FATAL DUELS!

The Wetumpka Argus states, on the authority of a private letter, that a Duel was fought on the 12th ultimo, in Edgefield, (S. C.) between Col. Wigfall and Preston 3. Col. Johnson, by a public meeting in Indi- Brooks, Esq., (growing out of the difficulty mentioned in our last paper,) which resulted in both being mortally wounded.

A Duel was lately fought, on Natchez Island, between H. B. Barbour, Esq., and Dr. G. C. McWhorter, both of Vidalia, (Lou.) At the first fire, Barbour received the ball of his antaganist in his body, which caused his death in about 20 hours.

Another took place, a few days after, in Louisiana, opposite Vicksburg, between John M. Chilton and Robert E. Harris, both of the latter place. Harris fell at the first fire, with his left leg broken and a severe flesh-wound in the right.

From the Raleigh Register of Dec. 22, 1840. STATE LEGISLATURE.

On Thursday last, the following gentlemen (all Whigs) were re-elected Councilors of State, viz :- John A. Anderson, of Hertford, Willie Perry, of Franklin, Thomas McGhee, of Person, Johnston Busbee, of Wake, Isaac T. Avery, of Burke, James P. Leak, of Richmond, and Allen Goodwin, of Chatham.

On Friday, William H. Battle, of this City, was elected a Judge of the Superior Courts of Law and Equity, to which situation he had been temporarily appointed by the Governor and Council. He was chosen on the second trial, his only opponent being Judge Saunders. We gave the first vote in our last paper, and the second stood thus :- Battle 91, Saunders 63, Scattering,

From the Raleigh Register of Dec; 25.

The Senate has been engaged principally, this week, in considering the subject of Common Schools, and in devising measures to remedy the defects of the system as established at last session. Three or four different Plans are before the Legislature, and there seems to be a fixed determination not to adjourn, without doing something effectual to this important matter.

OBITUARY. I am no friend, Messrs, Editors, to indiscrip nate and often idle enlogies of the virtues of deceased friends; but when an individual of great moral worth and eminent piety departs from our midst, their virtues should be recorded for the benefit and admonition of the living The death announced in your last week's paper of Mrs. Margaret Hall, consort of Joseph Hall, Esq, of Davie County, was indeed a great loss to the circle of society in which she moved. An affectionate and dutiful wife and a kind and indulgent mother, she was deated upon almost as the guardian angel of her family, while their affections were still closer knit to her, by the assiduous care and gentle nursing it had required to sustain her for a number of years under a severe affection of the liver. As a neighbor and friend, she was universally beloved and highly valued by all who knew herwith a hand ever ready to distribute charity where it was needed, and a heart ever sympathising with the afflicted. Long will the writer of this poor tribute to the worth of Mrs. Hall, remember the many kindnesses and lessons of

As a professor of religion, Mrs. Hall was always the same thing-warm and zealous. It was her custom to read much in the Sacred Scriptures and such books as would tend to prepare ber for the eternal world; and well did her life shadow forth the divine influences thus ubtained. Mrs. H professed religion at the early age of 18, and to her death, when in her 70th year, she evidenced by her conversation and actions that the change of heart she professed was real and of holy origin. At her death, she was a devout and highly valued member of the Presbyterian Church.
