

POETICAL.

ONWARD STILL.

Onward, brothers! though we're weary,
Though the way seems long and dreary;
Pause not now to view the past,
Flinch not! flinch not! at the last;
Nerve each heart
To take a part,
Till the Rubicon is passed—
Onward! onward still!

AGRICULTURAL.

From the Baltimore American Farmer.

INTERESTING TO WOOL GROWERS.

The following letter from the Hon. Samuel Lawrence, one of the most intelligent and extensive woolen manufacturers in the Union, will be received as highly interesting by our entire agricultural community.

It is now twelve years since we first called attention to the policy of increasing this particular department of rural industry, and we have been gratified to observe its gradual increase, still, as is proved by the subjoined letter, there is a large horizon, an extensive verge yet to be filled up.

My Dear Sir:—Your very kind and interesting favor of the 27th ult., came duly to hand, and should, if practicable, have received an earlier reply. The business of wool growing in this country is destined to be of immense importance; and I am firm in the belief that within twenty years we shall produce a greater quantity of wool than any other nation.

You ask, "Is the present home demand supplied?" There is not enough annually raised in the country by 10,000,000 pounds, to meet the demand of the manufacturers.

You ask, "What countries can we export wool to?" &c. This country will not export wool regularly for fifteen years, for the reason that the consumption will increase as rapidly as the production. I can point out articles made of wool now imported, which will require thirty millions of pounds of a medium and fine quality to support the consumption.

The business of manufacturing wool in this country is on a better basis than ever before, inasmuch as the character, skill and capital engaged in it is such that foreign competition is defied. A very few years, and all articles of wool used here will be of the home manufacture.

Now I beg of you to keep the wool-growers steadily to the mark. Let them aim to excel in the blood and condition of their flocks, and the day is not far distant when they will be amply remunerated. I shall always have great pleasure in hearing from you, and remain yours, most truly,

SAMUEL LAWRENCE.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY IMPROVEMENTS.

In conversation with Mr. John Funk, of Washington county, one of the most successful farmers of that region, he related a circumstance which we deem worthy of noticing, as evincing the spirit of improvement which is abroad in Montgomery county. Several years ago he mentioned to us the purchase by his father, of a tract of several hundred acres of land in the latter county; the old gentleman sent some of his family to settle on the farm, to cultivate it—but they soon found that naturally excellent limestone land of their own county, to which they had been accustomed. After laboring for some time upon this tract, and drawing their support from the homestead in the meantime, they were finally compelled to give it up as a bad job, and returned to their former residence, glad to escape from what they deemed an irreclaimable desert; the place was disposed of, and the speculation turned out very disastrously to the old gentleman and his family. The spirit of improvement which has taken possession of the farmers of Montgomery, has, however, extended to this very barren waste, and our friend informed us, that in conversation recently with gentlemen who have passed through that country, he has heard, that on that very tract, the purchase of which had nearly ruined his sire, the luxuriant fields bore evidence that its fertility was now equal to any of the very best lands of Washington county. The attempt at improvement, by the Messrs. Funk, was no doubt upon the same system which was followed in Washington county, and most probably, notwithstanding their industry and indomitable perseverance, the same barrenness would have ensued in the letter, ere this, had not their lands been so deeply imbued with a limestone formation. But even now, their fertility is decreasing, and analysis shows that but a very small portion of lime is discernable in the soil, whilst the water is deeply impregnated with it.

We learn from one of our subscribers in Boonsboro, Mr. Davis, who is enthusiastic in his devotion to the improvement of the lands of his neighborhood, that that pest of the farmer, sheep sorrel, is very rapidly taking possession of much of the land in that county, and that if something is not done to arrest its progress, the direct results cannot be anticipated. He has set himself to work to remedy the evil, and from the experiments made by him, he believes he has found in lime and ashes an antidote; therefore, Mr. Davis is a great advocate for the use of ashes, and though he found some difficulty in inducing his tenants to spread them upon their fields, after they were purchased for them, yet now, the effects upon their crops have been so salutary, that they have become convinced of their great value. By reading the "Farmer," and having the lights of the experience of others as detailed in its pages placed monthly before him, Mr. D. is highly improving his estate.

A COUNTRY LAWYER,
"ON HAND" FOR HIS CITY
"RIEND."

Five-and twenty years ago, when this western region was scarcely settled—when the country bar-room was the place of common resort, and before those old fashioned bar-room stories and songs had yielded to the gossip now heard in old drinking saloons, there was a certain set of good humored, free and easy individuals, whose custom it was to "foregather" at the "inn" of old—, in Ellicottville, Cateaugus county. Conspicuous among this set was Councillor G., whose "rough" yet "ready" wit had spread his fame abroad throughout all that section of "ked'n'ry." Another member was a gentleman whom we call X.

These, with others, whiled away many a winter evening, telling stories, smoking the pipe, and quaffing mugs of hot flip—a "fluid" now almost forgotten. But time separated this jolly company as it does others; and the subsequent history of the Councillor and the worthy Mr. X. was as diverse as their fortunes. G. plodded on with his "capriases," and "sash-er-rare-ers" at Ellicottville. X. in due time became engaged in responsible duties here.

