

Capitalist

VOL. XVIII. SALISBURY, N. C., NOVEMBER 27, 1860. NUMBER 28.

Devoted to Politics, News, Agriculture, Internal Improvements, Commerce, the Arts and Sciences, Morality, and the Family Circle.

J. J. BRUNER
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
TERMS
Single copy $2.00
Six months $10.00
One year $18.00
In advance.
The following Court and other notices are published for sale by the printer. Copy by mail to any part of the country, at usual rates.

BLANKS

The following Court and other notices are published for sale by the printer. Copy by mail to any part of the country, at usual rates.

Our Federal Relations—What Should be Done?

The Presidential election is now decided by a procedure of a doubt. The election of Abraham Lincoln, the candidate of the Republican party of the North, to preside over and direct the destinies of this great confederacy, presents an important question to all Americans.

It inaugurates a new era in our history, and dates the commencement of a new policy with our Government. It brings us face to face with revolution. The Constitution is deep and universal in its scope. Whole sections of the Union, whose inhabitants feel that they have been wronged, and that every consideration of international comity and fraternal regard has been despised and set aside.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

Further spread of Southern institutions, and thus, by confining them within certain fixed limits, place them in a state of ultimate extinction." On the 10th of July of the same year, he proved his qualifications for administering a government by declaring: "I have always held slavery, I think, as much as any Abolitionist."

Such are the views of Mr. Lincoln, and his party, and in giving them, we have presented nothing but the contrary have allowed them to speak for themselves.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

THE WAR IN CHINA.
Capture of the Taku Forts by the Anglo-French forces, and suspension of hostilities.

The mail of last night put us in possession of our first copy of the capture of the Taku Forts, which led to the surrender of the Province of Peking upon a guarantee of the cessation of further hostilities.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

Handwritten notes:
S. S.

COURTESY

Courtesy is not merely a conventional form of politeness; it is a reality of the heart. It is the quality of mind that makes a person who is habitually courteous generally generous, and his courtesy is not a mere affectation, but a genuine feeling of respect for others.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.

It is a question of some moment upon this important question of our rights, and to accompany them with a few suggestions for our individual views. The Constitution is the basis of our Government, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold it.