We believe these are the sentiments of the Whig party of this District, and we do hereby instruct our representative in the proposed Whig Convention to give effect to these sentiments in that body-subservient, however, to the great object of the Whig National Convention to select a suitable candidate of the Whig party.

Resolved. That we do nominate and appoint Joseph P. Caldwell, Esq., of Iredell County, and the Hon. Nathaniel Boyden his alternate, as the Delegate from this District, and do recommend them to the favorable consideration of the Counties composing this Congressional District.

Maj. Alexander Church offered the following Resolutions :

Resolved, That the Chairman of this meeting transmit a copy of the Resolutions and proceedings to Joseph P. Caldwell, Esq., and to the Hon. Nathaniel Boyden.

Resolved, That the Editors of the Salisbury Watchman and Raleigh Register be requested to publish these Resolutions and proceedings. JOHN FINLEY, Ch'n.

THE RAIL ROAD MEETING.

The Charlotte Journal of the 3d inst. says: The steps taken at the Court House on Tuesday evening last, to further the prospect of our Rail Road, were very decided ones, so decided in fact, and so important, that we look upon them, as building the road. If the action had not been taken, that was, we should have look. ed upon the undertaking as one in the last agonies of despair; but as it has resulted, we are happy to say, that in perspective we can see the steam engine come speeding on its iron up to the very "garitas" of Charlotte. We understand that the impression the business of the Road, so far as North Carolina was concerned, went on to explain, much to the satisfaction of those present, why the success of the road was doubtful unless some such action was had, as that expressed in Mr. Wilson's resolution. Vide proceedings.

He showed that unless the road came on this side of Chesterville, that Charleston to whom we look for aid, would never subscribe a sixpence to the road; because she gets all of the trade of that country any how, but as soon as you come in this direction, and she sees she can tap the vast and fet undeveloped resources of the Yadkin and Catawba vallies, she puts her hand in her pocket to help the undertaking. Mr. Palmer's nid we might confidently rely too for assistance from the South Carolina Legislature, when it saw that the work was going on with determination and spirit, that no ulterior motive prompted the last session of that body, in not making appropriations to this road; they were only waiting for those engaged in this work to develope their enterprise, manifest their energies, and make a practical demonstration the treaty, accompanied the train. of their zeal and interest in it; and that the motive which induced them to withhold their aid from the Wilmington and Manchester road, was one of policy State policy that road would be a mere travelling one and would not add materially to the capital, industry or com-

PROSPECTUS

SOUTHERN PRESBYTERIAN.

THE Committee appointed by the Synod of Georgia at its late meeting in Milledgeville, to issue a Prospectus and take other measures preliminary to the publication of a paper devoted to the doctrines and order of the Pres-yterian Church, respectfully submit to the public, 1. THE NECESSITY OF SAID PAPER -In all that portion of the Southern country between Richmond and New Orleans, not a single paper of the Presbyterian Church is published. The vast and important region intermediate, is emphatically "The South." All will concede that it should be furnished with papers of its own. No friend of the South would wish to see it left destitute or even partially supplied. That supply is now partial, for distant papers, destitute as they must be of local interest, can never become either proper organs for and with our Churches, or proper advocates of our institutions; and therefore cannot so interest the feelings of our people, as to secure among them a general circulation. Hence it is, few comparatively of our Church members can be induced to take papers-sustained because they are their own. Other denominations, too, have theirs. Their zeal we honor, their example we would emulate. Duty seems, therefore, to demand that the Presbyterian denomination in the South should have upon their own soil, their own paper, devoted to their own interests and adapted to their II. Its Location.—The central position of Georgia and the facilities afforded by her Rail Roads, give her a decided preference in this respect, in reference to the other States included in the above mentioned field. Milledgeville was designated by the Synod as the place of issue, it is presumed, among other reasons, because it is the attention. Capital and affords to an extent unsurpassed by any other place in the State, all the facilities, as well of publication as of communication with other portions of the country. III. ITS CHARACTER.—As its name imports, it will be Southern and Preseyterian; Southern in its designs and its spirit; decidedly Presbyterian in its Principlesan exponent of our doctrines and order, a medium of communication for all our Churches, an advocate of all our institutions. But while it is thus denominational in its character, it will be liberal in its views, expansive in its charity, wide in its embrance of the great interests of the Church of Christ, and our common country-will aim also at being rich in religious instruction and fervid with the Christian spirit-adapted to family reading, not overlooking the lambs of the flock. In a word, its design will be "the edification of the Body of Christ," in all things pertaining to life and godliness.

IV. Its Size, Quality, Terms, Editor, &c .- It will FARM BUILDINGS, a good GRIST and be issued weekly, on a super-royal sheet, as large as the late Charleston Observer, with fair type and good mechanical execution, at THEEE DOLLARS per unnum, ALWAYS IN ADVANCE. The Rev. Washington Baird has been solicited and has consented to become its Editor. Of him it is not too much to say, that he is a sound and able divine, a good scholar, a successful writer, and a man of untiring industry. He will be aided by others, but the sole responsibility will devolve upon him.

V. CORRESPONDENTS AND AGENTS .- It is expected that correspondents will be secured in each city and in every Presbytery throughout the region of country in which it is designed the paper shall circulate. Agents also will be employed, to whom a liberal per centage will be allowed. In short, it is contemplated that the paper shall be an able, zealous, and efficient organ of the Southern Presbyterian Church
