POETICAL.

OUR FLOWERS.

Maggie loves the lily fair,
Sister Annie loves the rose;
Mamma and I, and Willie too,
Adore every flower that blows.

Pa loves the golden buttercup,
Aunt Love the daisy white;
Violet blooming in the shade,
And the roses in the light;

Nurse wallflower and the marigold,
Uncle and the pretty London-pride;
Grace the bluebell hanging down its head,
Cute laughing eye to hide.

Old Tom hollyhock that turns about
Its head to seek the sun;
Dearly do we love the flowers,
And we love them every one.

Far better than our painted toys,
Though gilded bright and gay;
We love the gentle flowers that bloom
In the sunny summer day.

Oh! it is God who made the flowers,
And careth for them all;
And for our heavenly Father's love,
There is not one too small.

He clothes them with the gentle wind,
He feeds them with the dew;
And the Gold who loves the little flowers,
Loves little children too.

BYRON AND HIS DAUGHTER ADA.

We have touched already on his deep affection Ada. Madame Guiccioli tells us that the days in which he received a lock of her hair or her miniature were kept as days of solemnity, and hallowed with inexpressible sadness. Even when in Greece, news of an illness of Ada affected him so deeply that he was not able to continue his journal. "The mother of Ada, he would say to Mme. Guiccioli, has had the smiles of her childhood and her youth, but the tears of her womanhood will be for me." He felt them springing for him warm and fast, afar across the dark valleys of time and through the frozen vapors of death.

Years after, Col. Wildman, the successor of Byron in the proprietorship of Newstead Abbey, met Byron's daughter in the round of London society, and invited her to come and visit the seat of her ancestors. Sixteen months before her death, Lady Lovelace made a visit to Newstead Abbey. In the great library of the Abbey, Col. Wildman read one of the finest passages of Byron to Byron's daughter. Touched with the beauty of the verse she asked who was the author. "The author!" said Colonel Wildman.—"There is his portrait," (pointing to the picture of Byron, by Philips, on the wall of the library) and he recited yet more of Byron's poetry to her. "I can not," she said, "when I tell you that I have been brought up in complete ignorance of all that regards my father."

From that moment a passionate enthusiasm for all that recalled the memory of Byron took possession of her. She loved to shut herself for long hours in the apartments he had lived in, and which still retained much of the furniture which Byron had touched and used. She loved to sleep in the room in which he slept. She gave herself up to lonely meditations on his exiled fate and his premature end, and endeavored, with intense yearning, out of the association of scenes under which his memory lingered, to extract some of that tenderness which she had been deprived in the glory of a great existence From that time all other charms of life became insipid and colorless befor her. This child of Byron was inconsolable.—She had been cruelly disinherited and robbed of the most priceless treasure which it was in the power of heaven to bestow upon her—the parental affection of the noblest, most generous, truest, and most loving heart which ever beat in the bosom of a man. She waned and pined and fell ill—so ill she knew she must die; and then she wrote to Col. Wildman a letter, begging as a favor to let her be buried by the side of her father. "Yes, I will be burried there—not where my mother can join me, but by the side of him who so loved me, and whom I was taught not to love; and this reunion of our bodies in the grave shall be an emblem of the union of our spirits in the bosom of the Eternal." Byron was more than avenged. The father and daughter lie side by side in the village Curch of Hucknall.—Belgravia.

Gen. Quincy Gilmore has been ordered to Savannah to superintend repairs upon Fort Pulaski, which seven years ago he did his best to batter down. The Savannah News thinks it will be useless to repair the fort. "The missiles from the rifled cannon of Gillmore crashed through its walls, although seven and a half feet thick, with a almost as much ease as a riffle bullet could be shot through butter, and the rifled gun of to-day is much more powerful than those whose penetrative power created so much astonishment in 1862."

The town of Corrinne, the last of the mushroom cities that sprang up and vanished as the Union Pacific railroad progressed, seems likely to become a permanent city. Though not more than three months old, it has upwards of ten thousand inhabitants, municipal organization, several hotels, dry goods, auction and commission stores, a banking house, and and a daily paper. The streets have been numbered as high as "Thirteenth," and municipal ordinances looking to the health and leanliness of the city are enforced by efficient police. The daily paper is crowded with advertising, and indicates exceeding activity in business.—Corinne must be set down as one of the wonders of the interior.