Legal business at distant intervals, called the lawyer to buffalo, and he was, of course, glad to see his old friend; but X., engrossed in business, or for reasons of his own, had not much time to talk over "old times" and, without intending, probably gave him the cold shoulder. The man of law noted this indifference, and possessing in wit what the other did in wealth—in readiness what the other did in rhino—determined to ascertain whether X. really meant to "cut" him or not. Meeting him the next day in the street he said:

"X., my old friend, how d' do?"
"Well, very well; how are you?"
"I say, X., I've noticed several times lately that you've rather avoided me than otherwise and I ain't going to stand any such gammon."
"Why, what?"
"We use to be mighty good friends up in Ellicottville, and I don't know why we shouldn't be here."
"Ah, but my dear sir—"
"O, it's no use talking; just go in here, now, and treat as you used to."
"Well, let's go in."
And they entered a small "one-horse grocery," where the "cheap and nasty" was dealt out by the small. X. gave a nod to the mixer behind the bar, and said:

"Just give my friend here some beer and what crackers and cheese he wants and charge it to me." G. he remarked: "You must excuse me now; for I've a great many things to attend to and can't stay any longer;" after which he left. "Well, if that isn't cool," said G. "then I'm no judge." Having dispassionately imbibed his beer, he stopped a minute or two to consider. "I say bar-keeper!" "Yes, sir." "Have you got plenty of crackers and cheese?" "Yes, sir." "How much will the cheese weigh?" "About sixty pounds a piece." "Full sixty?" "Sixty and no mistake!" "Well, just send over to the Farmer's Hotel, where I stop, four of these cheeses and three barrels of crackers, and charge them to Mr. X., will you? You heard him say I was to have what crackers and cheeses I wanted!"

"Yes, sir." "And send them down soon because I expect my team 'll be here in a little while, and I shall want 'em all ready." "Certainly, sir." The four cheeses and three barrels of crackers were sent down, and in due course of time Mr. X. was presented a bill for the same, which he paid, confessing at the same time that although rather expensive, the joke was nevertheless a good one. He never afterwards gave the cold shoulder to Councillor G.

OLD SAWS NEW SET.

BY OUR JEEEMS.

"Dependence is a poor trade to follow."—That depends upon what you depend on. A man may sometimes come to something by following a poor trade—provided he follows it well. "Diligence is the mistress of success."—There is no doubt of that; but to prevent scandal it ought to be stated that the intimacy between them is purely Platonic—they never sleep together. "Discord reduceth strength weakens."—The same thing may be said of another cord, which it would be Newgatory to designate. "Don't hallow till your out of the wood."—This is a very old saw, and is so much worn with use, that it is not worth setting. "Don't throw your opinions in every body's teeth." You may set it down as orthodox, (although it sounds like paradox,) that the more freely you bestow your opinions on your neighbor, the less opinion he will have of you.—Bost. Post.

TIMING IT.—A minister in the Highlands of Scotland found one of his parishioners intoxicated. The next day he called to reprove him for it. "It is very wrong to get drunk," said the parson. "I ken that," said the guilty person, but then I dinna drink as mickle as you do." "What sir! how is that?" "Why, gin it please ye, dinna ye aye take a glass o' whiskey and water at dinner?" "Why, yes Jemmy, surely I take a little whiskey after dinner merely to aid digestion." "And dinna ye take a glass of whiskey toddy every night before going to bed?" "Yes, to be sure, I just take a little toddy at night to help to sleep!" "Well," continued the parson, that is just fourteen glasses a week and sixty every month. I only get paid off once a month, and then if I'd take sixty glasses, it would make me dead drunk for a week; now ye see the only difference is, ye time it better than I do!"

LAW ANECDOTE.

Some time before the abolition of the Jesuits a gentleman in Paris died, and left all his estate for an only son, then abroad, to that body of religious men, on condition that on his return the worthy fathers should give him what ever they should choose. When the son came home, he went to the convent, and received a very small share indeed; the Jesuits choosing to keep the greater share themselves. The young gentleman consulted his friends, and all agreed that he was without a remedy. At last a barrister to whom he mentioned his cause, advised him to sue the convent and promised to gain him his cause. The young man followed his advice, the suit terminated in his favor through the management of his advocate, who grounded his plea on this reasoning. The testator says he has left his son that share of the estate which the fathers should choose. Now 'tis plain what part they have chosen by what they keep themselves. My client then stands on the words of the will. "Let me have, says he, the part they have chosen, and I am satisfied." It was accordingly awarded to him without hesitation.

It is stated among the numerous arrests in Paris during the recent troubles were at least three Americans;—one from Boston, one from New York and the other from South Carolina.

DR. LE ROY'S
Wild Cherry and Sarsaparilla Pills,
Are a strengthening Purgative and a Purifying Tonic.

DR. Le Roy's Pills are a new medicine which has just appeared, and is fast taking the places of all others of the same class. These pills are composed of many ingredients, but the two principal ones are Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry, so united that they act together; the one, through its admixture with other substances, purifying and purging, while the other is strengthening the system. Thus those pills are at the same time tonic and opening; a desideratum long and eagerly sought for by medical men, but never before discovered. In other words they do the work of two medicines, and do it much better than any two we know of; for they remove nothing from the system but the impurities; so that while they purge they strengthen; and hence they cause no debilitation, and are followed by no re-action. Dr. Le Roy's Pills have a wonderful influence on the blood; they not only purify without weakening it, but they remove all noxious particles from the chyle before it is converted into fluid, and thus make impure blood an utter impossibility. As there is no debilitation, so there is no nausea or sickness attending the operations of this most excellent of medicines, which never strains or tortures the digestive functions, but causes them to work in a perfectly natural manner; and hence persons taking them do not become pale and emaciated, but they are able to eat and sleep as usual. The Sarsaparilla, united as it is with other ingredients, to remove all that is impure, it is equally the property of the Wild Cherry to retain all that is natural and sound; and hence a robust state of health is the certain result of their united operations.
