C. T. Fleming, and Ellis Bedsworth, all of Greenville.

The bride wore a formal wedding gown of Chantilly lace and duchess satin. The bodice was fashioned with portrait neckline edged with a bertha of lace and trim seed pearls. A long tunic of Chantilly lace in handkerchief drape fell from the waist line over the full satin skirt which swept to a long train. Her chapel-length veil of imported illusion fell from a halo of illusion and lace. She carried a spray of white carnations, baby's breath, and lillies of the valley centered with a white orchid with streamers of white satin ribbon. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

The matron of honor was gowned in blue marquisette with white wild rose print, designed with a long full skirt caught in three places in front, a fitted bodice with tiny straps, and a short bolero. Her flowers were a spray of painted daisies arranged in a cascade effect made of pink and blue daisies, baby's breath, and lillies of the valley. Streamers were of a delicate shade of pink, and pink predominated in the flowers.

The bridesmaids wore pink dresses styled similar to that of the matron of honor, while blue was the predominant color in their cascades of flowers. All the bride's attendants wore pearls, and their headresses, in shape of a half crown, were made of matching material.

Mrs. Howard, mother of the bride, wore a powder blue crepe dress with white accessories, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Lupton, and ice blue crepe dress with black accessories. Both had corsages of pink rosebuds.

Following the wedding the bride's parents received at their home on the river road, and at the close of the reception the bridal couple left for a tour through Virginia and West Virginia. For travel the bride changed to a suit of raw silk in popcorn shade, an original of Caliday in California, and a turquoise blouse. In the pocket was a handkerchief of the turquoise color over which was pinned the white orchid from her bouquet, and her accessories were a wheat color.

The bride, a graduate of the Wilkesboro high school, graduated from Woman's College, University of North Carolina at Greensboro with a Business Science Secretarial Administration Degree. For the past three years she has been a teacher at Leaksville high school. The groom, a graduate of the Greenville high school, attended East Carolina State Teachers College at Greenville, and at present is connected with Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company. He served in the Infantry in World War II, and saw overseas duty. The couple will make their home in Greenville.

The Reception

At the reception the ushers greeted the guests at the door and also presented them to the receiving line, which was composed of the bridal couple, their mothers, and the bride's attendants. Mrs. P. J. Mitchell and Mrs. Jay Michael alternated in pouring punch. Mrs. C. T. Rhodes, of Winston-Salem, aunt of the bride, finished cutting the cake after the bride and groom had cut the first slice, and helping with the serving were Mrs. Buren Yates, aunt of the bride, Misses Evelyn Turner, Betty Jo King, and Marie Berrier, all of Leaksville. Others assisting at the reception were Mesdames R. E. Prevette, Joe Lupton and Robert Foster.

On one end of the dining table, which was spread with an imported Italian cutwork cloth, was the punch bowl embedded in an arrangement of white flowers, and on the other end was the three-tiered wedding cake, all in white and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Extending from the cake was green ribbon arranged in triangle effect on which was placed white snapdragons, baby's breath, white carnations, and maiden hair fern. Green and white decorations were used about the dining room, while elsewhere about the home mixed flowers were used in profusion.

Out Of Town Guests

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Lupton, parents of the groom; Mr. Walter Tucker, Mr. Larry Tucker, all of Greenville; Mr. Bill Shumate, Misses Evelyn Turner, Marie Berrier, Betty Jo King, all of Leaksville; Miss Polly Debbs, Lexington; Miss Ella Moore Phillips, Kinston; Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Waddell, Charlotte; Mrs. M. N. Yates, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Honneycut, and Mrs. C. T. Rhodes, all of Winston-Salem; Mr. Al Coon, Pineblake; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Mast, Jr., Valle Crucis, and Miss Lois Sominicht, Rome, Ga.

Russian War Budget Tops U. S. Figure

Moscow, June 14 — The Soviet Union has set aside the equivalent of $19,850,000,000—a figure based on the official value of the ruble — for defense this year.

Finance Minister Arseny G. Zverev announced the sum — 18.5 per cent of the 1950 budget—to the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) at a joint meeting of its two houses.

(The Russian total estimated defense budget is 79,409,000,000 rubles. The official rate of exchange is four rubles to the dollar. Some experts value the ruble's purchasing power at about five cents, or 20 to the dollar.

(Since the Russians officially insist it is worth 25 cents, the defense appropriation figure is nominally $19,850,000,000, more than $6,000,000,000 above the U. S. figure.)

Tobacco markets at Greensboro and Windsor have been designated to receive the free and mandatory inspection and marketing news service of the Production and Marketing Administration.