The Murphys, near San Jose, have probably the most extensive and productive ranch in California. They own over 100,000 head of cattle and are raising this year 100,000 calves.—They have recently sold in San Francisco 20,000 head of cattle for $30 a head. The stories of the magnitude of farming operations in California are almost incredible. One farmer, near San Jose, has 80,000 sheep. Another, near Sacramento, paid out last fall $10,000 for bags to put his crop wheat in.

California luxuriates in peaches from June to October, strawberries from April till November, and in fact every month in the year; grapes from June to November, and pears from July 15 till Christmas.—The farmers commence harvesting in June and continue until the rainy season sets in October. New potatoes are selling in the principal markets at one cent a pound; flour at $5 a barrel; fresh salmon, weighing 20 pounds, at 37 cents each; and strawberries and cherries from 8 to 10 cents a pound.

The Queen of Puddings.—Take one pint of nice bread crumbs, add one cup of milk, one cup sugar, the yolk of four eggs well beaten, the rind of a fresh lemon grated fine, then bake until well done. Now beat the whites of the four eggs to a stiff froth, adding a tea cup of powdered sugar in which has been previously stirred the juice of a lemon. Spread over the pudding a layer of jelly (any kind to the taste,) then pour the whites of the eggs over, and put into the oven until lightly browned. Serve with cold cream. It is the richest pudding known to the science of cookery.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

RELIEF FOR THE SORELY AFFICTED.

It was the misfortune of the undersigned to have suffered, as few have every suffered before, for six long and gloomy years, from an affection of his feet and legs, superinduced by overwork, during the first year of the late war. During all that time, he was compelled to drag his emaciated frame about, on crutches. In vain he invoked the best medical talent of the country; and visited the most celebrated medicinal Springs. Worn down and exhausted, he gave up all hope of recovery. At this stage of his case, having been governed by his medical friends from the beginning, he determined to adopt a method of treatment, the result of his own reflection. It is enough to say, that this method is not so much new, as it is, the more skillful application of what has been long known, and attempted by the Physicians.

After some weeks of the most unwearied and persevering efforts, he was rewarded with the most gratifying results. Indeed, his rapid improvement and recovery, was almost magical—so much so, that in looking back upon his condition a year ago, he can, even now, hardly realize the truly wonderful improvement.

Profoundly grateful for this extraordinary blessing, he is desirous of being the means of diffusing similar benefits to those who may be similarly afflicted. He therefore, proposes not only to treat, but CURE, all manner of diseases of the lower extremities, such as old and ill-conditioned Ulcers, Scrofula, Varicose Veins, Swellings, &c., &c., by a treatment, that no restrictions are imposed on the patient as regards diet, exercise, &c., and for the most part, little or no medicine is used.

The charges shall be in accordance with the general depression of the times; and those really indigent, will be treated "without money and without price."

CAUTION! WE desire to warn the dealers in, and consumers of snuff generally, that since the war, certain tobacco manufacturers, being unable to find a market for their snuffs, felt themselves obliged to counterfeit the general appearance of our packages, and imitate our Trade Marks, so that a close inspection is necessary to detect the spurious article from the genuine, and others going so far as to assert that "Lorillard's Snuff is no longer made."

In making this publication we desire to warn the public against the imposition practiced upon them; as they are the losers thereby. It will be found upon comparison that Lorillard's Snuff is "far ahead" of all others, being made of the best stock, after an original and secret process known only to ourselves, besides possessing great age, strength and pungency, and is warranted not to contain any dangerous or deleterious substances, which cannot be said of the many worthless articles put on sale by others. The best is the cheapest in the end. A circular will always be mailed on application. In ordering please specify if Salt Snuff (High Toast,) or Fresh Snuff (Extra Scotch) is desired.

INSURANCE COMPANIES.

THE NATIONAL
Life Insurance Co'p'y
OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.
WASHINGTON, D. C.

Chartered by special act of Congress, July 25, '68.

Cash Capital paid in full $1,000,000.

It is no longer a question with any man, who tenderly loves his wife and children, who considers how helpless would be their condition in case of his death, as to the duty of taking out a LIFE POLICY, but as to which Company he shall pay his money.

