

Second Term Appalachian Begins 18th

Boone — The first six-week term of work at Appalachian State Teachers college ended on July 15, and the second six-week term will begin on Thursday, July 18. It is expected that the enrollment for the next term will exceed that for any previous second six-weeks in the history of the institution.

Simultaneously with the opening of the six-week term will also be the beginning of a two-weeks short course. Courses offered during this time include Interpretation and Appreciation of Poetry, School Public Relations—Long Range Planning, and School Public Relations. The intensive Campaign, all taught by Dr. Amos Abrams, associate editor of the North Carolina Education Association Journal; Observation in the Primary Grades and Observation in the Elementary Grades, taught by Mrs. Myrtle B. Wilson; Observation in the High School, taught by Golden T. Buchland; The Use of Library Resources in Teaching, taught by Miss Annie Graham Caldwell, supervisor of libraries in the Winston-Salem (N. C.) City Schools; Educational Psychology, and The Elementary Curriculum, taught by Dr. John H. Springman, superintendent of the public schools of Genieve, Illinois.

The offering for the six-week term will include 176 courses of wide diversity, designed for application to degree credit, certification renewal, and for general helpfulness to the classroom teacher. Many visiting professors from some of the country's best educational institutions have been added to the regular faculty for the summer months.

Euzelians S. S. Class Meeting On Tuesday Is Well Attended

"What Kind of Christians We Are" was the theme for an inspirational talk given by Miss Ruth King Wood at the monthly meeting of the Euzelain Sunday School class of the First Baptist church held Tuesday evening on the Brushy Mountain at the home of Mrs. J. Allie Hayes. Other hostesses serving with Mrs. Hayes were Mrs. T. O. Crowell, Mrs. Clyde Waugh, and Mrs. Clyde Shook, and at the close of the meeting, which was attended by thirty-six members, tempting refreshments were enjoyed.

Miss Marceal Deal conducted the devotions with the prayer being offered by Mrs. J. Floyd Woodward, and Miss Wood, director of religious education of the Presbyterian church, was presented by Mrs. Wayne Foster. Mrs. Hayes, the president, presided for the business session, and during the social hour Mrs. Eddie Morris directed a quiz in which Mrs. Woodward was the winner of the prize.

At Vellore Christian Medical College in South India, Dr. Florence Nichols an American missionary is establishing a neuro-psychiatric unit in the college hospital. In China psychiatrists are teaching at two Christian universities — Dr. Fannie Halpern at the medical school of St. John's University in Shanghai; and Dr. C. Y. Liu at West China Union University in Chengtu. In India, at Dr. E. Stanley Jones' ashram in Lucknow and Sat Tal, psychiatric clinics will be established this autumn by Dr. Dagmar Norell, a Swedish psychiatrist.

Mrs. Henry Roe Cloud, chosen "American Mother of the Year," by the American Mothers Committee of the Golden Rule Foundation is an active member of the first Presbyterian Church, Oregon City, Oregon. A daughter of a Chippewa Indian mother and a German homesteader father, Mrs. Roe Cloud is mother of four daughters, all college graduates. She was her self from Hampton Institute, Virginia. Her late husband was the first Indian to be graduated from Yale University. Their four daughters won scholarships and financed their education with summer jobs. The eldest was the first Indian girl to be graduated from Wellesley. Two of the others went to Vassar. The other attended Stanford. All are married and have children.

Most parents provide little or no training in moral or spiritual values for their children, according to Pres. Clark G. Kuebler, of Ripon College, Wisconsin. He contends that "less than half of the population of this country is identified with any religious group and many who are do not take their religion seriously." For this reason he urges that moral and spiritual leadership as they do intellectual leadership, we will not have to be fearful of the future," Dr. Kuebler says.

Boone — The short courses now being offered for two weeks at Appalachian State Teachers college, have swelled the total enrollment figure for the first summer session to 1303, the largest number ever to enroll at the college for any quarter.

The graduate school enrollment also has increased to 433, as compared to 263 for the same period last year.

Among the students enrolled at Appalachian are 598 graduates of 109 colleges and universities throughout the country. 30 students already hold the master's degree. There are 175 students from 39 of the country's junior colleges.

The geographical distribution of the student body shows that they come from widely scattered points. 78 of North Carolina's 100 counties are represented. In addition there are students from 129 counties in fifteen other states. There is one student each from Puerto Rico, China, and Holland. There are 67 student enrolled from Wilkes county.

Besides North Carolina, the states sending students to Appalachian include Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia.

By far the majority of the students are in-service teachers who are at Appalachian studying the newest educational methods under outstanding educators and bringing themselves up to date on the most modern procedures, so that they can develop a "carry-back" to their classrooms and school communities.

These statistics seem to bear out the fact that the college is becoming more widely known as a regional graduate school and teachers college, serving not only North Carolina, but all the South.

Both the graduate and undergraduate schools are fully accredited and approved by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, the highest accrediting agency for teachers colleges in the country.

In this case FEELING IS BELIEVING

No, the eye does not tell everything —not in this instance.

True, it tells you ROADMASTER is smart. It tells you it's big. It shows, if you watch closely, that this brawny beauty rides level and unperturbed even when road-roughness has its wheels fairly dancing.

A glance may even indicate how much lolling comfort there is here—what wide-open freedom passengers and driver know in this gay traveler.

But how can the eye tell you how you feel touching off the great power that's under this broad bonnet?

How can it reveal the silken, swift-mounting surge of oil-cushioned take-off—smooth, silky, unbroken, as Dynaflo Drive works its magic?

Even when you watch a ROADMASTER settle down to a long steep pull and crest the top going away, how can it tell you what thrill your spirits get from such ability?

And what can it say of the lift that's yours traveling in a beauty that catches all eyes, swivels passing heads, marks you by its very lines as traveling in as fine a car as any man can ask for?

No, these things you have to feel for yourself, and we're delighted to help you do so.

Your Buick dealer wants you to know about ROADMASTER firsthand—wants you to drive it, try it, feel it out.

It doesn't cost a cent to arrange such a trial. It can do a lot toward opening your eyes to the day's highest standard of fine-car feel and fine-car action—not to mention "why pay more?" prices.

How about seeing your dealer right away?

Only BUICK has Dynaflo Drive* and with it goes:

HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD forefront, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights • WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube • WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.
