MISS MAMIE SOCKWELL — EDITOR

Miss Katherine Irvin Feted During Week

This week three delightful pre-nuptial courtesies were extended to Miss Katherine Irvin, who today was married to Claude Bentley, of Pores Knob. On Monday Mrs. Robert Smoak and Miss Norma Smoak gave a luncheon at the Wilkes Hotel for Miss Irvin and her attendants, covers being laid for six at 12:30 o'clock. The honoree received from her hostesses a corsage of white flowers and china in her chosen pattern. Bridal place cards marked the guests positions at the table, which was centered with an arrangement of roses in pastel shades.

Miss Betsy Barber, one of the bridesmaids, honored Miss Irvin at a bridge party given at the Barber home in Wilkesboro Monday evening. An ice course, emphasizing the bridal colors of green and white, was served at the beginning of the game played at three tables, nuptial tallies, and green and white Queen Anne's lace used for decorations, furthered the accepted motif. Top score prize in the bridge game was won by Mrs. W. C. Hayes and the bingo award by Miss Mary Elmore Finley. Miss Barber presented the bride-elect with a corsage of gardenias and a lovely table lamp.

Miss Lucille Vernon, Sandy Ridge, the maid of honor, Miss Eunice Folger, Dobson, and Miss Jeanie Garwood, North Wilkesboro, bridesmaids, entertained at a wedding breakfast this morning at the Carolina Restaurant in honor of Miss Irvin. Covers were laid for ten at a table where the appointments featured the bridal note. The hostess trio remembered the bride-to-be with a gift and a corsage.