If he reflects a moment he will conclude to patronize the Company which shows the greatest degree of vitality, which extends its business over the largest area, which is a Home Company in every locality; which furnishes insurance at the least cost; which issues no policies that are forfeitable should he be unable next year, or any subsequent year to pay his renewal; and which is undoubtedly able to meet all its promises.

With these feelings and views, he looks over the newspapers, and, by the time he gets through reading the advertisements of Mutual or Mixed Companies, he finds his mind so fuddled that he is at a loss where to go or what to do. He can not comprehend one-half that is written, and concludes that none but Auctuaries who are familiar with the principles upon which Life Insurance is based, can comprehend or explain anything about dividends and his liability for notes given in part payment of premiums. In his dilemma, he looks into the plan adopted by the National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, and finds just what he wants:

AN ALL CASH PLAN, reduced to the lowest minimum rate, like any commodity in market, so much Insurance for so much Money.—No notes to give; no interest to pay; no anxiety about Assessments; no apprehension of his Policy being forfeited next year if he does not pay his annual Renewal; and the Rates so much Lower than other Companies, that he realizes a larger Dividend, in advance, than other companies can pay him in the future.

He finds that, instead of this uncertain promise, at present high rates, that the National presents a certain and definite sum for a much lower rate and puts up its paid up Capitol of

$1,000,000

As a guarantee fund, that its contracts will be fulfilled, and, like thousands of others, cheerfully calls on their Agent to make his application for a Policy. Hence the unprecedented and most wonderful success of the National as contrasted with the older and Mutual Companies.

The Company issued its first policy on the 1st of August, 1868, and up to March 1st, 1869, it had issued 3,582 policies.

Amount insured	$10,995,550 00
Total premiums	370,117 63

The whole number issued by the Connecticut Mutual in the first year of its existence was 892
By the Mutual Benefit of New Jersey, 633
" New England Mutual, 344
" Phoenix Mutual, 355
" Massachusetts Mutual, 342
" Equitable of New York, 277
The Mutual Life, of New York, in the first year of its existence, only issued 470 policies.
In its 10th year, 1,250 "
And in its 20th year, 2,842 "
this latter being 630 less than was issued by the NATIONAL in its first seven months.

THIS elegant and truly valuable Medicine, has from time to time, been in extensive use, for the last twenty-five years. It has been sold, and is well known in many of the Southern cities and towns, viz; Charleston, Savannah, Augusta, Atlanta, Charlotte, Columbia, &c., and is highly valued, by the multitudes of people who have used it. Many in this town and surrounding country, have enjoyed its benefits, and will no doubt, well remember it. The Medicine is pleasant to take, and perfectly free from the possibility of harm, under any circumstances or conditions of health,—indeed it is perfectly safe, even for an infant. PECTORAL BALM!

AN approved and effectual Remedy for Chronic Bronchitis—Asthma; the wasting Coughs in advanced age;—Bleeding from the Lungs, &c., and capable of doing more real service in confirmed Consumption, than all the Expectorants, Cough Mixtures, &c., extant.

It is scientifically compounded of ingredients well known for their virtues and adaptation to the diseases named; and is the result of long and extensive experience and patient investigation of the laws of the animal economy; together with an intimate knowledge of remedial agents, in their physiological and therapeutic effect on the human system.

It is quite unlike the numberless Expectorants, Pectorals &c., so recklessly and persistently palmed upon the suffering and confiding people; in the fact, that it is not an Expectorant, per se; nor is it loaded with Opium or Morpine, in order to lull the poor sufferer with its delusive influences. Many a valuable life has been sacrificed and expectorated into a premature grave. On the contrary, it is calculated to check excessive expectoration, which of itself is exceedingly exhaustive, and by its general and specific action, to heal and soothe the weak, inflamed and irritated organs.

Of the several ingredients which compose this valuable BALM, there is no one, which is not constantly used, by the best Physicians, in the diseases above enumerated, and of many eminent medical gentlemen, to whom its composition has been made known, there has not been one, who has not highly approved it; and in some instances, have not only prescribed it for their patients, but have used it in their own cases, with marked advantage.
